TRIBUTE PAID PERCY FROST

5,000 POTTERS CEASE WORK AS BODY GOES TO RESTING PLACE

Funeral is Held From St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

EULOGY GIVEN

W. E. Wells Speaks at Elks' Ritualistic Services.

Five thousand pottery workers paid homage today to the memory of the late Percy Frost, expert decorator, by ceasing operations as his body was carried to its resting place in Riverview cemetery.

Hundreds of friends taxed the capacity of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, West Fourth street, where funeral services were conducted at 1:30 p. m. by Rev. Lionel C. Difford, rector of the church of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. Robert Kell, of the Symphony church, Baltimore, Md., but formerly of East Liverpool.

Simplicity Marks Services.

Simplicity marked the services. Rev. Mr. Kell discussed his relations with Mr. Frost while he was rector of the local church and lauded the deceased's efforts in the interest of religion. Musical selections were given by the church choir under the direction of Prof. Albert E. Clark.

Numerous floral tributes, which banked the casket, gave testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by his friends. Many of the designs came from potery manufacturers, merchants and professional men.

The pallbearers included Joseph T. Croxall, Joseph Birbeck, John Parker, Fred Mason, O. E. McCoy and Samuel Millwood. The services were attended by many members of the Elks' lodge and a large number of pottery manufacturers.

Operations in the potteries of the local district were stilled during the afternoon as a mark of respect for the deceased.

Thousands View Body.

Thousands of persons viewed the body of Mr. Frost as it lay in state in the Elks' temple, West Fifth street, last evening. From 6 o'clock until about 7:15 o'clock, when the doors of the club were closed to all but lodge members and their families, a steady stream of friends, with heads bared, passed by the bier. The casket rested in the northern end of the lodge room. Directly in back of it was suspended a large American flag. Floral emblems surrounded the casket.

Seven Officials of Indore Held For Attack On Girl and Lover

Aide de Camp of Maharajah, Two Step Uncles and Sister of Mutilated Dancer are Among Prisoners.

BOMBAY, Jan. 21—Seven officials of the native state of Indore, including the aide de camp of the Maharajah himself, whose royal favor proved a curse to the beautiful Nautch girl, Mumtaz Begum, were under arrest today in connection with the attack on the girl and her lover.

Extradition has been asked for the seven under arrest, who include Captain Dihje, aide de camp to the Maharajah and an officer of the Indore Infantry; Akbar of the Indore mounted police, inspector Mumatz of the Indore police; Imperial Lancer Karmat; Chauffeur Latif and Bahadur, brother of Akbar.

Eight arrests made in Bombay include two step uncles of the mutilated dancer, her sister and the chauffeur of the late Bawla.

Wealthy Merchant Slain.

The arrests were made at Indore where they created a great sensation.

Abdul Bawla, wealthy Bombay merchant with whom the beautiful young dancer fell in love, when she fled from the opulent luxury she enjoyed as the Maharajah's favorite, was killed in the attack. Lieut. Seagrave of the British Royal Engineers, was seriously wounded when he attemped to aid the couple.

Mumtaz, her features swathed in bandages concealing how well the attackers carried out their intention of making mockery of her beauty, was still held in hiding today, under police guard, in fear of further attacks.

The arrests today bear out the intention of the authorities to run the attackers to earth "no matter how high their station." India was wrought up to a high pitch by the attack a week ago and a reward of 10,000 rupees was offered for information leading to the arrest of the assailants.

LABOR HONORS LATE CHIEF AT MEET TONIGHT

Gompers Memorial Services in Trades Council Hall.

PUBLIC INVITED

Three Personal Friends of Mourned Leader Will Speak.

A memorial service in honor of the late Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who died about six weeks ago will be conducted by Trades and Labor council, at an open meeting in Trades and Labor council hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The public is invited to attend.

A message from William Green, Coshocton, who succeeded Mr. Gompers as head of the Federation, will be read.

J. C. Higgins, president of the council, will preside. Tributes will be paid the late labor chieftain by three personal friends.

The National Brotherhood of Operative Potters was represented at the El Paso convention of the Federation, following which Mr. Gompers was stricken.

Road Beautifying Committee of C. of C. Plans Early Meet

A meeting of a special committee from the Chamber of Commerce to study ways and means of beautifying the roads leading into East Liverpool by planting trees and other shrubbery will be held within the next few days, it was announced today.

Wilson Smith, John Deil, L. C. Cooper and J. T. Croxall, members of the committee, will ask the state forestry division to co-operate.

The tree planting movement will likely be adopted for the Lincoln Highway, north of the city, and possibly one or two other main highways. Ways and means of financing the project will also be considered.

DR. D. W. MacLEOD SHOP SPEAKER

Dr. Donald W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be the speaker at a noon-day shop meeting in the Edwin M. Knowles pottery, Newell, Thursday.

Dr. MacLeod will fill the place of Adjutant John Dean of the Salvation Army, who will be unable to be present.

PRUSSIAN DIET TUMULT SCENE

BERLIN, Jan. 21—There was a wild tumult in the Prussian Diet today when President Braun addressed the members. "Those who plunged Germany into war are responsible for our collapse and misery" he declared.

Nationalist members interrupted by shouting "traitor," and left the House in a body.

James River Vessel Overturns, But 18 Aboard are Saved

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 21.—The Buxton line passenger and freight steamer Carisco, plying on the James river between Norfolk and Richmond, struck a sand bar near Clairmont and overturned early today, but there was no loss of life.

The crew of 18 men and two women, all the persons aboard the steamer, abandoned the ship before it overturned, according to reports received here.

Recruiting Officer Seeks Volunteers For Army Service

Corporal Alex Grossman, in charge of the local army recruiting station, today was instructed to accept recruits for four branches of military service.

Men for the field artillery at Fort Hoyle, Md., for the infantry at Fort Eustice, Va., for the tank corps at Camp Meade, Va., and for the air service at Chanute Field, Ill., are wanted. Recruits, who enlist for the latter course, will attend a technical school.

To qualify as an airplane mechanic, airship mechanic, drafting, engine mechanic, electrician, ignition, oil reclamation operator, parachute rigger and photographer, one to three years high school education is necessary. Only common school education is necessary to enter the school for courses as auto mechanic, armorer, blacksmith, cabinet maker, fabric worker, gas plant worker, machinest, metal worker, and radiooperator. One cook is also wanted for the Erie Proving Grounds, with the 84th ordnance company.

HEBER H. VOTAW RESIGNS POST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Heber H. Votaw, superintendent of prisons in the department of justice, has submitted his resignation to the White House, effective March 4, it was announced today. Votaw was President Harding's brother-in-law and prior to Harding's election was a clerk in the senator's office. He is a former missionary.

Votaw recently underwent an operation.

PLEAS ENTERED TO GRAND JURY CHARGES BY 15 INDICTED MEN

Two Suspects in Tollhouse Robbery Admit Guilt.

BONDS ARE SET

Most of Prisoners Deny Indictments When Arraigned.

Pleas were entered before Judge J. G. Moore in common pleas court, Lisbon, today by persons indicted by the grand jury.

William H. Reddick, of East Liverpool, bound over from the court of Mayor Charles Brown on a charge of criminal assault, entered a plea of not guilty and his bond was fixed at $1,000. The court declared that the $5,000 bond set by the lower court was too high. Reddick will be represented by Attorney Blaine Cochran.

William Oesch, who resides on a farm near Damascus in Butler township, has been placed under $1,500 bond after his plea of not guilty on a charge of arson. He will be represented by Attorney W. S. Emmons, of Alliance.

Byers Pleads Not Guilty.

Barachiva Balan, Charles Balan and Sam Hosa, all of Salem, indicted for resisting an officer in the execution of his duty, entered pleas of not guilty and were held under $250 bond each. They will be represented by Attorney Homer H. Hickling, of Salem.

Harry Byers, who was indicted with Orvil Chandler and Floyd Thomas for the Chester bridge toll house robbery, entered plea of not guilty. He will be represented by Attorney Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool. Chandler and Thomas entered pleas of guilty.

James Clark and John Rogers, Salem, charged with robbery, entered pleas of not guilty Attorney Hickling had already been retained by Rogers, and, when Clark said he had no counsel, the court appointed Hickling to represent him.

Daniel Smith, Salem, indicted for larceny of $10.96, pleaded not guilty.

Harmon Cook, alias Homer Doyle, supposed to be from Salem, but who told the court his home was in Pittsburgh, pleaded not guilty to uttering and publishing a false check.

Others Arraigned.

James O. Tyson, colored, of Wellsville, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

U. Frank Hatcher, of East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty to abandoning three legitimate children whose ages are given as 6, 10 and 13 years. His bond was placed at $500 and he will be

Chicagoan Urges Bakers of Ohio to Boost Bread Prices

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—Officers are to be chosen today at the annual meeting of the Ohio Bakers' association here. Albert Klopfer, Chicago, editor of the baker weekly, addressed the convention, urging independent bakers associated with the association to increase bread prices regardless of the action of competitors.

PETITIONS ARE SIGNED FOR ORDINANCE REPEAL FOLLOWING RAIDER WAR

Men and Women Attached Signatures as Protest Against Councilmanic Legislation Which is Blamed for Tragic Culmination of Inter-City Controversy—25 Papers Circulated.

CITIZENS JOIN IN DEMAND THAT SOLONS SAFEGUARD RIGHTS OF HOME

Governor Donahey Promises Committee of Dillonvale Citizens Representing United Mine Workers of America That he Will Investigate Alleged Unfair Practices of Liquor Sleuths.

Between 600 and 700 signatures have been attached to the petitions, requesting the repeal of the "dry detective ordinance," blamed for the inter-city prohibition raiders' war, which will be presented to council Friday evening, according to estimates made at noon today.

Twenty-five petitions in circulation are being freely signed, it was declared. More than 200 men and women are reported to have placed their names on the papers at a lodge meeting last night. In one pottery, one petition was filled and request made for a second before 5 p. m. yesterday.

The petitions are being circulated in the business district as well as in industrial plants and lodge rooms. One of the solicitors, working in the downtown district, said he had received but three refusals by merchants and clerks.

Women as well as men are joining in the protest against the fine-splitting legislation on which they were denied the right of a vote because of the so-called emergency clause. They demand, the circulators said, that the solons safeguard the rights of the home.

Demand Repeal of Two Ordinances.

When the petitions were placed in circulation yesterday afternoon, it was believed that not less than 1,000 signatures could be obtained before Friday. Indications today were that more than this number will be on the papers when they are ready for presentation.

The petitioners urge that council repeal two ordinances—one setting aside ten per cent of moneys collected on liquor violations for the apprehension of violators and the other authorizing the appointment of dry detectives. The detectives under the terms of the legislation, are paid a percentage of liquor fines for filing complaints.

The detective legislation was passed as an emergency measure at the council meeting Friday, January 9. Raids in Wellsville by three local policemen and Steubenville detectives followed on Saturday immediately after the ordinance had been signed by Mayor Brown.

The petitions will be collected not later than Friday afternoon. A committee of manufacturers and merchants will appear before council and ask repeal of the legislation.

Governor Hears Complaints.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 21.—Governor Vic Donahey will probe charges of Dillonvale citizens against unfair practices of dry detectives.

The committee composed of officials of the Mine Workers of America and Dillonvale officials which waited upon Gov. Donahey in Columbus yesterday and presented a petition asking for the investigation of alleged illegal activities and acts of dry agents operating from the village courts of the county, returned to Dillonvale last evening bearing Gov. Donahey's promise of an immediate probe into the charges.

The governor promised the appointment of an impartial investigator and immediate action to determine the justice of the charges placed before him, according to a statement made today by Alex Felzan, a member of the committee.

The interview with the governor, arranged for last Tuesday, was postponed because of the death of a relative of Frank Ledvinka, president of the United Mine Workers of America,

City Hall Turnkey Uses Corn Whisky To Operate Auto

Another use has been found for "corn whisky."

When automobile mechanics at a Dresden avenue garage drained the radiator of the automobile owned by William Cline, city hall, janitor, Tuesday, a peculiar odor was scented. Cline admitted that he had filled the radiator with "hootch," seized by the police in raids, to prevent it from freezing, the garage man said.

Mayor Brown was notified of the "find" and he ordered the liquor destroyed. City hall attaches admitted today that corn whisky was also being used in the motor patrol to prevent it from freezing in the winter months.

Senate Vote Calls For All Facts on Reparations Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The senate today adopted unanimously the Johnson resolution calling upon Secretary of State Hughes for complete information concerning the Kellogg-Churchill agreement signed at Paris whereby the United States becomes an official partner in the Dawes plan in return for 2¼ per cent of the German reparations payments.

IDENTIFY LIMA MAN OF MYSTERY

LIMA, Jan. 21.—Lima's mystery man has been identified. He is Felix Kreger, 45, of Erie, Mich., and Toledo.

Positive identification was made today by Miss Marie Dittell of Toledo, whose name was found among papers in the dead man's possession.

However, the cause of Kreger's death remains just as much of a mystery as it did yesterday before the coroner's inquest.

Kreger was found Sunday night in a rooming house in an unconscious condition. There were no marks of identification on his person, no labels on his clothing. In his pockets the police found $400 in bills.

RESIDENTS OF EAST LIVERPOOL PAID UNCLE SAM $266,760 TAXES ON PERSONAL INCOMES OF $7,706,400 IN 1922

Collector of Internal Revenue Reports 2,300 Individuals Paid Into Federal Treasury, a Decrease Compared With 1921.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21—Residents of East Liverpool, in common with the rest of Ohio, filed fewer personal income tax returns in 1922 than in 1921 according to the final figures on net income for the former year issued today by the Collector of Internal Revenue.

There were 2,300 personal taxes on income paid into the federal treasury from East Liverpool in 1922 as compared with 2,470 of the same taxes the previous year.

Suffering a similar decline the total returns from Columbiana dropped from 5,473 in 1921 to 5,122 in 1922.

Since the taxes for each year are paid on the income for the prior year—1921 taxes on 1920 income and 1922 taxes on 1921 income—it is assumed from the figures in the collector's report that the drop in personal returns reflects the post-war business decline of 1921.

No county or city figures are given out from which the total income or total tax paid in either East Liverpool or Columbiana county might be deduced. The report contains a classification showing that of 5,122 personal returns filed in Columbiana county, 4,879 were on incomes of less than $5,000, 159 on incomes of $5,000 to $10,000 and 84 on incomes of more than $10,000.

The average Ohio return for 1922 was on an income of $3,120. Assuming that this average held for East Liverpool, the returns from that city would have covered aggregate personal income of $7,706,400. The average Ohio tax payment was $108, at which rate East Liverpool residents would have paid $266,760.

Neighboring counties showed a drop in number of income returns for 1922 corresponding that that recorded by Columbiana. Jefferson county returns dropped from 6,035 in 1921 to 5,752 in 1922, Carroll county returns from 283 to 278, and Mahoning county returns from 30,592 to 29,901.

The recapitulations of the collector of revenue shows that Ohio with a total net income of $1,138,934,714, amounting to 5.34 of the total income of the United States, paid a total tax of $29,310,000, or 4½ per cent of the entire income tax for the whole country.

Of the total income reported by Ohioans, $802,202,793 came from wages and salaries, $112,041,805 from business, $56,215,446 from partnerships, $28,659,892 from profits from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc. $10,616,225 from capital net gain realized from sale of assets held for more than two years, $65,591,493 from rents and royalties, $42,782,504 from interest and investment income and $170,617,297 from dividendts.

Yankton Aground After Anchoring Over Night in Harbor.

SERVED IN WARS

Later Was Owned by Sarah Bernhardt: Also Was Rum Runner.

BOSTON, Jan. 21. — The Steamer Yankton of the Boston, Halifax and St. Johns line went on the rocks off Nixes Mate light early today as she was leaving Boston harbor.

The Yankton, which had sailed yesterday afternoon, anchored over night in the harbor because of inclement weather. She had hardly got under way today when she struck the rocks.

The Yankton was once the private yacht of King Edward, when he was prince of Wales. It later was owned by Sarah Bernhardt. The United States government acquired her before the Spanish-American war and she was converted into a gunboat and saw service at Santiago.

She was the pacemaker of the round-the-world cruise in 1908. During the World war she was a dispatch carrier. Shortly after this government relinquished ownership, the Yankton appeared between Nassau and Florida as a rum runner and was captured. The steamship company now owns her.

porting on the Kansas City World at his eighteenth birthday. Before his nineteenth he had found the life a little tame and had embarked for New York on a cattle train to try his hand at "free lance" writing. His "stuff" didn't sell so Creel decided it was too serious—and started to write "jokes" for the New York papers. The jokes didn't go any too well, so he quit joke-writing and went to shoveling snow. The snow crop was way below par that particular year so of necessity he went back to the jokes again. Strangely enough, before the winter was over the columns of several New York papers were open to him.

But Creel was serious. He wanted the world to be a place where people would laugh of their own free will—and that's why he went back to Kansas City and founded "The Independent." For ten years he fought the political machines and their bosses, and his great victory was the election of Joseph W. Folk as governor. He was the force of inspiration for the mass of progressive legislation that went on the statute books of Missouri, and considering his work done, Creel gave his magazine to friends, and went to Denver where Ben B. Lindsey was waging a lone fight for equal justice.

Dynamic Speaker.

Editorial writer, dynamic speaker and skilled organizer—Creel led a popular revolt that destroyed the evil power of a "bi-partisan machine," forcing the adoption of the initiative and referendum, and driving through such reforms as the mother's compensation law, home rule for cities, workmen's compensation, child labor laws, the eight-hour day, etc. Incidental to the fight, he formed a Citizens' ticket that won a mayoralty campaign, and at the request of leaders of public opinion, took the post of police commissioner under the new administration. His abolition of the infamous "red light district," his fiery attack on the saloon, his advocacy of free speech—all earned new hatreds, and when the mayor that he had elected turned him down, Creel was forced out of office. A new election vindicated Creel and endorsed every reform, and feeling his work done, he decided upon a literary life in New York. He left Denver practically penniless, but with the priceless endorsement of the better element of citizens, the church and the non political clubs and organizations.

Within a year he was a regular contributor to the leading magazines, but found no time to speak and work for equal suffrage, fight for child labor laws and travel the country in the interests of municipal reform.

ices. Many persons, unable to obtain seats, stood. The ritual, in charge of members of the lodge, was carried out. The East Liverpool Male Chorus, of which Mr. Frost was a charter member, gave four numbers under the direction of Miss Lysbeth Hamill.

W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Homer Laughlin China company, and a member of the Elks' lodge, eulogized the deceased in a short address. He discussed his associations with Mr. Frost from the time he first came to East Liverpool, about 35 years ago, and the sterling qualities which the deceased possessed.

"He leaves a memory that will be an inspiration," concluded Mr. Wells. "He did not live in vain."

W. E. Wells' Address

Mr. Wells said in part:

"If it were not so impossible to express what I feel, and what we all must feel, it would not be out of place for me to say something on this occasion as Percy Frost came to East Liverpool some thirty-four or thirty-five years ago in response to a letter from me. I was the first to meet him and then as young men we worked together for many of the best years of our lives. He won me straight away, and I think I was his first friend among the hundreds and hundreds of friends of this community that came to know him later.

"Among those friends are all of the members of East Liverpool Lodge No. 258 and a large majority of those other citizens who have been active in affairs for the past generation.

"He was so well known, so highly esteemed by all of you, that I can say nothing that will add to your knowledge of him, or increase your admiration for his beautiful life. I can only recall some of those traits that won his place in the hearts of the people and now bring all East Liverpool mourning at his bier. His was a peculiarly susceptible nature. He responded quickly and ardently to any approach of friendship. His right hand was always ready to meet the right hand of good fellowship. He was an artist and possessed the artist's temperament. With his artist's soul beauty appealed to him strongly, beauty in art, beauty in character, beauty and goodness in deeds.

"It was to that part of him that the order of Elks appealed. The ritual, the principles, the practices of the order won him from the very first. Among all the splendid brothers who were charter members, so many of whom have preceded Percy on the long journey, none was more enthusiastic than he, I know, because in those days, and for long years afterwards, he and I were working side by side. It was his warm praise of the order that made me anxious to become a member. Among the many reasons I have for holding Percy Frost in grateful memory is that he was the one who proposed me for membership, it was he who signed my application, it was he who brought me into the Elks only a short time after his own initiation.

His Was Great Heart.

"My own membership abounds in delightful memories, but none more tender than those in which Percy Frost plays a part. I never recall, I can never recall, the Elks of the old days without seeing Percy somewhere in the picture, or without hearing his ever contagious laugh.

"And to the same extent that his nature responded to sunshine, kindness, and beauty, his very soul loathed unkindness, meanness, ugliness, and was repelled by them. His was a great heart in a big body, but he was sensitive as a child and as easily hurt.

"His sympathies were so broad that he took every one at face value. Charity was the rule of his life, the natural impulse of his heart. Just contact with human beings brought out the gentleness and warmth of his character. Any one, high or low, rich or poor, could win his friendship, and rely upon his loyalty. He was not exacting. He did not look for perfection in the man subject to the passions, the temptations, the limitations of human kind. It was his theory that a man may be down but never out. If ever there was a man who truly exemplified the precept of this order, "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands, their virtues we inscribe upon the tablets of love and memory," it was Brother Frost.

"He was almost indifferent to those selfish aims that make up the sum total of so many lives. He never contended in the race for wealth or power. He never sought personal preference in his social or business affairs. But his ambition was the esteem, the affection of his friends. Above all he was jealous of his reputation, of his personal honor.

"He Did Not Live in Vain."

"Criticism is something we must all expect from time to time, and most of us are immune to it. But Brother Frost was of that nature that criticism hurt him cruelly. To him ridicule was sharper than a serpent's tooth. I have known him to worry many times over some slight oversight upon the part of a friend, to which he need not have given a serious thought. Knowing well how sensitive he was in this respect, I can imagine how dread of the consequences of that outrageous affair of last week just broke his heart. He gave his life as a protest against that gross injustice, which is without a parallel in this community.

"I cannot get away from the thought that his friends were at fault. Had they gone to him expressing the sympathy they all felt, had they gone to him expressing the indignation that has since so aroused the city, the outcome might have been different. There may be a lesson in this. Many lives might be made happier and fuller if our words of appreciation, of praise, of confidence, are not withheld until it is too late.

"This tribute that comes from the heart of a city is too late for the silent ears of our old friend. But he leaves a memory that will be an inspiration.

"He did not live in vain."

TITIAN-HAIRED SLAYER OF KIN FACES COURT

Dorothy Ellingson, Matricide, Begins Battle for Freedom.

FATHER FORGIVES

Girl's Age Probably Means Juvenile Judge Will Act.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21—Dorothy Ellingson's battle for freedom in the coming years of her young womanhood, was to be taken into court today.

The titian-haired 16-year-old girl, who killed her mother in a "red headed rage" because she "wanted to live her own life," was scheduled to appear at 11 o'clock this morning to face police judge Lazarus on charges of matricide.

The girl's father, Joseph Ellingson, a Viking-faced tailor, will be the first witness and on his testimony probably will rest the fate of the girl.

"I want her to hang," the broken father said a week ago, but since then he has forgiven and his statement before the judge that the girl's age is only 16, was expected.

This will automatically cause transfer of the child defendant's case to juvenile court, where Dorothy will be arraigned tomorrow before Judge Murasky.

Beother Brings Flowers

Her brother, Earl, visited Dorothy early in the day and brought her a basket of fruit and a bouquet of violets, which she selected to wear from a dozen other gifts of flowers sent by anonymous friends.

Alexander Moslin, San Francisco attorney, now in charge of the case, announced today that he had arranged for a physician, a specialist in glan'd treatments, to examine Dorothy.

For the first time since the girl's arrest, a statement from the district attorney's office showed the hand of the prosecution. It was declared that should the girl select "mental illness" as her defense, a barrage of expert testimony would be available in contradiction to the claim that the girl did not know right from wrong.

Curious to catch a glimpse of the child who slew for the sake of "jazz," hundreds gathered in front of the Hall of Justice before the case was called and extra police officers were ordered out to handle the surging crowds.

CITY-SCHOOL AID PROPOSED

Bill is Drafted — Senate to Confirm Duffy Appointment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21—Emergency financial relief for cities and school districts is to be rushed by the state legislature. Governor Donahey is expected today to return to public leaders with his recommendations the draft of the Williams-Taft bill providing the temporary aid and a vote on the measure may come Thursday afternoon. The measure was reported out by the house taxation committee Tuesday afternoon.

As reported, the bill, which is basically the Taft bill with amendments proposed by Representative Williams, of Lake county, carries an emergency clause making it effective as soon as passed. It embodies principles agreed upon at a conference last week. A maximum deficiency tax levy of three mills is provided, to be authorized upon petition of a majority of qualified electors, based on the number of ballots cast in 1924. Provision against fraud in compilation of the petitions is expected to be inserted before final action is taken on the measure.

The senate is expected today to confirm Governor Donahey's reappointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission. The governor's reappointment of State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald was confirmed by the senate late Tuesday.

Gas Tax Bill Hearing.

A hearing will be held tonight in the house chamber by the house motor vehicles committee on the proposed state gas tax. The measure is expected to be heavily supported. Recommendations will be made that the fee for auto licenses be made a flat $3 license charge.

Amended in committee so as to insure against interference with operation of motor busses in interurban traffic, the Collister bill, conferring upon municipalities jurisdiction over operation of motor vehicles for hire wholly within a municipality, was reported out by the senate automotive committee Tuesday night by a vote of 8 to 2. The measure will be a special order on the senate calendar Thursday, it was announced.

Among bills introduced in the house late Tuesday was one by Representative Lipp, Hamilton county, amending the bus law so as to exempt farmers, hauling farm produce, from the provisions of the law. Other bills introduced include

By Representative Roberts, Mahoning county, making mandatory prison term for a person convicted of driving while intoxicated; by Representative Finefrock, Stark county, providing that the time prisoners are confined before sentence shall be deducted from the time required to be served under sentence.

Air Service Will Use Powerful Camera To "Shoot the Sun"

DAYTON, Jan. 21—The most powerful camera in the air service and the only one of its kind in the world was attached to a big Dehaviland airplane today in preparation for an attempt to "shoot the Sun" next Sturday, during the eclipse that is to happen but once in a life time.

Lieutenant George Goddard, who will be at the stick, and Dr. S. M. Buska, scientist and photography expert, both of McCook Field, have been ordered by Major General Mason M. Patrick to fly to Mitchell Field, Long Island, and use it as an operating base during the experiments.

Everything is in readiness for the flight to Long Island, which may start today or tomorrow.

An hour before the spectacle is scheduled to begin, the two airmen will leave Mitchell Field and begin operations when they attain an altitude of 15,000 feet.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—High priced industrial and oil stocks led the market into higher price levels in the early trading today. Low priced rails like Katy, Kansas City Southern and St. Paul joined the movement before the end of the first hour and the tone of the market showed a distinct improvement over that of the last few sessions. Lifting of the bearish attacks on leading industrial stocks and the inauguration of covering movements in stocks which bore the brunt of speculative selling on Monday and Tuesday contributed to the strength of the market.

United States Steel was a leader in the forward movement of prices. It was announced today that the annual offering of stock to the employes of the corporation would be at the price of $125 a share, against $700 at this time last year. In 1923 after the stock had been thus sold at 107, it declined 20 points in the open market, but the dividend at that time was a straight 5 per cent.

STUDENTS HEAR DR. LOCKHART

Evangelist's Son Also Speaks in Church of Christ.

Large delegations of high school and business college students attended the revival services in the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the third week of the campaign.

Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson.
Pianist for the Lockhart-Harbinson Evangelistic Party.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, in charge of the meetings, was assisted at last night's services by his 18-year old son, "Billy," who is just out of high school. Prof. J. Frank Harbinson sang "Here Am I, Lord, Send Me." His wife, at the piano, and Mrs. Ingersoll at the organ, assisted with the music.

"Young man, don't think you can spend your spare time around a pool room, inhaling dirty cigarette smoke and exchanging smutty stories and not suffer the evil effects," the evangelist said. "Young women don't think you can sit up till after midnight in a room with lights dimmed spooning with one of those weed-puffing friends that wears trousers and looks like a man and not suffer and remain untarnished.

"Young man and young woman, don't think you can attend one of those wild parties and get drunk on rotten bootleg liquor and not suffer the consequences of sin. The wages of sin is death' and whether you are young or three score years old, the effect on your soul is the same. Sins eats its way ito a man's soul as leprosy, but remember that Christ healed the leper and in like manner He can heal you of your sins."

War Chest Battle Will be Resumed Thursday Morning

Hearings as to the disposition of the $45,000 balance in the War Chest, now before the court of appeals, will be resumed here Thursday morning by Commissioner George L. Brokaw.

Mr. Brokaw heard two interests Tuesday. The case, at the request of one of the attorneys, was ordered continued until Friday but owing to the inability of the court stenographer to be present then, is was decided to resume the case Thursday.

More than a dozen of witnesses are to be heard.

and the leader of the committee. The audience with the governor was granted for yesterday, and accordingly the committee composed of Ledvinka, Joseph Angelo, international organizer of the United Mine Workers; Alex Young, Alex Felzan, Dessel Mozinka and Dave Young, waited upon the governor bearing with them the petition bearing signatures of 21 local mine workers' unions representing approximately 4,500 workers.

Serious Charges.

The audience occupied almost an hour and was opened by a brief sketch of conditions by Ledvinka who told of the situation existing here, described some of the alleged illegal acts of the dry agents and their alleged depredations against the homes of law-abiding citizens.

Ledvinka then laid before the governor a number of affidavits in which the dry agents from several village courts are charged with having committed robberies upon the home of their victims, with destruction of property, with illegal search and other depredations. Other affidavits charging the mayors of the courts from which the agents operate with having issued blank search warrants to be filled in with the victim's names when the search was made, were also presented to the governor.

The high point of the charges came, however, when evidence was laid before the governor supporting claims that the dry agents themselves were engaged in violating the liquor laws.

Governor Donahey listened to the array of evidence and the affidavits and then requested that the affidavits be left with him and asked a number of questions concerning the depredations which they allege had been committed by the dry agents. He was assured by the committee that they would lend every assistance possible to the governor's appointee when the investigation was begun.

Calls for Information.

Felzan stated that the governor showed deep interest in the charges and his questions were searching ones. He expressed belief that the investigation would be begun almost immediately although he admitted that the governor did not say when the investigator would be appointed.

Felzan today urged that all persons against whom the various dry agents of the county have committed depredations, made illegal search of their homes, committed robbery during raids upon their homes, or who have any evidence of illegal acts committed by the dry agents, to report to the committee so that the facts may be laid before the investigator. He explained that while the petition for the investigation was presented by the United Mine Workers all persons having any grievances to offer against the dry agents or who had suffered at their hands from alleged illegal acts, were free to join in the complaint. He also stated that the investigation was not to be limited to Dillonvale alone but that signers from all sections of the county appeared upon the petition and that practically all dry agents working from village courts were included in the charges.

SOLONS REJECT PAY ORDINANCE

Dennis, However, Will Continue as Safety-Service Head.

Despite the fact that city council, by a vote of four to three, refused to give him a salary of $1,500 for a year's work, A. P. Dennis, former mayor, who was recently appointed safety-service director by Mayor James S. Barnes, will retain his job.

Following council meeting he announced he would continue as head of the combined departments at a salary of $500.

Dean's was appointed following the resignation of Samuel Hannum who worked the post on a part-time program. When Dennis was named, it was understood he would devote his exclusive attention to the work.

As a result an ordinance was brought out at a special session of council a week ago, increasing the pay to $1,500, and arrangements had already been made to appropriate this amount in the six months' budget, with final action hinging on the ordinance.

The ordinance a week ago was passed on first reading, with three councilmen approving the measure and three dissenting. President Blackburn cast the deciding vote, which was in the affirmative. One member was absent at that meeting.

At last night's conference, when the measure was called up for its second reading, the vote stood as follows: For—W. C. Connor, George White and Frank Kerr; against—C. C. Ewing, Charles Peters, Clyde Baker, and William Nicholson.

The motion to pass the measure on second reading was made by Kerr and seconded by Connor and brought out remarks from councilmen and the audiece.

Councilman Nicholson, announcing his intention of opposing the measure, asserted that the city could not afford to raise the salary. He pointed out that the total debts standing against the city reached the figure of $596,891.06. He declared that streets were without lights, and in need of repairs and that council would not be treating the people right. Last year, he pointed out, the city took the stand that it could not pay that amount and, he said, he did not feel that the city was in any better position now. The increase was out of place, he asserted, in view of the present high taxes.

Councilman Baker asserted that if the measure were passed, he felt sure a referendum would be called.

Mayor Barnes asked Councilman Baker if the latter thought it would be possible to abolish the job. Baker declared he thought not. Mayor Barnes then branded the legislation as false economy and "ridiculous."

Attorney W. A. O'Grady, adddressing council, championed the raise. He asserted the office needed a full-time man. He admitted citizens were burdened with taxes, but he blamed legislation of other years, and pointed out if it had been the custom heretofore to hire competent men and pay them appropriate wages, the city now would not be paying for mistakes that had been made.

It seemed to be the spirit in years back, Attorney O'Grady explained, to "let the next generation pay." "But, he asserted, "time has caught them." He declared he as one citizen, was willing to pay if the city is given service by competent hands. A salary of $1,500, he said, was insignificant for a competent man. He explained that he didn't care who was safety-service director, but did care for the appointment and paying of a man who would render due service.

Attorney O'Grady also favored the purchase of an automobile for the police department. He pointed out that collections could be doubled and that such an aid was necessary to cope with the conveniences at the hand of criminals of today.

What folly to suffer Colds

Millions have proved that. Your druggist guarantees it. Your own neighbors will certify it.

Then why let colds linger? They mean both discomfort and danger. Millions are wrecked by results of colds.

The right way, the best way, is with Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. The result of years of research. A treatment so perfect that 25 years have developed no way to improve it.

It stops a cold in a day. But it does far more. It removes the poisons caused by colds. It restores vitality to the whole system. In the quickest, surest way men know it brings one back to normal.

Millions have proved that. Your own neighbors are among them. No one who knows Hill's could ever be induced to use anything else for a cold.

Don't take chances with a cold. Get the best help men know, and the genuine. And start promptly. Every hour you delay makes the cold harder to cure.

ASK ORDINANCE BE WITHDRAWN

In a communication placed in the hands of council last night, Mayor James S. Barnes asked that the ordinance providing for an appropriation of 25 percent for special police work be withdrawn.

Mayor Barnes' communication declared if local authorities needed assistance in the future they will go to B. F. McDonald, state prohibition commissioner. The communication was received and placed on file.

Auditor Fred Eckfield's report for December follows: General fund, $2,080.80; safety, $200.71; health, $58.13; overdrawn; service, $8.64 overdrawn; water $38.75; cemetery, $371.76; library, $654.24; water special $49,249.97; auto license, $5,638.30; trust, $209; sinking fund depository $13,352.94.

Communion Services.

Communion services will be held on Sunday morning in the Zion Lutheran church, according to announcement by the pastor, Rev. J. C. F. Rupp. Preparatory services will be held prior to communion.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflammed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

American Air Talent

Witnesses called before a congressional committee that is investigating the United States air service testify as follows:

Americans have a genius for flying.

American designers have developed types of airplanes, military and commercial, unequaled by those of other countries.

Most of the flying records are held by Americans.

There is private flying in our western states outdoing any similar activity abroad.

These are regarded as incontrovertible facts. It is said further that American bankers and merchants are ready to avail themselves of flying facilities for business purposes.

Why, then, does air transportation lag so in this country, which created the airplane and which has boundless wealth to exploit its usefulness?

The blame is usually put upon the government. But perhaps the government has really done its share of pioneering, at least, whatever may be said of the present weakness of its military air fleet. It has shown the way in construction, in laying our flying routes and in the notable example of mail-carrying, at considerable expense. But for some reason or other, private enterprise has not done its part.

This situation cannot last much longer. One of these times there will probably be a sudden development of private air transportation of passengers and freight rivalling our early railroad and trolley car history and outdoing the present motor bus business. And the leaders going into it on a big scale will make millions.

Poor Lighting

The Eyesight Conservation Council of America has found through its various investigations that, out of 42,000,000 persons gainfully employed in this country, 25,000,000 are handicapped by defective vision. Improper lighting facilities in schools, factories and places of business have frequently been blamed for this condition.

A group of illuminating engineers in one city, whose business it is to know what correct lighting is, and who must know, too, a good deal about the sort of lighting used in their community, place the blame more specifically.

"Poor lighting in factories is responsible for very little of this," they say. "Most factories nowadays are awake to the business value of good lighting there is little cause for complaint, except in a few cases.

"Practically all homes have enough lights, but the people don't know how to use them."

That seems to mean that any given home has enough equipment for adequate lighting, but that the light fixtures and lamps, of whatever kind, are not properly placed or intelligently used. They do not illuminate a room evenly. They do not furnish enough light at the right spot for special work such as reading, writing or sewing. They are not suitably shaded to prevent glare.

Partly this may be due to the builder of the house. Partly it is due to the ignorance or carelessness of the people dwelling in it. Here is a fine job of public education for altruistic illuminating engineers.

Moral Lessons

Psychology is always a curious thing. One of the interesting psychological studies lately has been the state of mind of two men, father and son, who have just moved out of the gubernatorial mansion in Topeka, Kan.

Apologizing for his 28-year-old son for falling into a legal trap and accepting money offered for a pardon granted by his father, ex-Governor Davis is quoted as saying:

"He saw an opportunity to make a little on the side in a manner he did not believe to be wrong. It will be a lesson to the boy. It will teach him the ways of the world. He understands now that such things, while seemingly not wrong, cannot be done."

It's a queer world, of course, where such deeds are disapproved. But we all have to get used to the world's ways, however great the cost.

The Kansas incident reminds one somehow of the man who remarked, when asked if he had anything to say before they strung him up for murder, "I hope this will be a lesson to me."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

BOYS GO TO SEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the United States shipping board, says: "Frequently we have been told that we cannot build up an all-American personnel on our ships for the reason that the American boy will not go to sea. It has been pointed out to us that the reason we lost our supremacy on the sea nearly a century ago was that the development of the interior of the United States offered great opportunities for our virile youth than did the sea. This was true then and it has been true for half a century.

"But now we have, as a nation, reached the point where we are turning in earnest to foreign markets for the disposition of our surplus products. Necessity drives us to the sea and when necessity drives we always move."

Accordingly, Mr. O'Connor is proud of the fact that he initiated a policy under which the American boy may ship on government owned ocean-going vessels. He was also one of a board of seven officials who put this policy into effect.

He feels there is at the present time an excellent opportunity for advancement for any boy who enters upon a career of this sort. It is his opinion that not all of the boys who ship on government vessels will stick, but that a fair percentage will. These will probably fall into two classes, those with a natural love of ships and the sea, and those who will become fascinated by the intricate and interesting question of foreign trade and ocean-borne commerce.

The first class will be composed of boys who will want to become masters and will undertake to work their way up through the various grades. They must have a natural ability to handle men. By actual experience they will learn what it means to keep a ship moving and how to load and unload cargoes.

The second class will be boys who wish to enter the commercial side of shipping on shore. A couple of years' experience at sea, visiting various ports in all parts of the world, will be a tremendous advantage to them when connecting with some shipping firm, and will greatly aid in their advancement. They will have a basic knowledge which could be obtained in no other way.

A VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

Even for the boys who do not wish to remain in this line, the experience and training they receive during a cruise is a splendid thing for them. It will give them a better understanding of how other nations transact their business and a clearer insight into international problems. Of course, anything one sees with one's own eyes makes a greater impression than something read in a book or newspaper, no matter how vividly it may be described or how clearly it may be set forth.

American boys have taken very kindly to the plan of shipping on government vessels, and certainly it is much more agreeable than taking a trip for high school and college boys to do.

The application blank which must be filled out in the applicant's own handwriting and sent to the recruiting service of the United States shipping board is very simple, including 11 questions to be answered as to the applicant's full name, address, telephone number, place and date of birth, color, height and weight, when his father, if not born in this country, became a citizen of the United States, the marital status of the applicant, his sea experience, if any, schools he has attended, his references, and a statement as to when he will be ready to report for duty.

A boy who is under 21 years of age must file with the sea service at port of placement the written consent of his parents or guardian. All applicants must also furnish birth certificate or other evidence of citizenship. This is in order that they may obtain the proper passport.

Last summer two Washington boys shipped on one of these government vessels, and from their experiences an idea may be had of what a boy may expect when he signs up for such a trip.

They reported at the shipping board sea service bureau in Baltimore and were taken aboard their vessel. The watchman directed them to the third mate, who took their valuables, which consisted of $10 each, assigned them places to put their bags and then ordered them into working clothes.

A SUBSTANTIAL DINNER

"He put us to work sweeping out between decks," said one of the lads, "and we were glad when dinner time came. That was 12 o'clock. We had soup, steak with onion gravy, potatoes, peas, beans, carrots, hot biscuits, coffee and tapoico and rice pudding for dessert. Pretty good."

All afternoon they worked at cleaning the mud out of the hold. Water ballast had been used on the westbound trip. When it was run off the mud stayed. Shovels, brooms and scrapers were used to get rid of it. The boys were not sorry when supper time came at 5 o'clock.

"After supper," to quote from the diary of one of them, "we drew two cakes of soap, blankets, mattresses, covers and pillow slips. Everybody helped us out in every way. We were in bed at 9:30 and glad to get there."

The next day the crew signed on and drew a day's pay. These two boys drew 93 cents each and the crew with rare originality asked them what they were going to do with all that money.

During the first two days aboard the boys were initiated into the art of loading stores and other cargo. Carrying a hundred-pound bag of flour from amidships down a ladder to the store room proved particularly tricky. As one explains, "There's knack to it. You get the bag balanced on the back of your neck. I was having trouble getting down the ladder, when one of the boys yelled, 'dump her down, she won't break.' I dumped her and she didn't break, so I dumped all the rest. That helped a lot."

It was not until the ship went through the capes and the real voyage began that the boys had an opportunity really to get acquainted with the rest of the crew. One says: "They were a good crowd, but they couldn't make us out at first. Later we got on fine. There were eight nations represented among the seamen, all either naturalized or holding first papers. They all said that the American merchant marine is the best in the world from a sailor's standpoint. On the foreign ships the men have to carry their own 'kitchens' and bedding. By 'kitchens' they mean plates, knives and forks, etc. The American forecastles they rate at 100 per cent. The foreign forecastles are crowded and the men have to eat in them."

When the boys reached the other side they visited Cardiff, where they saw the robes of the Prince of Wales on exhibition in the National museum of Wales, and went to a burlesque show, consisting of all American acts and music. At Bristol they were specially struck with coal burning motor trucks, each having an engineer and fireman. They visited Dublin and reported plenty of barbed wire and sand bags still on view there, and many buildings still unrepaired. Belfast they declared to be the most modern city they were in.

The trip home consisted principally of the routine of cleaning. Both boys declared the trip a huge success and plan to make another voyage next summer.

Then, too, Pittsburgh's skyscraper college will make it easier for students to keep their heads in the clouds.

Who said there was no value in cross-word puzzles? They have reduced the demand for current fiction.

Opposition to the child labor amendment is based largely on state rights. Sure, every state has a right to safeguard its own children. Also, "they have rights who dare maintain them."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—A piano for an apartment is offered by a piano maker who is beginning to despair of ever finding a happy home in the French capital. In his window a sign reads:

"A superb piano, value 5,000 francs, is offered to the person who can procure an apartment of three rooms in the center of the city."

A free piano—not a sou to pay, but many steps to take. It means walking up and down the streets tactfully questioning concierges, the porters who hold the keys to all houses, and greasing their palms as well, sounding out proprietors, inquiring at agencies and looking for windows without any curtains. Finding an apartment in Paris is almost as difficult as looking for the proverbial needle, and it is likely that the piano makers may have to make a bed of his piano and sleep in his little shop for some time to come.

A painter who has been without lodgings for some time and unable to find a suitable atelier as well, has just had the original idea of constructing a house-boat and floating it on the Seine, near the bridge of the Invalides. Thus, he can fish from his window, take a bath easily and paint marine landscapes without ever going near the seaside.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Rockefeller, France's American uncle, the long-proposed school of Decorative arts will be constructed during the coming year. The generous American is spending more than 5,000,000 francs upon it and, in addition, he is spending $300,000 on the reconstruction of the spire of the Rheims cathedral, $100,000 for the restoration of the palace of Fontainebleau, and $600,000 to repair what time and weather have done to Versailles and the gardens.

The English week is being suggested for school children whose parents find that they work too hard during the school term and have too long a summer holiday. In France Thursday is the Saturday holiday for school children, together with Sunday, and the greater share of these days are spent in getting home lessons. If the English week-end were adopted, the home tasks could be done on Saturday afternoon and leave Sunday free for relaxation, but this would mean a loss of 74 hours a week. Too much to learn in too little time is the complaint of the parents because of the three long months of summer holiday.

The minister of public instruction says that the number of hours lost would be made up in the summer, but fears that, after the good time on Sunday, Monday morning will be a veritable "blue" one. The English week-end, he argues, is very well for the ones who work the English day, that is, eight hours without interruption, or only a very short one at noontime for lunch, never the two long ones granted to every French person. Well-earned repose is legitimate enough, but not laziness.

Sanitary drinking cups are a novelty in Paris, where the public drinking fountain still retains its old tin goblets attached to a chain over a little warning which reads:

"Rinse the goblet before using."

But there is one Frenchman who has heard of sanitary cups. Every morning about 8 o'clock he wends his way to a certain little fountain, folds a clean piece of white paper into receptacle and drinks copiously of the fresh water, which, with a large slice of warm bread, constitute his frugal breakfast. Needless to say there are many onlookers.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 21.—I was in Houston about a year ago. In the interim many changes have taken place. This is not a boom town but it has the pace of one. What impresses me most is the beauty of home life—something in which New York is lacking.

You come unexpectedly upon rows of houses with lovely windows; houses with colonnades and magnificent fluted cornices. This morning I awakened at Mike Hogg's home, a 10 minute drive from midtown, to the twitter of birds, the crowing of roosters and the bark of Ajax, the dog.

A New Yorker would have to drive two or three hours to reach such pastoral simplicity. From the window you could see stretches of rich green grass and the white brown and red of roof tops in rich patches. And a touch of old rose clouds in the west.

There is a gorgeous tint to Texas skies. But what you like most is the whole heartedness of Texas people. No, it doesn't sound right to call them people, for they are just folks. They are, I believe, the most friendly in all the world.

It is difficult to believe they are quick on the draw and that they will fight at the drop of the hat. But history does record it. The Texan, if he is your friend, does not greet you with a limp shake of the hand and some inane remark.

He puts his arm around your shoulder and gives you a warm little hug. Then he invites you out to dinner. Invariably he wants to show you his home and his wife and children. Where the New Yorker brags of his new cellar supply the Texan brags of his rose bushes.

Another thing I noticed in Texas. Youth does not run in a pack. The older men are welcome and a great deference is shown them. You see a lad home from college having dinner at the club with some gray head thrice his age, having the time of their lives.

I was pleased to renew acquaintances with Slim, the elongated waiter at a well known chili stool counter lunch. Slim is a Houston character whose patronymic fits him like a glove. He has the stature of a giraffe's neck and keeps up a running fire of chatter as he dishes out the chili.

Raymond Dickson came up from San Antonio today to join our party. Raymond is a Mexico ranchman—that is a Texan with a Mexico ranch—and looks more the city slicker that the most notable of the Fifth avenue boulegardiers. His is the most pronounced of all the southern drawls I have heard. At first you get the idea he is speaking an alien tongue, but after a time you are able to follow him. You rather imagine Raymond would be more at home at Simpson's on the Strand for lunch with a monocle in his eye than he would be in sparred boots and six shooters looking over his cattle in the cactus country. But he isn't.

This afternoon we motored down to the beach at Galveston to watch the sunset. Pirates once roamed the sands upon which we stood gazing out to sea for a sight of the Spanish galleons sailing up from Panama with cargoes of gold. Galveston is filled with legends of hidden pirate gold. Jean Lafitte is supposed to have buried many treasures of Captain Kidd on Long Island—and no doubt are just as imaginary.

I stopped into a drug store on the outskirts of Houston to purchase some trifle. The proprietor had locked up and was departing, but he opened his doors, turned on the lights and I was rather abashed to make a 15 cent purchase. Yet he made me feel my patronage was a favor. There is an art in that. Copyrighted, 1925, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

A GOOD EXCUSE

Our European friends, statesmen of England, France, etc., say this country is now tied up in the reparations mess, and that we have made ourselves practically responsible for Germany's debts.

Our statesmen say no; we were only trying to get a few hundred million dollars out of the scramble.

In any case, you will probably discover that we have given Europe a chance to say, by and by: "You have not keep the faith and so we shall not pay you what we borrowed from you."

TWO MANIACS FIGHT

John Kuehn and Alebrt Joe fought desperately with heavy mops. Before they were separated Kuehn was killed. Keepers overpowered Joe, the winner. Both were madm and fought in an asylum. "Oh," you say, "crazy, eh? That explains it."

What does it explain?

Were those two maniacs any more crazy or wild than the civilized nations that recently started fighting and kept at it until millions were killed?

TIED TO THEIR ANCHOR

Just as you make up your mind that prohibition is a failure, because the rich man gets what he wants, when he wants it, etc., statistics come along to make you think again.

More money in savings banks, fewer citizens in jail, some jails closed, fewer go to insane asylums. Bigger wages might explain some of that. But then comes this:

In New York, biggest city, crime among women has been cut down one half since prohibition came, in spite of the city's growing size.

Bigger wages can't explain that.

How many new crimes has prohibition added to the list, while diminishing the amount of crime among women? Rev. George F. Bennett, of St. Lawrence's church in Weehawken, tells of surprising a group of bootleggers carting off a boatload of whisky at night. First they offered him money to be silent, then a load of whisky or champagne. Policemen were the active bootleggers.

That is the cold business side of bootlegging. The next crime story comes from Sidney island, British Columbia. Hijackers attack the captain and his son, alone on their whisky laden bark. Father and son fight, are beaten down, tied together and both tied to the ship's anchor. The anchor slowly grinds them to death as it is lowered over the side.

TWO BILLION HOURS

Ten years ago this country smoked fifteen billion cigarets in one year. In 1923 the number was sixty-three billions.

Smoking women have contributed much of the increase. Figuring a little less than two minutes to each cigaret, that means about two billion hours devoted to cigeret smoking by men and women.

Add cigars and pipes, then figure for yourself how many years of time went up in smoke.

Nobody knows what foolishness was avoided by the millions thoughtfully rolling their own, or walking a mile to get just the cigaret they wanted.

The only trouble about tobacco is that when you smoke you tilt your forehead upward and in that position you can't think well. Try it.

French communists at Aix and elsewhere battle with French Catholics, holding a parade. The communists marched singing the "Internationale," a revolutionary song. The Catholics sang anthems in protest against the government's religious policy, which is anti-Catholic.

Mussolini has declared war upon Free Mansons because, among other reasons, he alleges that "they aim at destruction of religion."

Here we escape such troubles. Complete separation of church and state has worked well for both in America.

Gandhi relates how agents from Moscow sought to bribe him. They wanted his help to start a Bolshevist revolution in India. Gandhi, simple soul, says he does not quite know what Bolshevism is, but adds:

"I do know that insofar as it is based on violence and the denial of God, it repels me."

Far apart are Gandhi and Bolshevism. The former would conquer the world and disarm the oppressor with love and non-resistance. The latter prefers to work with dynamite and the sword.

While you love peace and hate violence, you have to admit that violence, thus far, seems to win.

Asquith is to be made Earl of Oxford, a fine title now extinct, but to be revived in his honor. His country place is close to Oxford, and that is appropriate. Mr. Asquith, faithful, unselfish and able servant of the British nation, deserves honor.

Observe one advantage of a monarchial government. You delight a man's vanity, please his family, raise him above his fellow commoners and it does not cost the government a cent.

WHO'S WHO

FRANK HODGES.

With the recent dissolution of the British Labor government, Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty during the Labor regime, found himself out of a job. So he promptly returned to his "trade," went down into a mine pit to swing a pick.

In January, 1924, when Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the parliamentary Labor party of England, became prime minister he offered Hodges, who was then president of the miners' union, one of the most important jobs in the British empire, that of director of the British navy. Whereupon he resigned his union job and became a cabinet member.

During the British coal strike of 1921 Hodges was the acknowledged leader of the labor war.

At the November election, Hodges, who may have foreseen the breakdown of the Labor party, sought a seat in the house of commons, but was defeated.

British labor will doubtless see to it that he does not long remain in the role of collier.

DINNER STORIES

"It was 'open house' and there were many guests," tells Lord Castleton. "On coming down to dinner I heard loud shrieks and oaths, but could not make out what was happening. The other guests and I consulted, and eventually rang for the butler. My father expressed anxiety. 'I hope no one is ill,' he said. 'We heard loud cries—perhaps we ought to send for the doctor.'

"'Tis nothing, your honor,' answered the old butler at once. 'They're putting a clane shirt on the master, and he hates the cowld of it and let a roar or two out of him.'"

Miss Shrum Hostess.

Members of the U. K. E. club were delightfully entertained recently in the home of Miss Dorothea Shrum of Almont street. Music and dancing were enjoyed during the informal social hours, after which a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. Shrum.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Miss Hilda Manypenny of Dresden avenue.

Hillel Study Club Meeting.

The Hillel Study club met last evening in the library of B'Nai Israel temple, West Fifth street, for their semi-monthly study of opera. "La Boheme" by Puccini was the topic. Miss Nellie Rudolph gave a sketch of the life of Puccini and his works, after which Miss Ethel Wasbutzky told the story of the opera. Several numbers were given from the opera by the club members, after which stars, who have played in the opera, were discussed.

Wedding is Announced.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eva Cole and George Armstrong Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reynolds of Park avenue, East End. The ceremony was performed Friday in the parsonage of the United Presbyterian church of Lisbon, with Rev. John Cameron, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their future home here. The bridegroom is employed in a local pottery.

Mahon-Reed Marriage.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Thelma Mahon, daughter of Donald D. Mahon of St. George street, and Franklin Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reed of Alpha street. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Presbyterian church of Lisbon, with Rev. Peter W. McCaulay officiating.

Missionary Society Dinner.

The annual Dollar Day dinner was given by the Young Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, auxiliary No. 2, last evening at 6 o'clock in the parlors of the church. Mrs. W. A. Beane was chairman of the social committee. One hundred and twenty-five guests were seated at one long table, which was attractively decorated with a color scheme of red and white.

During the dinner, Mrs. J. S. Calhoun and her twin sister, Mrs. Robertson of Wellsville, gave a vocal duet. Miss Ruth Bailey also rendered vocal numbers. The response to roll call was dues-paying.

Announcement was made of the entertainment to be given for the benefit of society early in February. This will be given under the direction of Miss Bernedette Arnold and Mrs. R. W. Johnston, features being a kindergarten man, the minuet and other novelties.

Bowers-Higgins Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Rosella Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bowers of this city, to James R. Higgins of Washington, Pa., was announced today. The ceremony took place in the United Presbyterian church of Lisbon Friday, with Rev. John Cameron, pastor, officiating.

Meeting of Ladies of Eagles

Ladies of the Eagles will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in regular session, in the Eagles' temple, Broadway. Following the business session, luncheon will be served.

United Mothers' Club Session.

The United Mothers' club was received last evening in the home of Mrs. Roy Thomas of Vine street. The meeting was opened with devotionals, in charge of Mrs. Robert Perry. The following program arranged by Mrs. Jennie McCarty and Mrs. G. Bradfield, was featured: Cello Solo—Miss Mary Tlizabeth Buxton, accompanied by Miss Audrey DeHaven. Nature, Law and God"—Mrs. Mentor Shenkle. Vocal Solo—Miss Lois Walker, accompanied by Miss Grace Walker. Reading—Mrs. Jennie McCarty.

Following the program, the social hours were spent informally, during which a dainty luncheon was served by the social committee, composed of Mrs. Roy Thomas, Mrs. J. S. English, Mrs. Charles Hendershot and Mrs. W. N. Wilson. Covers were arranged for 40 guests.

The next meeting will be held February 17, in the home of Mrs. Warren Wolfe of Prospect street.

Insurance Company Banquet.

A banquet was given by the employes of the Equitable Life Insurance company of Washington, D. C., in the local office in Sixth street, recently, as the result of a contest. Places were laid for ten members. A color scheme of red and white predominated in the appointments. The dinner was served by Mrs. O. F. Dyke, Miss Mildred Dyke, Miss Edith Mulligan and Miss Alice Betts.

The Steubenville superintendent, Floyd H. Broady, was toastmaster. Responses were made by Charles Kompnfer, of the winning side, and L. H. Hoff of the losing team.

Miss Lewis Entertains.

Miss Helen Lewis was hostess last evening to members of the Sorosis club at her home in Virginia avenue, Chester. The meeting opened with roll call, to which the response was "Early Sculptors." "The Origin of Sculpture Art" was given by Miss Helen Lewis. Miss Ruth Baxter told of "Bronzes." Miss Lillian Bradfield was the pianist.

Following the program, informal social hours were enjoyed, during which a luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. G. E. Lewis, and Miss Madora Frederick, who was a special guest.

The next meeting will be held February 3, in the home of Miss Jessie Hall of Pleasant Heights.

Berean Bible Class Session.

The Berean Bible class of the Pleasant Heights Baptist mission will meet Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Charles Whippler of Lincoln highway. Mrs. Mentor Shenkle, the teacher, will discuss the 54th chapter of Isaiah.

P. H. C. Installation.

Stratton Circle No. 40, Protected Home Circle, meeting tonight in Trades and Labor Council hall, Washington street, will install officers, after which informal social hours will be spent. Luncheon will be served by the social committee, of which Mrs. Mary Goppert is chairman.

DISEASE GERMS HARD TO FIND

Statement Made Public by Hancock County Health Agent.

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health officer, has issued the following statement pertaining to germs or bacteria which cause diseases:

Germs or bacteria which cause diseases like diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis, etc., are living plants or animals and which grow and propagate their own kind. Diphtheria bacilli will always produce more diphtheria bacilli and will not produce any other kind of germs or bacilli. Smallpox will always produce smallpox and never diphtheria or tuberculosis. There must always be a parent germ in order to produce a new crop of germs. Germs cannot originate from nothing. Nor can they originate from filth unless the parent germs were placed there just a short while before. Because in filth the germs tend to die out for the want of proper food, moisture, darkness and warmth.

Very often people ask me, "Where did the first germ come from?" And I have always asked them in return, "Where did the first man come from, or where did the first horse come from?"

The reason for telling the above is this: When a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria or smallpox or tuberculosis occurs, it means that the disease was contracted because the caurative organism germ, was picked up from some one who had the germ, usually a person who is also suffering from the disease. Some people can harbor the germs, usually in their throats, without having the disease, yet they can pass the germs on to children who do get sick. Other people can have a mild form of the disease and not know they are sick or suffer just a little and do not get the care of a physician.

Since the germs come from other germs and one case almost always develops because of having been in contact with another case, the health department is constantly looking for the place from which the germ came before getting into this particular person. When it is possible to find that place, then we start looking again for the place it came from before getting there, and so on indefinitely. That is called epidemiological investigation of a case of communicable disease. When a great many cases occur at one time it is usually easy to locate the cause, but when one case occurs at a time it is usually difficult or impossible to locate the source of the infection.

When a communicable disease, above mentioned examples, occurs, the physicians should suspect every similar sickness no matter how slight, in the relatives, friends, neighbors or playmates, of being the same thing until proven otherwise. When these diseases are prevalent in the neighborhood even in small numbers, parents should be careful to guard their children from visiting or playing with children who get sick for a day or two and then recover without seeing a physician. School children are required by law to bring a certificate from a physician when they are home sick for a day or two, or should be examined by the school physician or nurse for evidence of communicable disease; why shouldn't parents do that in private life; that is, expect to have a report from a physician on the children that are sick before permitting their children to play with them. If the children cannot give a physician's report, parents can ask the health department physician to inspect them.

SUSPECT JAILED IN ROBBERY CASE

Brooke county authorities were convinced last night that George "Teas" Lewis, negro, held as a suspect in the investigation of the recent robbery of the Windsor Provision store at Beech Bottom, is one of the two negroes who committed that "job." Jack and Bolek Winski, proprietors of the Beech Bottom store, whom the robbers locked in a huge refrigerator after they had taken $2,000 from them, last night said they believed the prisoner one of the two store robbers.

Brooke county officers are working on clues which they believe will lead to apprehension of the man said to have led Lewis in robbery of the store.

Lewis was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bowman at the home of Elder Brown, negro, early yesterday morning and following an attempt by Lewis to shoot his way out of the house when Bowman placed him under arrest. Bowman was wounded in the left hand in an exchange of shots with Lewis and another of the three negroes who escaped from the house.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

One of the pictures, now in production, that all the fans are looking for with great interest is Metro Goldwyn-Mayer film version of Lew Wallace's great novel, "Ben Hur." With Fred Niblo wielding the megaphone and May McAvoy, Ramon Navarra, Kathleen Key, Claire McDowell, Sarmel Myers and Francis X. Bushman in the cast it will be a noteworthy production. The fact that it is being filmed in Italy is another thing that adds to its interest.

Claire McDowell is to play the part of Ben Hur's mother in the film. She has mothered many of the screen favorites in her time so it well fitted for this distinguished role. She is one of those well trained and conscientious actresses who graduated from the legitimate stage to photoplay work, and whose careful work shows the experience she has had.

She was born and educated in New York City, nad served her stage apenticeship under the lamented Charles Frohman in such productions as "Way Down East," "The Clansman" and "Herod." For the screen she has worked for Biograph, Universal, Triangle, Mary Pickford, Famous players, First National, etc. Here are some of the photoplays in which you will recall seeing her: "Something to Think About," "Midsummer Madness," "What Exery Woman Knows," "Nice People," "Love Never Dies," "Mother o' Mine," "The Jack-Knife Man" and "Human Wreckage."

This is the first picture we have had of Miss McDowell that shows her naturally dark hair. It is usually made to look gray in pictures.

Clara Bow, far-famed flapper, is heading the casts of two Schulberg productions, "Capital Punishment" and "Free to Love." As soon as they are finished she will have what we are assured is the biggest opportunity of her career in a film version of Belasco's play, "The Boomerang," Raymond McKee, who was associated with her in "Down to the Sea in Ships," is with her in this picture.

Helen Chadwick had bear meat for her Christmas dinner as an old friend of the family who lives in Chadwick, N. Y., Helen's birth place, sent her one that he shot in the Adriondack. A case of beauty and the beast in a new version, we'll say.

Betty Blythe has started work on "Speed" which an independent producer is making for the Banner people. Pauline Garon is also in the cast.

Alice Poyce and Holmes Herbert are playing together again after two year's separation. They are the leads in "A Man's World."

Robert L. Wilson Dead.

Deceased, who was born at Pughtown, is well known in this section. He resided at Hookstown for a number of years prior to taking up his residence in Pittsburgh.

Work Is Resumed.

Relic of Gen. Jackson Taken From Old Home Given to Tennessee

NASHVILLE—One of the latest relics received by the State department of Archives, to go into the new State Museum in the War Memorial building, is an old-fashioned wooden lock from one of the doors of the first house occupied by Andrew Jackson when he came to Tennessee.

The house, known as the Dismuke place at Hadley's Bend, is being razed to make way for the erection of the Du Pont silk fibre plant.

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets For Puny Kids

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Anderson, Larkins, Carnahan and Mathews' Medicine store, and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards, but show results in a few days.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Happiness Must Be Earned.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me how to make life more pleasant. I have been married about 30 years, have four grown children, none small. My husband is a good provider, very conceited, cross and crabby, has a grouch on most of the time, and has lost several fine jobs on account of being so crabby. His mother lives with us and has for 15 years. It was my fault she came, but she was sick for a short time and I felt sorry for her. Now she is quite old and not able to keep house. Her ways are so different nationally and it is hard to understand one another. She is always nosing in my things. I am at an age where the doctor says it is bad that I have to have her. She has money to pay her way in an Old Ladies' Home. She doesn't want to go there, but I am sure she would be more contented and I know I would as I am a nervous wreck. I often feel like leavin all and would were it not for disgracing my children. I have lived on faith that he would change, but I am close to being hysterical. I have cried and prayed and now feel like fighting. I am taking nerve medicine continually. —M. M. O. P.

My dear woman, you are giving too much thought to yourself and not putting enough love into life. You say that your husband is cross and crabby, but has it ever occurred to you that he might write the same of you. Perhaps your husband is suffering from nerves too. You will not find happiness by putting your mother-in-law into a home. Just imagine how you would feel at her age; surely you would not want any one to urge you to pay your way into a home. You will find happiness, however, by making the best of her presence in the home and realizing how very much worse she might be. What if she does nose into your affairs? She is at an age now where she has a little of interest in her own life that she turns to your interests. Try to handle your husband with love and a change of heart and attitude. I am positive that if you began thinking happier and healthier thoughts your husband would also use more self-control. Meet his sharpness with kindness. At first it will be hard, but as time goes on you will find him trying to be better natured and the thing you have cried and prayed for will be brought about. Fighting would be the worst possible remedy for your trouble.

Better Talk With Parents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old and go with a boy two years older than I am. He is a very good boy around me. We don't go many places—either stay at home or once in a while we go to the show. I have friends who do a good deal of talking about us and tell me that he goes with another girl. Should I believe him or the one who tells me? I love him and hate to hear any talk of him. What should I do and what should I believe?

Even if the young man goes with another girl, that is no argument against him. You and he are not engaged and therefore both of you are free to go with whomever you please. When the girl tells you he has gone with some one else, tell her, "What if he has?" Of course if you hear much against his reputation you should be careful about going with him. It would not pay to lose a good name merely because you enjoy his company. Talk the matter over with your parents and get their opinion. Because of their more mature years they are better able to judge the young man's character by seeing and knowing him.

Too Young to Marry.

Dear Mrs. Tohmpson: I am engaged to a young man. He is very nice to me. I am only seventeen years old and my folks think me too young to marry, but I love him and believe he loves me. Will you please advise me? DOLLY.

You are too young to be engaged. Since your parents do not want you to be, tell the young man to wait a few years before asking you to give your promise to him. If your love is real it will stand the test of time.

Negroes Favor Philadelphia.

The migrations of negroes from the southern states to the north have been felt in many states, but Philadelphia, Pa., has especially felt the influx. During the last year there have been on an average 5,000 arriving a month, many of whom endeavored to establish homes, though many moved on.

Lloyd's Register shows a drop of more than 1,000,000 tons in the world's shipping between June, 1923, and June, 1924.

Rebuilding of Bank Of England Launched; More Room Needed

LONDON—The great task of rebuilding the Bank of England is under way. The architect of the new edifice is Herbert Baker, one of whose earliest works was the building of Groote Schuur for Cecil Rhodes, outside Cape Town.

A considerable amount of discussion has taken place as to how much, if any, of the old building should be incorporated in the new. The Bank of England is generally regarded as the greatest achievement of Sir John Soane, and lovers of London's old buildings were naturally anxious to retain as much of his work as possible. The directors of the bank only wanted more room for their staff, which was vastly increased since Sloane's day.

Land Acquired For Russian Orthodox Seminary in Paris

PARIS.—The Soviet government, having suppressed the seminaries and theological colleges in Russia, the Metropolitan Evlogie, the accredited head of the Russian Church in Europe, has decided to establish a theological academy in Paris and for that purpose has contracted to purchase the sequestered German church and schools in the Rue de la Crimee from the French Government.

Tobacco Growers Numerous.

GALLIPOLIS — Gallia county tobacco growers who came here several days ago to sell their 1924 crops were so numerous that all could not be cared for in one day, as usual. Many of them were forced to remain two days. The crop in this district was good.

To Check Ginger Sale.

COLUMBUS — Legislation designed to control the sale of Jamaica ginger is under consideration, it is reported here. The proposed bill is contemplated as a means of stopping the promiscuous sale of ginger which is said to be assuming a serious phase. The Illinois law probably will be used as a model for drafting the proposed Ohio law. It is planned to sale of ginger to bonafide groceries and drug stores, thus preventing its sale in pool rooms, bowling alleys, ice cream parlors, soft drink establishments and other places, it was stated.

Should the tides in the Bay of Fundy be harnessed, sufficient power can be generated at the Lubec Narrows to supply every industry of New England, it is estimated.

DRINK WATER FREELY IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

COUNTY HEALTH COMMISSIONER FILES REPORT FOR DECEMBER

Birth Registrations Surpass Deaths in Figures Compiled by Dr. T. T. Church.

Birth registrations exceeded the reports of deaths filed with the office of County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church during December, the report for that month discloses and which was issued today.

Only 32 deaths in the territory assigned to the county health commissioner's office were reported.

Three still-born deaths were recorded, and there were four deaths of children of the age up to one year. Two children between the ages of five and 10 years died and one person between the age of 30 and 40 years.

There were six deaths of people between the ages of 50 and 60 years and four died between the age of 60 and 70 years. Six died between the age of 70 and 80 years and a line number of deaths were reported of people between the ages of 80 and 90 years.

Three cases of scarlet fever were reported in December, one in Lisbon village, another in Elkrun township and two in Leetonia. The one case of smallpox was reported in Lisbon. Only one case of measles was reported and that was from Leetonia, while three cases of whooping cough were reported in Fairfield township and one case in Washingtonville. Butler township came to the front with 11 cases of mumps and five cases of mumps were reported in Perry township.

More cases of chickenpox were reported in Lisbon in December than any other community, although the record for this ailment for December shows cases as follows: Butler township 2, Perry township 1, Columbiana 2, Salem township 5.

Tuberculosis is reported as the cause of only one death during December, and this was of an aged person.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

A petition has been filed in common pleas court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Apex Furniture company, of East Palestine. The petition was filed by Attorney L. M. Kyes in behalf of S. B. McClure, who seeks a judgment against Charles F. Rainey, Edward Lane and Donald Fitzsimmons, doing business under the name of the Apex Furniture company. Mr. McClure seeks collection of $3,913.31, balance claimed due on a note for $5,500, bearing date of November 27, 1923, covered by a chattle mortgage on the goods of the Apex Furniture company.

The petition recounts that the assets remaining are not sufficient to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, and that the mortgaged property is in danger of being lost.

VERDICT GIVEN BY MIXED JURY

A jury composed of four women and eight men in common pleas court has returned a verdict for $548.97 in the case of Frank Chalfant, doing business as the Dinwiddie Stave company, against C. A. Spanley and others, the amount being claimed to be due on a car of staves.

The case of Cora D. Layland against William H. Layland, for allmony, which was filed for the plaintiff by Attorney James E. O'Grady, of Wellsville, the court has ordered the defendant to pay the attorney fees of the plaintiff, and then dissolved the restraining order and dismissed the case.

Granted Leave to File.

In the case of the Employers' Mutual Insurance and Service company against H. F. McNutt, which is a claim for $100.80, the court has granted the defendant permission to withdraw the demurrer now on file and has been given leave to file a new demurrer and petition.

Frank M. Laughlin, as defendant in the divorce action filed against him by his wife, Grace M. Laughlin, has been granted leave until February 7

Columbiana

A large crowd, about half of which was from Salem, saw the most exciting game of the season Friday night at the Columbiana gym, when the home boys defeated Salem high by the narrow margin of one point, the final score being 36 to 35. While it was not the best game of the season due to poor shooting on both sides, perhaps the most exciting, due to the natural rivalry between the two teams and the partisanship of the crowds. Columbiana outplayed Salem the greater part of the game. At one point in the fourth quarter, Salem was leading by six points and it looked as though they had the game sewed up, but the local boys spurted and took the lead and succeeded in holding it to the finish. The floor game of the boys was their best of the season and there was no star player, although Burkle led in the scoring with eighteen points, resulting from seven baskets and four foul shots. Rupert guarded Houser closely. Houser was about half of the Salem team, and although he missed many easy shots toward the close of the game, yet scored seventeen points.

The C. H. S. girls were outclassed by 46 to 29, the score at the end of the first half being 28 to 7 for Salem. "Danny" Williaman, Salem's wonder player was three-fourths of the team and made 32 of Salem's points, mostly in the first half. The home girls seemed unable to guard her successfully and she is probably the surest shot that ever appeared on the local floor. Capt. "Sammy" Gleckler made 20 of the 29 points, besides playing a wonderful floor game.

Salem High school will entertain the Class B tournament this year, February 27th and 28th being the dates. Salem, East Liverpool and Wellsville High school teams will compete in the Class A tournament elsewhere, while Columbiana, East Palestine, Lisbon, Hanoverton, Rogers, New Waterford, Fairfield and Salineville will fight it out at Salem. Last year this tournament was held at Columbiana.

NOONDAY SHOP SERVICES HERE

Meetings Tomorrow in Laughlin and Knowles Plants.

Three noonday shop meetings under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. industrial department will be held here tomorrow.

Dr. Frank G. Fowler, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, East Liverpool, will speak at Laughlin No. 6. W. H. Nagel will be the leader.

Rev. Frederic A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, East End, will be the speaker at the Edwin M. Knowles plant.

Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, East Liverpool, will have charge of the services at Laughlin No. 4.

MOULDS GIVEN CHOICE PLACE

J. William Moulds, who represents Hancock county in the lower house at Charleston, has been named chairman of the committee on railroads. This is one of the choice appointments in the house.

James L. Deuey, Brooke county, heads the educational committee. Senator William S. Wilkin, of the first district, expects to draw a number of committee assignments.

Speed Up Census Work.

H. S. McDevitt, Pittsburgh, who is in charge of the farm census now under way in Hancock, Ohio and Brooke counties and nine counties in western Pennsylvania, has instructed canvassers to speed up the work of gathering statistics.

Reports indicate slow progress in Hancock county with the result that a call has gone out for farmers or members of their families to file applications for places as enumerators.

Aid Society Meets.

Aid society of the First Presbyterian church met last evening in the church parlors. The topic was "China." Mrs. H. G. Lewis was the leader. Mrs. Charles Kennedy and Mrs. Charles Orin were the hostesses.

Mid-Week Prayer Services.

Mid-week prayer services will be held tonight in the various churches of the city. Pastors will be in charge of the devotionals.

Peat in Poland has been found to be half as efficient as coal for heating.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are pleasant to take, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat. You can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet with fear of bad effects. Get a box and start getting slender now.

When Children Cough Act Quickly

Watch your child closely when he gets a "cold" and begins to cough. Many a case of croup and serious illness has been turned aside with a few doses of that fine old medicine, Kemp's Balsam. Act promptly. Don't be discouraged because ordinary cough syrups fail to help—stick to Kemp's Balsam. Just a few doses bring the relief you are looking for.

Only 30 cents at all stores.

For that Cough / KEMP'S BALSAM

ECZEMA

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing!

MANY people imagine that eczema or tetter needs only some external application on the skin in order to get relief. This is because the attention of the sufferer is so violently directed to the intense burning and itching which accompanies this disease. Try as they may—permanent relief will never be theirs until the disease laden blood is thoroughly cleansed.

We know there is one thing that stops eczema and that is more red-blood-cells! S.S.S. builds them by the million! You can increase your red-blood-cells to the point where it is practically impossible for eczema to exist. We know that as blood-cells increase in number, blood impurities vanish! We also know that night follows day. Both are facts! But have you, eczema sufferers, ever actually taken advantage of this wonderful fact? Thousands just like you have never thought about it. Skin eruptions, eczema, with all its fiery, skin digging torture, and its soul-tearing, unreachable itching, pimples, blackheads and boils, they all pack up and go, when the tide of blood-cells begins to roll in! Blood-cells are the fighting giants of Nature! S.S.S. builds them by the million! It has been doing it since 1826.

S.S.S. is one of the greatest blood-cell builders, blood-cleansers and body strengtheners known to us mortals! When you put these facts together,—then to continue to have eczema and skin eruptions looks more like a sin than a disease. S.S.S. contains only vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S.S.S. does build red-blood-cells, it routs eczema, clears the skin, builds firm flesh, fills out hollow cheeks, and gives you that more up and going appearance.

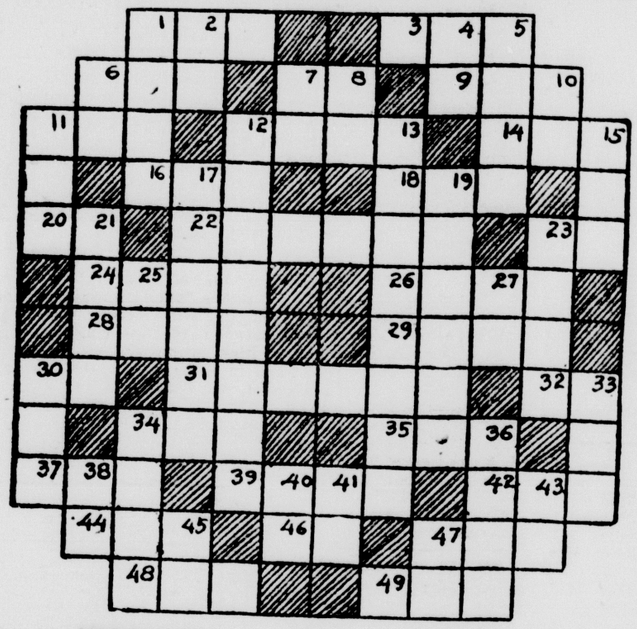

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

Procrastinating.

When blessin's like these I own—
Th' patter o' feet thet come down t' meet
My tread; an' th' eager tone
O' someone a callin' frum down th' lane
In voice thet is soft an' kind.
Ther's plenty, I know, thet awaits.
But—oh!
Ther's too much t' leave behind.

I reckon I ain't in no rush t' wend
Th' length o' th' golden street
When here I kin tread t' th' cot ahead
With glad wings o' love at my fet,
An' there at th' end o' my journeyin' catch
Frum out a' th' ev'nin' gloam
A song thet is fine—ee angels o' mine
A callin' t' greet me home.
I 'low ther ain't much thet I'm missin' now
Thet Heaven kin hold fer me;
Fer whut end I miss thet is more than this:
Th' shouts o' th' childish glee
O' them thet I love. In th' Over There
Is nothin' fer which I grieve;
Too much uv its love has come down from above.

There's Real Medicine Now For Stubborn Hang-On Coughs

When nothing seems to do that lingering, bothersome cough any good just go to Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and get a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion.

Take it as directed and notice how easily it overcomes that persistent cough that has caused you many sleepless nights.

It's a medicine compounded for the purpose of conquering tough, hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly.

There is no dope in Bronchuline Emulsion, nor chloroform, nor sugar—such things are only makeshifts and should be taken with the greatest caution.

For ordinary simple coughs two or three doses of Bronchuline Emulsion is usually enough.

Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and dealers everywhere can supply you.

THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Her tone revealed a good deal. "Indeed I am. I have been enjoying your divan and my fire."

"May I come?"

"Do."

To Karesia his very presence was restful. "It seems a long time since I saw you last. You're quite settled?"

"Even to the kitchen mop. Are you comfortable over in your house?"

"Yes. Everything about the place reminds me of you. You and cheer are synonymous."

Karesia thought that he looked as if he and cheer had been long parted. He looked grim and worn. "How is Clarice?" she asked gently.

Dascome looked away. "I scarcely—know," he answered slowly. "She can't go on—as she is—for ever. Taki takes her meals to her, he knows her disposition well, and he tells me she is not ill, only grieving—like a dog for its dead master. I haven't seen her for a week. I tried to talk to her, but it was no use."

Karesia was shocked. Only the extremest anxiety would wring such a confession from him. She judged him to be the kind that would endure silently an injury to himself, endure Clarice's unfilial conduct and not complain, but to see her suffer was beyond his endurance; for he loved his daughter. To Karesia it was an utterly painful situation: Rossiter was her husband, there was nothing she could say to comfort Clarice; she would only hurt her the more. She had no doubt that Rossiter, like herself, had considered getting a divorce and marrying Clarice, then had changed his mind. She did not know what to say to Dascome.

The look that rose in his eyes reminded her of Clarice. "I know I should not come to you with any such request, but I am desperate. It has occurred to me that you might persuade Mr. Rossiter to send Clarice some little token of regard—flowers with a word of interest. You will know what is best." He had flushed until he was scarlet.

Karesia had some conception of what the request cost him. He detested Rossiter as completely as Rossiter detested him. "I will," she said quickly. "Rand will do it."

"You see," Dascome explained, "only the fact that she was determined to come here and that she was not of age yet and must have a guardian forced her to accept my guardianship. She will be eighteen very soon, and I am desperately anxious that she should pull out of this fit of despair before she comes into her fortune. She will have ten millions then, and, in her present mood, there is no telling what the child will do."

Karesia's eyes widened. "Ten millions!"

"Yes. From her grandfather's estate. Clarice has extraordinary beauty, she has a fortune as well, and I know that she is capable of utter devotion to any one she loves. She can be influenced by any one she loves—it is the only way in which she can be influenced. As it is with her now—well, I am afraid she may do something desperate."

There had sprung into Karesia's mind a tremendous possibility. John Dascome was a skilful man; he had presented the possibility to her and he watched her change color. He drew an inaudible breath and the lines about his mouth relaxed. "I think a kindly word from Mr. Rossiter, some little attention which would cost him nothing, might lift her out of despair."

The thought that had sprung into Karesia's mind was: "Oh, if only Rand would turn to Clarice—free himself and me! She loves him and her fortune would help him in his enterprise." During that two weeks Dascome had not thrust himself upon Karesia, but he had observed her coming and going with Rossiter; from the set of a woman's shoulders, her walk and general bearing, a close observer can judge pretty accurately whether she is inclined to the man at her side. John Dascome had drawn his own conclusions.

"I shall see what can be done," Karesia said, a little thickly.

"Thank you—very much. It is another great kindness you have done me." Then he dropped the subject. "How is Mary Bliss?" he asked.

Karesia collected herself. "I am certain she is improving. She is losing the cringing, whipped look she used to have. She seems so contended in her pretty room with her sewing and her canary. I want to put her under a doctor's care, but I can't see how to manage it without frightening her to death."

"Why not wait a little?" Dascome advised. "I knew you would be interested, so I asked Colt to find out all he could about her. He telegraphed to St. Catherine's Orphans' Home in Montreal. He made some notes which I have here." Dascome took from his pocket the paper which he had carried about with him for two weeks. "According to the asylum records, Mary Bliss was born deficient. Undoubtedly she has been ill-treated and over-worked, and I think she is hysterical. A physician would prescribe exactly what you are doing for her, rest and good food and an avoidance of excitement. If a physician were not very skilful, he might frighten her into an attack that would be fatal."

"The nuns give good training, Mrs. Kaime. Many of the nuns of St. Catherine's are gentlefolk. It is an old and honorable institution."

"Poor Mary Bliss!" Karesia said softly. "Her fortune marred before she was born. A theosophist would explain it, I suppose. The orthodox would say that it was the will of God." She smiled up at Dascome, her eyes robbing her words of abruptness. "When are you going to tell me your history?"

A flash of expression crossed his face; Karesia did not know whether it was surprise or annoyance or pain, and instantly she was regretful. Her question had been involuntary, simply a craving for greater intimacy. When he smiled it was a relief. "I told you to investigate me—didn't you?"

Karesia laughed a little. "I'm afraid I'm not a model landlady. I have never asked any one except yourself a single question about you."

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Beans—Soak the beans overnight in cold water. In the morning pour off the water in which they were soaked and put on fresh and cook until the skins will roll up when you put a few in a pound of salt pork in the middle of the beans and bake slowly for about two hours.

Ventilation is just as important—more so in fact—in the winter than in the summer. No house is healthy that does not admit fresh air freely. This rule applies just as much to the kitchen as to any other room in the house. When washing or cooking are going on in a house in cold weather the windows are quite likely to steam up. If they are opened slightly at the top the steam will drift out and will not cloud windows. This is not always possible, though, and if the steam does cloud the glass it may be wiped off with paper. Some housewives use ordinary newspaper, others say that they save all the tissue paper that comes into the house for this purpose. Tissue paper may also be used to wipe the dust off the inside of the windows.

Three pounds uncooked veal chopped fine with one pound pork, six butter crackers rolled fine, two beaten eggs, salt, pepper and a little sage. Mix well together, put in a greased pan and baste occasionally while cooking. Bake two hours.

Chocolate Sauce — One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, quarter teaspoon salt, two tablespoons cocoa or two squares chocolate, one cup boiling water. Mix first ingredients together and gradually add the water, boil up, add one teaspoon butter and serve over the cake.

SUGGESTIONS.

When ironing pongee blouses or drapes, if you do not dampen them the material remains soft and lustrous and the results are much more satisfactory.

Corks placed in bottles containing gum, glue, shoe polish, and other sticky substances are often difficult to remove. They will not stick if a little glycerine is rubbed over them.

To remove pecan meats from shells, pour hot water over the pecans, letting them soak about ten minutes. Drain off the water, let them cool and then crack the shells. The pecan meats may then be removed in halves.

If riced potatoes are desired and no potato ricer is to be had, put the potatoes through the food chopper. This has been found to be very handy.

Remove the brush from the carpet sweeper and wash it in a quart of water to which a large tablespoon of ammonia has been added. Wipe off all the moisture you can with a cloth, replace the brush in sweeper and you will be surprised at the results.

By covering a well-greased pan with cheesecloth when baking a large fish, it will be found very easy to lift out of the pan without losing its shape.

Is Doubting Thomas No Longer

"All medicines and doctors for stomach trouble proved worthless in my case. Everybody recommended something else and nothing helped, so I became a doubting Thomas as to any cure. While in St. Louis a party praised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I bought a bottle and I am now a doubting Thomas no longer." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Steinach Too Poor To Continue Work; May Come to U. S.

VIENNA—Dr. Eugene Steinach, world-famous inventor of the "rejuvenation" theory, intends to leave Vienna shortly and seek pastures new, as he cannot raise the necessary money for buying his instruments and animals for new experiments.

It is reported that Steinach has received several advantageous offers from the United States and Czecho-Slovakia, where more interest is being displayed in his system than in his own country.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead o serious lung trouble. You can stop them ow with Creomulsion, an emulsified creote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion e a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Answers to Questions
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Was Robert Lincoln ever our representative to England?—L. E. R.

A. Robert Todd Lincoln served as minister to the Court of St. James from 1889 to 1893. Mr. Lincoln is the son of Abraham Lincoln, and lives in Washington, making his home in the historic Georgetown section.

Q. What are the largest and smallest counties in the United States?—G. A.

A. San Bernardino county, California, is the largest with an area of 20,175 square miles, and Bristol county, Rhode Island, with an area of 25 square miles is the smallest.

Q. Will all State legislatures be in session this winter—C. S.

A. During 1925 the legislatures of 42 out of the 48 states will be in session regularly, and it is possible that extra or special sessions will be held in others.

Q. How do Christmas waits dress in England?—H. M. C.

A. Now-a-days these Christmas serenaders do not appear in costume. In olden times they wore blue gowns with red sleeves and caps and a silver collar or chain about the neck.

Q. Will rubber-tired vehicles wear down the surface of a concreate road?—B. R.

A. Tests conducted by the Bureau of Public Roads have led government experts to the conclusion that rubber-tired traffic alone does not appreciably abrade the surface of a concrete pavement.

Q. Are minerals single elements or a combination of elements?—C. O.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the various metals are single elements, and combine with other elements, such as oxygen, to form ores, rock, etc. There are 92 such elements, of which 87 have been discovered. The atoms of these elements are composed of two kinds of particles in different numbers and arrangements; positive nuclei and negative electrons. It has been proved possible to break up some of these atoms into simpler atoms, and the belief is tentatively held by some that they were formed originally under high pressure and temperature.

Q. Who were Admiral Dot and Major Atom?—M. A. D.

A. Admiral Dot was a dwarf smaller than Tom Thumb, who was exhibited by P. T. Barnum. Major Atom was the former's nephew.

Q. Of what magazine was Sarah J. Hale, the editor?—D. H. S.

A. In 1828 S. J. Hale became editor of the "Ladies' Magazine." In 1837 this periodical united with "Godeys Ladies' Book" of which Mrs. Hale was literary editor for more than forty years. The familiar poem which begins, "It snows," cries the schoolboy—is by her.

Q. Is the tense of the subordinate clause the same as that of the principal clauses?—T. P. C.

A. The tense of the subrodinate clause is not necessarily the same as that of the principal, but the tense is determined by that of the principal.

Q. Shortly after putting a new fire into a locomotive a terrific rumbling results. What causes this?—L. V. S.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that the rumbling is due to the volatile matter in coal which is drawn off as gas. This gas burns rapidly or explodes.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Earl Massacre at Verdun.

Verdun, which became blood soaked during the world war, had been the scene of previous heavy bloodshed, one of the instances having been in the general massacre of Jews by peasants in a religious misconception in the fourteenth century. This was in about 1317. There was not a Jew in England from 1610 to 1624, and for some time after 1394 there was none in France.

A chapel built on the bridge near Rotherham, England, for pilgrims in 1483, and which later became a tobacco store, has been restored, rechristened and reopened as a religious edifice.

Bread-Always your First Thought

WHENEVER you must prepare a hasty luncheon or a late evening supper, what do you think of first? Sandwiches, isn't it? And a sandwich is at least three-fourths bread. Too, if its BETSY ROSS Bread it is the most nourishing food you can serve.

BETSY ROSS is rich in the essential food elements. Why, a pound loaf contains 59% of the proteins, 38% of the carbohydrates, and 77% of the mineral salts, such as iron, calcium and phosphorus, needed by the body each day. No other single food supplies such large proportions of these elements.

But, because "There's a difference in bread" it will be to your advantage to select the high food-value loaf. Don't just say "bread"—say BETSY BOSS.

Club Sandwich

Trim crust from three slices of BETSY ROSS and toast. Butter one slice and cover with roast chicken cut thin. Butter both sides of next slice and lay over chicken. Cover with lettuce and lay strips of freshly fried bacon over lettuce. Pour on a little mayonnaise dressing and cover with third slice of toasted bread. Cut diagonally and garnish with sliced tomato, pickle and olive.

Runyon Says

You Can Out-Game Old Death.
It's a Matter of Mental Courage.
Mike Egan "Beat It" at Saranac.
Swinnerton Went to the Desert.
Only the Faint-Hearted Fall.

By DAMON RUNYON.
(Copyright, 1925, by International Feature Service.)

IF you should go to Saranac Lake, haven of hope for those afflicted with tuberculosis, you will ride from the railroad station to your hotel in one of Mike Egan's vehicles.

Mike Egan is the owner of the transportation concession at the station. He is a well-known citizen of Saranac Lake, and prosperous. He weighs 200 pounds.

If you are an old-timer, the name Mike Egan may have a familiar ring. Years ago he was the handball champion of America, a great athlete. Handball is a game requiring good physicial condition, agility, a keen eye.

It is the same that brings every muscle into play. Great handball players are as rare as great players in any other game. Mike Egan was a marvel.

Like many athletes, he contracted tuberculosis.

You ask why athletes seem more susceptible to this dread malady than ordinary mortals.

It is perhaps because they are athletes. They are confident of their strength, careless of exposure.

You wouldn't have given a nickel for Mike Egan's life when they took him off the train at Saranac. He weighed ninety-five pounds. He had twenty-four hemorrhages in a few hours.

But he "beat it," as they say of victory over "TB."

He kept his mental courage. He refused to concede the possibility of defeat, which meant the grave.

Doctors will tell you that in the fight to "beat" tuberculosis, Mental courage is as important as the medical treatment. It is fifty per cent of the battle.

Most everyone, in my opinion, who goes to Saranac with "TB."... can "beat it," if they retain their Mental courage and adhere strictly to the rules of treatment.

The cool, clean air of Saranac helps, no doubt of that. It is a wonderfully soothing tonic to the disease-bruised lungs.

But self-discipline, which is part of Mental courage, also is important. There is no royal road to "beating it" at Saranac, or anywhere else.

And doctors will tell you that a little self-discipline, a little mental courage in the observance of the ordinary rules of health, will generally "beat" tuberculosis before it has a chance to start.

It is a wonderful spot for rest and recreation, even if you aren't seeking to "beat" tuberculosis. It is the principal seat of Winter sports in America.

Christy Mathewson, once famous pitcher of the New York Giants, now president of the Boston Braves, maintains a permanent home at Saranac Lake. Mathewson went there with a desperate case of "TB."

He wasn't expected to live more than a few weeks. But he apparently has "beat it."

Like Egan, Mathewson outgamed death.

He fought it as he had often fought on the baseball field, cooly, carefully.

He knew he was in the ninth inning of life when he went to Saranac, with the score 3 to 1 against him.

But he had "pulled out" many cases more desperate than that on the baseball field by keeping his mental courage, by never losing his nerve, and he "pulled out" this one.

They tapped his chest, wagged their heads solemnly, and told Swinnerton to go to Arizona TO DIE! Swinnerton laughed.

"I'll go to Arizona, all right," he said, "but not to die. I'll go there TO LIVE!"

You see Swinnerton today tanned, rugged looking, and you wouldn't believe he was one sentenced to death.

He "beat it" in Arizona by living out in the desert, by never permitting himself to become depressed, discouraged. And he was living under conditions and in isolated localities calculated to produce depression.

Other men of his profession went to Arizona in Swinnerton's time and died, mainly because they were MENTALLY "licked" from the start.

Swinnerton refused to give up. He laughed at the idea of losing his fight, of dying. He OUT-GAMED death by his MENTAL courage.

That is why he is living now and making a lot of money.

Of course, it isn't absolutely necessary to go to Saranac Lake, or Arizona, to "beat" tuberculosis.

They merely happen to be places where climate may be added to medical treatment.

Some doctors say with MENTAL courage, you can "beat" the dread "TB" anywhere, that climate is wholly secondary.

The writer once lived in Colorado, and in those days many celebrities of sport came drifting that way seeking climatic surcease.

You could find them in the sporting resorts, talking of old friends, and old times "back East." It was interesting to observe the different mental attitudes.

Some had abandoned hope from the moment the doctors told htem they "had it." They stood around, listless, depressed, with no further aim or ambition. They felt they were exiles, hopeless, doomed.

Their interest in life had departed. They were simply waiting for the end. Their MENTAL courage was gone, though they may have been lions in PHYSICAL courage.

Then there were others who, so far from thinking of dying, were just commencing to LIVE.

They had changed their former system of life, had abandoned late hours, dissipation, and were briskly seeking something to turn their hands to while trying to regain their health.

You will find many of these still living in Colorado, healthy, happy, prosperous. Some of the others, the spiritless ones, may also still be in Colorado, but they are NOT living.

Nothing At All.

Benny Leonard says he is quitting the ring because of his mother's requests. This makes it plain that his stage contracts, the vision of Sid Terris and his poor showing in his last bout had nothing to do with the decision.

HARMON-JONES SET FOR SCRAP

Eastern Sensation Comes Across With Forfeit Money.

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 21. — Willie Harmon of New York, who will battle with Jimmy Jones at the Raven-Wood auditorium here on Friday night, was dealt a $200 wallop by the Youngstown boxing commission when he was forced to come across with the rest of his forfeit money.

Harmon had posted $.00 with the commission but the contracts called for $400. Kelley, Harmon's manager, finally produced the balance.

As a result arrangements for the scrap are tapering off to the point of completion. Harmon will arrive in Youngstown probably today and will finish up his training here.

Jones has been going about his training with more pep and vim than usual and sends word that he will give the eastern sensation more than he bargains for.

On paper it appears that Jones may be in for a lacing. Records of the past few months show that Harmon has beaten decisively Eddie Bernbrook, Georgie Ward, K. O. Phil Kaplan, Harry Martone and Paul Doyle, all welters considered of first class rating in the east. Recently in Pittsburgh Harmon handed a flock of fists to Eddie Shevlin of Boston. Matt Hinkel of Cleveland will be referee.

The rest of the card shapes up well, with Eddie Bowen taking on Homer LeBlanche of Detroit, in an eight rounder; Ray Schauers meeting Young Riley of Dayton in eight rounds, and Pinkie Kauffman with Bobby Milo of Meadville in the six-round opener. The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m.

Stoops to See Old Friends On Trip In Hancock County

Former Weirton and New Cumberland Mentor Bringing in Normal Five for Series of Contests.

Coach Stoops will be on familiar territory when he leads his squad to Chester, New Cumberland and Weirton this week. While he was principal and coach at Weir High in 1919 the Weir High girls' basketball team won sixteen straight games under his tutelage and many still argue that the team was the greatest ever seen at Weirton. That same year the boys had a very successful season, winning the county championship and about 18 out of 25 games played. In 1920 Stoops went to New Cumberland as superintendent of schools and coach of athletics. While at New Cumberland he won championships in baseball and football. Basketball was not played as there was no gym in New Cumberland then. Pie Harrington played center on Coach Stoops' 1919 basketball team at Weirton and he will oppose his former mentor Saturday night.

The West Liberty Normal team is not optimistic concerning Saturday night's game. The small floor at Weir High will be somewhat of a handicap and Coach Stoops realizes that Jimmy Anderson, former Carnegie Tech star, has a real team, which recently held Bethany college to a one-point victory. The Normalites will be satisfied if they can hold Anderson's quint to a close count. Record of team to date:

West Liberty 19, Glenville State Normal 18.
West Liberty 32, Alumni 29.
West Liberty 15, Parkersburg Cassys 31.
West Liberty 20, Salem College 24.
West Liberty 27, Broaddus College 26.

The last three games were played on a trip down state.

ACME PASSERS DEFEAT NEWELL

The Acme basketball team defeated the Newell high school passers, 40 to 25, in a well played contest last night on the St. Stephen's floor.

Mackey scored 20 of the winning squad's points. C. Neese and L. Nease were the best performers for the losers. The lineup:

Acme.		Newell High.
Mackey	F.	C. Nease
Manypenny	F.	G. Deems
Kinney	C.	L. Nease
Carey	G.	Wanson
Dyer	G.	Rariden

Substitutions—Watkins for Manypenny, McCormick for Wanson, Pollock for Watkins.

Field goals—Mackey 9, Manypenny 3, Pollock 3, Kinney 2, Carey 2, C. Nease 4, Deems 1, L. Nease 4, Rariden 1.

RUBIEN'S TEAM IS ANNOUNCED

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—There will be weeping and wailing and grinding of the incisors by certain young men of the spiked shoe profession when they give Frederick W. Rubien's all-American track and field team, announced today, the optical left to right.

Mr. Rubien, as secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., can be said to have his index finger on the pulse of the situation at all times, yet some of his selections are not quite open to comprehension.

By nightfall, for example, it is possible that De Hart Hubbard, University of Michigan Negro and justifiably proud of his broad jumping ability, may be one of the four out of five who masticate with the bare gums. Hubbard beat 24 feet more times than any jumper in the world last year and as far as my knowledge goes, finished the season undefeated. He won the western conference title, the Olympic tryouts at Boston, the Olympic title itself at Paris and finally the national championship.

Was he named as the best broad jumper in this country? He was not.

The place went to Bob Legendre of Newark A. C., who broke the world's record by clearing a fraction more than 25 feet six inches and then called it a campaign. Legendre was beaten by Hubbard, Ned Gourdin, W. Dowding and Al Rose at the national meet; in fact, failed to place at all.

Hubbard may be placated by the fact he was named as the best in the hop, step and jump, but I doubt it. The event lacks consequence.

Another selection that may bruise the finer sensibilities of our hardy athletes is that of Horatio Fitch, Chicago A. A., in the quarter mile. Horatio came along like the wind at the Olympic games, and in addition to breaking the record in his heat, chased Eric Liddell right into another new mark in the 400 metre finals. Then he stopped in his tracks. He made a poor showing at the United Kingdom versus America games in London and followed it up by finishing to the rear of Jimmy Burgess, G. T. Stevenson and Cliff Stowers at the national championships.

LUTHERANS WIN FROM M.E. SQUAD

Victors Obtain Verdict in Last Quarter Rally.

In one of the outstanding Sunday school league contests of the present season, the Lutherans defeated the Methodist Episcopal quint, 21 to 15, last night on the high school floor. The contest developed a classy brand of basketball.

The M. E. Juniors obtained a verdict over the Lutheran Juniors in the preliminary, the count being 21 to 18.

Both the Lutheran and the M. E. intermediates played a bang-up game of basketball from start to finish. The Methodists started the scoring when Pyles counted from the foul line. D. Woessner tied it up for the Lutherans.

Bromby registered a field goal and the M. E. passers took the lead. This they held until the first half closed with the score standing 10 to 6.

In the third period the Lutherans managed again to tie the score thru the sharpshooting of Furrer, Davis and Woessner. The end of the third quarter found the score 12 to 12. Field goals by Woessner and Anthony sent the Lutherans ahead.

Karns' foul and Bromby's field goal advanced the M. E. lads, but Davis retaliated with a two-pointer for the Lutherans who at this juncture possessed a five-point margin. A final free toss by Schneidmiller made it six.

Davis and G. Woessner were the main factors in the Lutheran victory while the lossers as a whole put up a good game, with Bromby and Furrer outstanding.

Lutherans.		First M. E.
D. Woessner	F.	Furrer
Anthony	F.	Bromby
Schneidmiller	C.	Brozka
Davis	G.	Pyles
G. Woessner	G.	Karns

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor; scorer, Kimes.

Lutheran Juniors.		M. P. Juniors.
M. Barlow	F.	Angus
Greenwood	F.	Bettridge
A. Woessner	C.	Bailey
Badgley	G.	Burke
J. Barlow	G.	Ankrim

Foul goals — Ankrim 3, Burke 2, Greenwood, Badgley, M. Barlow, Woessner.

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor, scorer, Cooper.

Complaint Will Be Filed Before State Boxing Commission

Gloves Used by Victor Not up to Requirements, is Intimation; Other "Squawk" Day Demands to be Voiced.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—This is squawk day at the meeting of the New York state Athletic commission. According to a program outlined in advance, Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, is expected to go before the commission to request an investigation of Flowers' recent knockout at the hands of Jack Delaney. Miller has been quoted as saying that he suspected that Delaney's gloves did not fulfill the requirements of the boxing code.

Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, also has announced his intention of registering a protest. He declares that he will request the commission that, in the event Jack Dempsey is persuaded to reconsider his announced retirement, the champion is forced to meet Wills before taking on Tom Gibbons.

Plans for a lightweight elimination tournament to determine a successor to Benny Leonard will be discussed at the meeting.

POWER QUINTET DOWNS EPWORTHS

On the First Methodist Episcopal floor last night the Power basketball passers scored a one-sided victory over the Wellsville Epworth League aggregation by the score of 46 to 10.

O. Cunningham and Jester were the scoring aces for the winning five while Martin and Coleman played the best for the Wellsville lads. Lineup and summary.

Power.		Epworth League.
Ashbaugh	F.	Hyatt
O. Cunningham	F.	Wilson
Jester	C.	Johnson
Cochran	G.	Coleman
Rockhold	G.	Martin

Field goals—Jester 11, O. Cunningham 10, Ashbaugh, Hyatt, Wilson.

Foul goals—O. Cunningham, Cochran, Coleman 3, Hyatt 2, Wilson.

Referee—Mensforth.

Managerial Duties Will Shorten Playing Days of Collins

It is generally believed that the managerial duties, finally thrust upon the hands of Eddie Collins, will shorten materially the playing days of the great second baseman Collins has but few rivals at second base in the game s history. Photos above form an interesting study of Collins in action afield.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across).

Word 7. A household pest.

Word 9. The sentinel was pacing to and —.

(Running Down).

Word 1. "Give me — or give me death."

Word 2. Used by fishermen.

Word 3. A grain much enjoyed by horses.

Word 4. A synonym for the word in capitals in this sentence. "The boy was FEARFUL as he waited to have his tooth pulled."

Word 8. Two thousand pounds.

Word 9. The pay of a doctor or lawyer for his services.

PICTURESQUE PIONEER STAGE DRIVER OF OREGON CARRIES WHIP TO GRAVE

Friends Heed Dying Request of Cyrus Willard Barger for Trip to Resting Place in Horse-drawn Carriage.

PORTLAND, Ore.—"Carry me to my grave in a horsedrawn carriage and put a whip in my hand."

It was the dying request of Cyrus Willard Barger, one of the picturesque pioneer stage drivers of the Northwest country. And his friends heeded it by taking him to his final resting place at Silvertop, Ore., in a hearse drawn by two of the finest black horses that could be found. His favorite silver-mounted whip was placed in his right hand, in his coffin.

For nearly fifty years Barger drove stages in Oregon, Idaho, British Columbia, Arizona and the Yosemite Valley. For 40 years he was a trusted employe of Wells-Fargo & Co., leaving the firm when the march of progress removed horses for motorized equipment. He had charge of the company stables in California and was known as one of the best of reinmen wherever a stage coach rumbled over the rugged Northwest areas.

Barger first snapped a whip over a six-in-hand at the age of 20. His father, John Barger, was a '49er who settled land that is now part of Silverton, the old home of the late Homer Davenport, notable cartoonist. His mother was Rebecca J. Barger, for years queen of the Pioneer Mothers, and who died six years ago in Portland at the age of 95.

Barger traveled the Northwest when Indians and road agents lay in wait to ambush stages carrying mail and bullion. His last drive was out of Idaho when robbers held up his bullion-laden vehicle as a rumbled along the route from the Idaho mines to Pendleton.

Barger was literally "driven indoors" when the motor car supplanted the stage coach. For several years the veteran reinsman was night watchman of the Oregon Journal, of Portland, his death being almost coincidental with that of his friend, C. S. Jackson into Pendleton in 1879 and Jackson later became agent for the stage company for which Barger drove. Barger—his whip in hand and violin under his arm—was known throughout the Northwest in the early days. He drove stage during the day and played for dances at the various stations at night.

The Pendleton Round-Up was an attraction which brought Barger to Eastern Oregon every September. There he annually met his old friend of the stage coach days, in recounting the "good old days"—brought back by the arena deeds at the round-up.

Barger was born at Silverton and was married twice. Two daughters survive him—Miss Edna Barger, of San Francisco, and Miss Nellie Barger, of Spokane.

TWO TOUGH ONES FOR BOLES' FIVE

WOOSTER, Jan. 21.—Akron at Akron Thursday and Denison at Wooster Saturday evening is the basketball card which the Wooster college court squad faces this week. Both games will be tough battles. Coacn L. C. Boles began the week with a long scrimmage Monday evening in preparation for them. Wooster's starting lineups for either game will remain in doubt until the last minute.

"Red" Love, star of the Frosh five last season, hasn't been hitting his stride yet. In the opening game with Baldwin-Wallace he counted five field goals. Since then he hasn't been able to get a marker from the floor. His floor work has been excellent.

"Dutch" Pfeiffer got back into the game against Case last Saturday night and helped Wooster to a 30 to 17 victory by getting seven field goals. Pfeiffer was Wooster's leading scorer last year and has been out of the game this season because of injuries.

Coach Boles is working his squad of twelve to the limit this week against the strong Frosh five. Various combinations are being tried to give Wooster a strong offensive team. The probable lineup is a big question but will be picked from Captain Hurst, Manly and McGlashan for guards; Starn, Gee and Anderson for center and Love, Pfeiffer and Dodez for the forwards.

CRITIC LAUDS 'MEET THE WIFE'

Farce Comedy Adds to Its Laurels at Wilmington.

"Meet the Wife," farce comedy, which is the attraction at the Ceramic Theatre, Thursday evening, is a "treat," according to the dramatic critic of the Wilmington, (O.,) Daily News. Says the News:

"Did you Meet the Wife" at the Murphy Theater Tuesday night? If not, you missed a treat. This farce comedy is sparkling with humor, wit, and startling as well as amusing situations, and the generous applause indicated the "wife" was well received.

The story is one growing out of the San Francisco earthquake. The wife's first husband, taking advantage of the fire which followed the quake, disappears, leaving his wife and infant daughter. The supposition is that he was killed in the catastrophe, but not so. He was taken aboard a pirate ship, he declared, held captive a year, then landed in England, where he takes the name Philip Lord, enters the literary field, becomes a noted writer, and as such "the wife" goes wild over him, not knowing his identity. Lord makes a tour of America, lecturing before woman's clubs, and accepts an invitation from Mrs. Harvey Lennox, the "wife," to be guest at her home while in New York.

Three months after the supposed death of the first husband, the "wife" marries Harvey Lennox and they go to New York to reside. It is the Lennox home that the husbands "Meet the Wife," and the situations and developments which follow are mirth-provoking, ludicrous, and enlightening.

"A love story with the daughter of Mrs. Lennox as the center in interwoven, and the inconsistencies of people who endeavor to live outside their natural spheres and selves form one of the backgrounds for the incongruous situations. All ends well, for the girl marries her true love, the first husband obligingly obliterates himself, and the second husband plans to go to San Francisco in the hope that another earthquake might give him freedom from the "wife."

"Augusta Bolyson as the "wife," Donald Campbell as Harvey Lennox, Messenger Bellis as Philip Lord, and Clay Cody as the effeminate young artist who is after the daughter—and incidentally her fortune—are the high lights in the cast."

"Training Table" Keeps Pretty Chorines in Trim

Chorus girls in one New York show are now subject to football squad discipline. They eat at a training table, and have daily exercises under the supervision of Jack Ryder, Boston college gridiron coach. The plan has been such a success in keeping the girls free from excess weight and in good physical condition, that other producers are going to take it up. Miss Katherine Ray (above) is one of the chorines who are enthusiastic about the benefits of the innovation.

REV. HARRY KAYE GIVES SERMON

Rev. Harry G. Kaye of New Castle, Pa., spoke to a large audience last evening at the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ. His subject was "Excuses and Excused." He spoke in part as follows:

"The banquet these people were invited to was a great feast. Whoever will may come. Every one is invited to the banquet hall. It is a universal banquet. The banquet Jesus Christ prepared suited everybody. Christ prepared a banquet that meets the demands of everybody. I say the invitation is given every one. We are going to consider some excuses that people make for not coming into the gospel kingdom. The devil is in the excuse business. When the devil tells you that you have an invitation tomorrow night he is making excuses. The first excuse some people make is I am afraid they will talk about me. The Lord is not using secret service men in his service. You are no better than my Lord Jesus Christ and he was talked about. There is no salvation beyond the grave. You have got to be saved on this side of the grave or not at all."

REVIVAL MEETS STILL CONTINUE

Rev. R. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., delivered a strong sermon last evening at the Oakland Free Methodist church where he is conducting evangelistic services. At the close of the sermon six persons came forward. He was assisted in the services by Rev. J. O. Archer, Rev. A. L. Duncan and Rev. Floyd Daw. The meetings are being largely attended.

Noonday Meeting.

Evangelist H. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., will speak at the noonday shop meeting tomorrow in the Smith-Phillips plant. Rev. J. O. Archer, pastor of the Oakland Free Methodist church, will be the leader.

Birthday Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Cunningham entertained a number of friends last evening at their home in Ohio avenue in honor of their son, James, fourteenth birthday anniversary. Music and games were the pastimes of the evening. Mrs. Cunningham served refreshments.

A vulcanizer to be used in laying non-leaking roofs has been invented.

JACKSON CENTER, PA., COAL MINER LAUDS KA-DI-OK

WILLIAM HOGEN

Mr. William Hogen, whose address is R. R. No. 20, Jackson Center, Pa., is another who has joined the hosts in praise of Ka-di-ok, the wonderful medicine, the almost miraculous reports from all sections of the country making it the most-talked of and highly praised medicine existing.

Mr. Hogan is a miner in the employ of Mercer Iron and Coal Co., and is a member of I. O. O. F. Lodge 501, Stoneboro, Pa. He suffered almost continuously from gas on the stomach, with resultant pains in the region of the heart. Reading of what Ka-di-ok had done for others who suffered similarly to himself, he began a treatment of this medicine, with the result that a few weeks afterward he told the Ka-di-ok representative that he was feeling much better, the gas pains had about left him, and he considered himself in fine shape. He now sleeps "like a boy," and declares Ka-di-ok to be just what is claimed for it "Fine!"

Ka-di-ok will do many other wonderful things than is above described. It is recommended for the several ailments of the stomach which make life miserable for thousands, such as indigestion, loss of appetite, constipation, etc. It is a foe to rheumatism, kidney and liver ailments, headaches, bad blood, etc.

Life is only too short at the utmost, so it behooves all to prolong it as far as possible. Ka-di-ok may be the medium to do this.

Ka-di-ok is sold and recommended in East Liverpool by Mathews Cut Rate Medicine Store, 129 W. 6th street.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Fat Now Brushed Away.

A South American doctor has introduced into the capitals of Europe a new reducing method that is attracting attention of the overfat. He prescribed dry scrubbing for the fleshy parts of the body with a brush slightly softer in bristles than an ordinary kitchen brush. Rubs four or five times a day, he says, will carry away a pound of flesh a week.

TRIBUTE PAID PERCY FROST

5,000 POTTERS CEASE WORK AS BODY GOES TO RESTING PLACE

Funeral is Held From St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

EULOGY GIVEN

W. E. Wells Speaks at Elks' Ritualistic Services.

Five thousand pottery workers paid homage today to the memory of the late Percy Frost, expert decorator, by ceasing operations as his body was carried to its resting place in Riverview cemetery.

Hundreds of friends taxed the capacity of St. Stephen's Episcopal church, West Fourth street, where funeral services were conducted at 1:30 p. m. by Rev. Lionel C. Difford, rector of the church of which the deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. Robert Kell, of the Symphony church, Baltimore, Md., but formerly of East Liverpool.

Simplicity Marks Services.

Simplicity marked the services. Rev. Mr. Kell discussed his relations with Mr. Frost while he was rector of the local church and lauded the deceased's efforts in the interest of religion. Musical selections were given by the church choir under the direction of Prof. Albert E. Clark.

Numerous floral tributes, which banked the casket, gave testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held by his friends. Many of the designs came from potery manufacturers, merchants and professional men.

The pallbearers included Joseph T. Croxall, Joseph Birbeck, John Parker, Fred Mason, O. E. McCoy and Samuel Millwood. The services were attended by many members of the Elks' lodge and a large number of pottery manufacturers.

Operations in the potteries of the local district were stilled during the afternoon as a mark of respect for the deceased.

Thousands View Body.

Thousands of persons viewed the body of Mr. Frost as it lay in state in the Elks' temple, West Fifth street, last evening. From 6 o'clock until about 7:15 o'clock, when the doors of the club were closed to all but lodge members and their families, a steady stream of friends, with heads bared, passed by the bier. The casket rested in the northern end of the lodge room. Directly in back of it was suspended a large American flag. Floral emblems surrounded the casket.

BOMBAY, Jan. 21—Seven officials of the native state of Indore, including the aide de camp of the Maharajah himself, whose royal favor proved a curse to the beautiful Nautch girl, Mumtaz Begum, were under arrest today in connection with the attack on the girl and her lover.

Extradition has been asked for the seven under arrest, who include Captain Dihje, aide de camp to the Maharajah and an officer of the Indore Infantry; Akbar of the Indore mounted police, inspector Mumatz of the Indore police; Imperial Lancer Karmat; Chauffeur Latif and Bahadur, brother of Akbar.

Eight arrests made in Bombay include two step uncles of the mutilated dancer, her sister and the chauffeur of the late Bawla.

Wealthy Merchant Slain.

The arrests were made at Indore where they created a great sensation.

Abdul Bawla, wealthy Bombay merchant with whom the beautiful young dancer fell in love, when she fled from the opulent luxury she enjoyed as the Maharajah's favorite, was killed in the attack. Lieut. Seagrave of the British Royal Engineers, was seriously wounded when he attemped to aid the couple.

Mumtaz, her features swathed in bandages concealing how well the attackers carried out their intention of making mockery of her beauty, was still held in hiding today, under police guard, in fear of further attacks.

The arrests today bear out the intention of the authorities to run the attackers to earth "no matter how high their station." India was wrought up to a high pitch by the attack a week ago and a reward of 10,000 rupees was offered for information leading to the arrest of the assailants.

PLEAS ENTERED TO GRAND JURY CHARGES BY 15 INDICTED MEN

Two Suspects in Tollhouse Robbery Admit Guilt.

BONDS ARE SET

Most of Prisoners Deny Indictments When Arraigned.

Pleas were entered before Judge J. G. Moore in common pleas court, Lisbon, today by persons indicted by the grand jury.

William H. Reddick, of East Liverpool, bound over from the court of Mayor Charles Brown on a charge of criminal assault, entered a plea of not guilty and his bond was fixed at $1,000. The court declared that the $5,000 bond set by the lower court was too high. Reddick will be represented by Attorney Blaine Cochran.

William Oesch, who resides on a farm near Damascus in Butler township, has been placed under $1,500 bond after his plea of not guilty on a charge of arson. He will be represented by Attorney W. S. Emmons, of Alliance.

Byers Pleads Not Guilty.

Barachiva Balan, Charles Balan and Sam Hosa, all of Salem, indicted for resisting an officer in the execution of his duty, entered pleas of not guilty and were held under $250 bond each. They will be represented by Attorney Homer H. Hickling, of Salem.

Harry Byers, who was indicted with Orvil Chandler and Floyd Thomas for the Chester bridge toll house robbery, entered plea of not guilty. He will be represented by Attorney Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool. Chandler and Thomas entered pleas of guilty.

James Clark and John Rogers, Salem, charged with robbery, entered pleas of not guilty Attorney Hickling had already been retained by Rogers, and, when Clark said he had no counsel, the court appointed Hickling to represent him.

Daniel Smith, Salem, indicted for larceny of $10.96, pleaded not guilty.

Harmon Cook, alias Homer Doyle, supposed to be from Salem, but who told the court his home was in Pittsburgh, pleaded not guilty to uttering and publishing a false check.

Others Arraigned.

James O. Tyson, colored, of Wellsville, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

U. Frank Hatcher, of East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty to abandoning three legitimate children whose ages are given as 6, 10 and 13 years. His bond was placed at $500 and he will be

Men and Women Attached Signatures as Protest Against Councilmanic Legislation Which is Blamed for Tragic Culmination of Inter-City Controversy—25 Papers Circulated.

CITIZENS JOIN IN DEMAND THAT SOLONS SAFEGUARD RIGHTS OF HOME

Governor Donahey Promises Committee of Dillonvale Citizens Representing United Mine Workers of America That he Will Investigate Alleged Unfair Practices of Liquor Sleuths.

Between 600 and 700 signatures have been attached to the petitions, requesting the repeal of the "dry detective ordinance," blamed for the inter-city prohibition raiders' war, which will be presented to council Friday evening, according to estimates made at noon today.

Twenty-five petitions in circulation are being freely signed, it was declared. More than 200 men and women are reported to have placed their names on the papers at a lodge meeting last night. In one pottery, one petition was filled and request made for a second before 5 p. m. yesterday.

The petitions are being circulated in the business district as well as in industrial plants and lodge rooms. One of the solicitors, working in the downtown district, said he had received but three refusals by merchants and clerks.

Women as well as men are joining in the protest against the fine-splitting legislation on which they were denied the right of a vote because of the so-called emergency clause. They demand, the circulators said, that the solons safeguard the rights of the home.

Demand Repeal of Two Ordinances.

When the petitions were placed in circulation yesterday afternoon, it was believed that not less than 1,000 signatures could be obtained before Friday. Indications today were that more than this number will be on the papers when they are ready for presentation.

The petitioners urge that council repeal two ordinances—one setting aside ten per cent of moneys collected on liquor violations for the apprehension of violators and the other authorizing the appointment of dry detectives. The detectives under the terms of the legislation, are paid a percentage of liquor fines for filing complaints.

The dectective legislation was passed as an emergency measure at the council meeting Friday, January 9. Raids in Wellsville by three local policemen and Steubenville detectives followed on Saturday immediately after the ordinance had been signed by Mayor Brown.

The petitions will be collected not later than Friday afternoon. A committee of manufacturers and merchants will appear before council and ask repeal of the legislation.

Governor Hears Complaints.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 21.—Governor Vic Donahey will probe charges of Dillonvale citizens against unfair practices of dry detectives.

The committee composed of officials of the Mine Workers of America and Dillonvale officials which waited upon Gov. Donahey in Columbus yesterday and presented a petition asking for the investigation of alleged illegal activities and acts of dry agents operating from the village courts of the county, returned to Dillonvale last evening bearing Gov. Donahey's promise of an immediate probe into the charges.

The governor promised the appointment of an impartial investigator and immediate action to determine the justice of the charges placed before him, according to a statement made today by Alex Felzan, a member of the committee.

The interview with the governor, arranged for last Tuesday, was postponed because of the death of a relative of Frank Ledvinka, president of the United Mine Workers of America,

Y. M. C. A. Shop Meet Pastors and Aides Will Attend Dinner

Pastors and all other persons, who have been assisting in the shop meetings, conducted under the auspices of the Industrial Department of the Y. M. C. A. during the fall, will attend a dinner to be held in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. Friday evening, January 29.

Reservations for the dinner must be made not later than Tuesday, January 27. The program is being arranged by Will J. Scott, industrial secretary.

City Hall Turnkey Uses Corn Whisky To Operate Auto

Another use has been found for "corn whisky."

When automobile mechanics at a Dresden avenue garage drained the radiator of the automobile owned by William Cline, city hall, janitor, Tuesday, a peculiar odor was scented. Cline admitted that he had filled the radiator with "hootch," seized by the police in raids, to prevent it from freezing, the garage man said.

Mayor Brown was notified of the "find" and he ordered the liquor destroyed. City hall attaches admitted today that corn whisky was also being used in the motor patrol to prevent it from freezing in the winter months.

Senate Vote Calls For All Facts on Reparations Pact

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The senate today adopted unanimously the Johnson resolution calling upon Secretary of State Hughes for complete information concerning the Kellogg-Churchill agreement signed at Paris whereby the United States becomes an official partner in the Dawes plan in return for 2½ per cent of the German reparations payments.

IDENTIFY LIMA MAN OF MYSTERY

LIMA, Jan. 21.—Lima's mystery man has been identified. He is Felix Kreger, 45, of Erie, Mich., and Toledo.

Positive identification was made today by Miss Marie Dittell of Toledo, whose name was found among papers in the dead man's possession.

However, the cause of Kreger's death remains just as much of a mystery as it did yesterday before the coroner's inquest.

Kreger was found Sunday night in a rooming house in an unconscious condition. There were no marks of identification on his person, no labels on his clothing. In his pockets the police found $400 in bills.

Collector of Internal Revenue Reports 2,300 Individuals Paid Into Federal Treasury, a Decrease Compared With 1921.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21—Residents of East Liverpool, in common with the rest of Ohio, filed fewer personal income tax returns in 1922 than in 1921 according to the final figures on net income for the former year issued today by the Collector of Internal Revenue.

There were 2,300 personal taxes on income paid into the federal treasury from East Liverpool in 1922 as compared with 2,470 of the same taxes the previous year.

Suffering a similar decline the total returns from Columbiana dropped from 5,473 in 1921 to 5,122 in 1922. Since the taxes for each year are paid on the income for the prior year—1921 taxes on 1920 income and 1922 taxes on 1921 income—it is assumed from the figures in the collector's report that the drop in personal returns reflects the post-war business decline of 1921.

No county or city figures are given out from which the total income or total tax paid in either East Liverpool or Columbiana county might be deduced. The report contains a classification showing that of 5,122 personal returns filed in Columbiana county, 4,879 were on incomes of less than $5,000, 159 on incomes of $5,000 to $10,000 and 84 on incomes of more than $10,000.

The average Ohio return for 1922 was on an income of $3,120. Assuming that this average held for East Liverpool, the returns from that city would have covered aggregate personal income of $7,706,400. The average Ohio tax payment was $108, at which rate East Liverpool residents would have paid $266,760.

Neighboring counties showed a drop in number of income returns for 1922 corresponding that that recorded by Columbiana. Jefferson county returns dropped from 6,035 in 1921 to 5,752 in 1922, Carroll county returns from 283 to 278, and Mahoning county returns from 30,592 to 29,901.

The recapitulations of the collector of revenue shows that Ohio with a total net income of $1,138,934,714, amounting to 5.34 of the total income of the United States, paid a total tax of $39,310,000, or 4½ per cent of the entire income tax for the whole country.

Of the total income reported by Ohioans, $802,202,793 came from wages and salaries, $112,041,895 from business, $56,215,446 from partnerships, $28,659,892 from profits from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc., $10,616,225 from capital net gain realized from sale of assets held for more than two years, $65,591,493 from rents and royalties, $42,782,504 from interest and investment income and $179,617,297 from dividendts.

Pleas were entered before Judge J. G. Moore in common pleas court, Lisbon, today by persons indicted by the grand jury.

William H. Reddick, of East Liverpool, bound over from the court of Mayor Charles Brown on a charge of criminal assault, entered a plea of not guilty and his bond was fixed at $1,000. The court declared that the $5,000 bond set by the lower court was too high. Reddick will be represented by Attorney Blaine Cochran.

William Oesch, who resides on a farm near Damascus in Butler township, has been placed under $1,500 bond after his plea of not guilty on a charge of arson. He will be represented by Attorney W. S. Emmons, of Alliance.

Byers Pleads Not Guilty.

Barachiva Balan, Charles Balan and Sam Hosa, all of Salem, indicted for resisting an officer in the execution of his duty, entered pleas of not guilty and were held under $250 bond each. They will be represented by Attorney Homer H. Hickling, of Salem.

Harry Byers, who was indicted with Orvil Chandler and Floyd Thomas for the Chester bridge toll house robbery, entered plea of not guilty. He will be represented by Attorney Frank Grosshans of East Liverpool. Chandler and Thomas entered pleas of guilty.

James Clark and John Rogers, Salem, charged with robbery, entered pleas of not guilty Attorney Hickling had already been retained by Rogers, and, when Clark said he had no counsel, the court appointed Hickling to represent him.

Daniel Smith, Salem, indicted for larceny of $10.96, pleaded not guilty.

Harmon Cook, alias Homer Doyle, supposed to be from Salem, but who told the court his home was in Pittsburgh, pleaded not guilty to uttering and publishing a false check.

Others Arraigned.

James O. Tyson, colored, of Wellsville, entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

U. Frank Hatcher, of East Liverpool, pleaded not guilty to abandoning three legitimate children whose ages are given as 6, 10 and 13 years. His bond was placed at $500 and he will be

Chicagoan Urges Bakers of Ohio to Boost Bread Prices

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—Officers are to be chosen today at the annual meeting of the Ohio Bakers' association here. Albert Klopfer, Chicago, editor of the baker weekly, addressed the convention, urging independent bakers associated with the association to increase bread prices regardless of the action of competitors.

Men and Women Attached Signatures as Protest Against Councilmanic Legislation Which is Blamed for Tragic Culmination of Inter-City Controversy—25 Papers Circulated.

CITIZENS JOIN IN DEMAND THAT SOLONS SAFEGUARD RIGHTS OF HOME

Governor Donahey Promises Committee of Dillonvale Citizens Representing United Mine Workers of America That he Will Investigate Alleged Unfair Practices of Liquor Sleuths.

Between 600 and 700 signatures have been attached to the petitions, requesting the repeal of the "dry detective ordinance," blamed for the inter-city prohibition raiders' war, which will be presented to council Friday evening, according to estimates made at noon today.

Twenty-five petitions in circulation are being freely signed, it was declared. More than 200 men and women are reported to have placed their names on the papers at a lodge meeting last night. In one pottery, one petition was filled and request made for a second before 5 p. m. yesterday.

The petitions are being circulated in the business district as well as in industrial plants and lodge rooms. One of the solicitors, working in the downtown district, said he had received but three refusals by merchants and clerks.

Women as well as men are joining in the protest against the fine-splitting legislation on which they were denied the right of a vote because of the so-called emergency clause. They demand, the circulators said, that the solons safeguard the rights of the home.

Demand Repeal of Two Ordinances.

When the petitions were placed in circulation yesterday afternoon, it was believed that not less than 1,000 signatures could be obtained before Friday. Indications today were that more than this number will be on the papers when they are ready for presentation.

The petitioners urge that council repeal two ordinances—one setting aside ten per cent of moneys collected on liquor violations for the apprehension of violators and the other authorizing the appointment of dry detectives. The detectives under the terms of the legislation, are paid a percentage of liquor fines for filing complaints.

The dectective legislation was passed as an emergency measure at the council meeting Friday, January 9. Raids in Wellsville by three local policemen and Steubenville detectives followed on Saturday immediately after the ordinance had been signed by Mayor Brown.

The petitions will be collected not later than Friday afternoon. A committee of manufacturers and merchants will appear before council and ask repeal of the legislation.

Governor Hears Complaints.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 21.—Governor Vic Donahey will probe charges of Dillonvale citizens against unfair practices of dry detectives.

The committee composed of officials of the Mine Workers of America and Dillonvale officials which waited upon Gov. Donahey in Columbus yesterday and presented a petition asking for the investigation of alleged illegal activities and acts of dry agents operating from the village courts of the county, returned to Dillonvale last evening bearing Gov. Donahey's promise of an immediate probe into the charges.

The governor promised the appointment of an impartial investigator and immediate action to determine the justice of the charges placed before him, according to a statement made today by Alex Felzan, a member of the committee.

The interview with the governor, arranged for last Tuesday, was postponed because of the death of a relative of Frank Ledvinka, president of the United Mine Workers of America,

City Hall Turnkey Uses Corn Whisky To Operate Auto

Another use has been found for "corn whisky."

When automobile mechanics at a Dresden avenue garage drained the radiator of the automobile owned by William Cline, city hall, janitor, Tuesday, a peculiar odor was scented. Cline admitted that he had filled the radiator with "hootch," seized by the police in raids, to prevent it from freezing, the garage man said.

Mayor Brown was notified of the "find" and he ordered the liquor destroyed. City hall attaches admitted today that corn whisky was also being used in the motor patrol to prevent it from freezing in the winter months.

Senate Vote Calls For All Facts on Reparations Pact

IDENTIFY LIMA MAN OF MYSTERY

LIMA, Jan. 21.—Lima's mystery man has been identified. He is Felix Kreger, 45, of Erie, Mich., and Toledo.

Positive identification was made today by Miss Marie Dittell of Toledo, whose name was found among papers in the dead man's possession.

However, the cause of Kreger's death remains just as much of a mystery as it did yesterday before the coroner's inquest.

Kreger was found Sunday night in a rooming house in an unconscious condition. There were no marks of identification on his person, no labels on his clothing. In his pockets the police found $400 in bills.

Collector of Internal Revenue Reports 2,300 Individuals Paid Into Federal Treasury, a Decrease Compared With 1921.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 21—Residents of East Liverpool, in common with the rest of Ohio, filed fewer personal income tax returns in 1922 than in 1921 according to the final figures on net income for the former year issued today by the Collector of Internal Revenue.

There were 2,300 personal taxes on income paid into the federal treasury from East Liverpool in 1922 as compared with 2,470 of the same taxes the previous year.

Suffering a similar decline the total returns from Columbiana dropped from 5,473 in 1921 to 5,122 in 1922. Since the taxes for each year are paid on the income for the prior year—1921 taxes on 1920 income and 1922 taxes on 1921 income—it is assumed from the figures in the collector's report that the drop in personal returns reflects the post-war business decline of 1921.

No county or city figures are given out from which the total income or total tax paid in either East Liverpool or Columbiana county might be deduced. The report contains a classification showing that of 5,122 personal returns filed in Columbiana county, 4,879 were on incomes of less than $5,000, 159 on incomes of $5,000 to $10,000 and 84 on incomes of more than $10,000.

The average Ohio return for 1922 was on an income of $3,120. Assuming that this average held for East Liverpool, the returns from that city would have covered aggregate personal income of $7,706,400. The average Ohio tax payment was $108, at which rate East Liverpool residents would have paid $266,760.

Neighboring counties showed a drop in number of income returns for 1922 corresponding that that recorded by Columbiana. Jefferson county returns dropped from 6,035 in 1921 to 5,752 in 1922, Carroll county returns from 283 to 278, and Mahoning county returns from 30,592 to 29,901.

The recapitulations of the collector of revenue shows that Ohio with a total net income of $1,138,934,714, amounting to 5.34 of the total income of the United States, paid a total tax of $39,310,000, or 4½ per cent of the entire income tax for the whole country.

Of the total income reported by Ohioans, $802,202,793 came from wages and salaries, $112,041,895 from business, $56,215,446 from partnerships, $28,659,892 from profits from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc. $10,616,225 from capital net gain realized from sale of assets held for more than two years, $65,591,493 from rents and royalties, $42,782,504 from interest and investment income and $179,617,297 from dividendts.

STEAMER, ONCE KING'S YACHT, GOES ON ROCKS

Later Was Owned by Sarah Bernhardt; Also Was Rum Runner.

BOSTON, Jan. 21. — The Steamer Yankton of the Boston, Halifax and St. Johns line went on the rocks off Nixes Mate light early today as she was leaving Boston harbor.

The Yankton, which had sailed yesterday afternoon, anchored over night in the harbor because of inclement weather. She had hardly got under way today when she struck the rocks.

The Yankton was once the private yacht of King Edward, when he was prince of Wales. It later was owned by Sarah Bernhardt. The United States government acquired her before the Spanish-American war and she was converted into a gunboat and saw service at Santiago.

She was the pacemaker of the round-the-world cruise in 1908. During the World war she was a dispatch carrier. Shortly after this government relinquished ownership, the Yankton appeared between Nassau and Florida as a rum runner and was captured. The steamship company now owns her.

porting on the Kansas City World at his eighteenth birthday. Before his nineteenth he had found the life a little tame and had embarked for New York on a cattle train to try his hand at "free lance" writing. His "stuff" didn't sell so Creel decided it was too serious—and started to write "jokes" for the New York papers. The jokes didn't go any too well, so he quit joke-writing and went to shoveling snow. The snow crop was way below par that particular year so of necessity he went back to the jokes again. Strangely enough, before the winter was over the columns of several New York papers were open to him.

But Creel was serious. He wanted the world to be a place where people would laugh of their own free will—and that's why he went back to Kansas City and founded "The Independent." For ten years he fought the political machines and their bosses, and his great victory was the election of Joseph W. Folk as governor. He was the force of inspiration for the mass of progressive legislation that went on the statute books of Missouri, and considering his work done, Creel gave his magazine to friends, and went to Denver where Ben B. Lindsey was waging a lone fight for equal justice.

Dynamic Speaker.

Editorial writer, dynamic speaker and skilled organizer—Creel led a popular revolt that destroyed the evil power of a "bi-partisan machine," forcing the adoption of the initiative and referendum, and driving through such reforms as the mother's compensation law, home rule for cities, workmen's compensation, child labor laws, the eight-hour day, etc. Incidental to the fight, he formed a Citizens' ticket that won a mayoralty campaign, and at the request of leaders of public opinion, took the post of police commissioner under the new administration. His abolition of the infamous "red light district," his fiery attack on the saloon, his advocacy of free speech—all earned new hatreds, and when the mayor that he had elected turned him down, Creel was forced out of office. A new election vindicated Creel and endorsed every reform, and feeling his work done, he decided upon a literary life in New York. He left Denver practically penniless, but with the priceless endorsement of the better element of citizens, the church and the non political clubs and organizations.

Within a year he was a regular contributor to the leading magazines, but found no time to speak and work for equal suffrage, fight for child labor laws and travel the country in the interests of municipal reform.

ices. Many persons, unable to obtain seats, stood. The ritual, in charge of members of the lodge, was carried out. The East Liverpool Male Chorus, of which Mr. Frost was a charter member, gave four numbers under the direction of Miss Lysbeth Hamill.

W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Homer Laughlin China company, and a member of the Elks' lodge, eulogized the deceased in a short address. He discussed his associations with Mr. Frost from the time he first came to East Liverpool, about 35 years ago, and the sterling qualities which the deceased possessed.

"He leaves a memory that will be an inspiration," concluded Mr. Wells. "He did not live in vain."

W. E. Wells' Address

Mr. Wells said in part:

"If it were not so impossible to express what I feel, and what we all must feel, it would not be out of place for me to say something on this occasion as Percy Frost came to East Liverpool some thirty-four or thirty-five years ago in response to a letter from me. I was the first to meet him and then as young men we worked together for many of the best years of our lives. He won me straight away, and I think I was his first friend among the hundreds and hundreds of friends of this community that came to know him later.

"Among those friends are all of the members of East Liverpool Lodge No. 258 and a large majority of those other citizens who have been active in affairs for the past generation.

"He was so well known, so highly esteemed by all of you, that I can say nothing that will add to your knowledge of him, or increase your admiration for his beautiful life. I can only recall some of those traits that won his place in the hearts of the people and now bring all East Liverpool mourning at his bier. His was a peculiarly susceptible nature. He responded quickly and ardently to any approach of friendship. His right hand was always ready to meet the right hand of good fellowship. He was an artist and possessed the artist's temperament. With his artist's soul beauty appealed to him strongly, beauty in art, beauty in character, beauty and goodness in deeds.

"It was to that part of him that the order of Elks appealed. The ritual, the principles, the practices of the order won him from the very first. Among all the splendid brothers who were charter members, so many of whom have preceded Percy on the long journey, none was more enthusiastic than he, I know, because in those days, and for long years afterwards, he and I were working side by side. It was his warm praise of the order that made me anxious to become a member. Among the many reasons I have for holding Percy Frost in grateful memory is that he was the one who proposed me for membership, it was he who signed my application, it was he who brought me into the Elks only a short time after his own initiation.

His Was Great Heart.

"My own membership abounds in delightful memories, but none more tender than those in which Percy Frost plays a part. I never recall, I can never recall, the Elks of the old days without seeing Percy somewhere in the picture, or without hearing his ever contagious laugh.

"And to the same extent that his nature responded to sunshine, kindness, and beauty, his very soul loathed unkindness, meanness, ugliness, and was repelled by them. His was a great heart in a big body, but he was sensitive as a child and as easily hurt.

"His sympathies were so broad that he took every one at face value. Charity was the rule of his life, the natural impulse of his heart. Just contact with human beings brought out the gentleness and warmth of his character. Any one, high or low, rich or poor, could win his friendship, and rely upon his loyalty. He was not exacting. He did not look for perfection in the man subject to the passions, the temptations, the limitations of human kind. It was his theory that a man may be down but never out. If ever there was a man who truly exemplified the precept of this order, "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands, their virtues we inscribe upon the tablets of love and memory," it was Brother Frost.

"He was almost indifferent to those selfish aims that make up the sum total of so many lives. He never contended in the race for wealth or power. He never sought personal preference in his social or business affairs. But his ambition was the esteem, the affection of his friends. Above all he was jealous of his reputation of his personal honor.

"He Did Not Live in Vain."

"Criticism is something we must all expect from time to time, and most of us are immune to it. But Brother Frost was of that nature that criticism hurt him cruelly. To him ridicule was sharper than a serpent's tooth. I have known him to worry many times over some slight oversight upon the part of a friend, to which he need not have given a serious thought. Knowing well how sensitive he was in this respect, I can imagine how dread of the consequences of that outrageous affair of last week just broke his heart. He gave his life as a protest against that gross injustice, which is without a parallel in this community.

"I cannot get away from the thought that his friends were at fault. Had they gone to him expressing the sympathy they all felt, had they gone to him expressing the indignation that has since so aroused the city, the outcome might have been different. There may be a lesson in this. Many lives might be made happier and fuller if our words of appreciation, of praise, of confidence, are not withheld until it is too late.

"This tribute that comes from the heart of a city is too late for the silent ears of our old friend. But he leaves a memory that will be an inspiration.

"He did not live in vain."

TITIAN-HAIRED SLAYER OF KIN FACES COURT

Dorothy Ellingson, Matricide, Begins Battle for Freedom.

Girl's Age Probably Means Juvenile Judge Will Act.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21—Dorothy Ellingson's battle for freedom in the coming years of her young womanhood, was to be taken into court today.

The titian-haired 16-year-old girl, who killed her mother in a "red headed rage" because she "wanted to live her own life," was scheduled to appear at 11 o'clock this morning to face police judge Lazarus on charges of matricide.

The girl's father, Joseph Ellingson, a Viking-faced tailor, will be the first witness and on his testimony probably will rest the fate of the girl.

"I want her to hang," the broken father said a week ago, but since then he has forgiven and his statement before the judge that the girl's age is only 16, was expected.

This will automatically cause transfer of the child defendant's case to juvenile court, where Dorothy will be arraigned tomorrow before Judge Murasky.

Beother Brings Flowers

Her brother, Earl, visited Dorothy early in the day and brought her a basket of fruit and a bouquet of violets, which she selected to wear from a dozen other gifts of flowers sent by anonymous friends.

Alexander Moslin, San Francisco attorney, now in charge of the case, announced today that he had arranged for a physician, a specialist in glarl treatments, to examine Dorothy.

For the first time since the girl's arrest, a statement from the district attorney's office showed the hand of the prosecution. It was declared that should the girl select "mental illness" as her defense, a barrage of expert testimony would be available in contradiction to the claim that the girl did not know right from wrong.

Curious to catch a glimpse of the child who slew for the sake of "jazz," hundreds gathered in front of the Hall of Justice before the case was called and extra police officers were ordered out to handle the surging crowds.

CITY-SCHOOL AID PROPOSED

Bill is Drafted — Senate to Confirm Duffy Appointment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—Emergency financial relief for cities and school districts is to be rushed by the state legislature. Governor Donahey is expected today to return to public leaders with his recommendations the draft of the Williams-Taft bill providing the temporary aid and a vote on the measure may come Thursday afternoon. The measure was reported out by the house taxation committee Tuesday afternoon.

As reported, the bill, which is basically the Taft bill with amendments proposed by Representative Williams, of Lake county, carries an emergency clause making it effective as soon as passed. It embodies principles agreed upon at a conference last week. A maximum deficiency tax levy of three mills is provided, to be authorized upon petition of a majority of qualified electors, based on the number of ballots cast in 1924. Provision against fraud in compilation of the petitions is expected to be inserted before final action is taken on the measure.

The senate is expected today to confirm Governor Donahey's reappointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission. The governor's reappointment of State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald was confirmed by the senate late Tuesday.

Gas Tax Bill Hearing.

A hearing will be held tonight in the house chamber by the house motor vehicles committee on the proposed state gas tax. The measure is expected to be heavily supported. Recommendations will be made that the fee for auto licenses be made a flat $3 license charge.

Amended in committee so as to insure against interference with operation of motor busses in interurban traffic, the Collister bill, conferring upon municipalities jurisdiction over operation of motor vehicles for hire wholly within a municipality, was reported out by the senate automotive committee Tuesday night by a vote of 8 to 2. The measure will be a special order on the senate calendar Thursday, it was announced.

Among bills introduced in the house late Tuesday was one by Representative Lipp, Hamilton county, amending the bus law so as to exempt farmers, hauling farm produce, from the provisions of the law. Other bills introduced include

By Representative Roberts, Mahoning county, making mandatory prison term for a person convicted of driving while intoxicated; by Representative Finefrock, Stark county, providing that the time prisoners are confined before sentence shall be deducted from the time required to be served under sentence.

Air Service Will Use Powerful Camera To "Shoot the Sun"

DAYTON, Jan. 21.—The most powerful camera in the air service and the only one of its kind in the world was attached to a big Dehaviland airplane today in preparation for an attempt to "shoot the Sun" next Sturday, during the eclipse that is to happen but once in a life time.

Lieutenant George Goddard, who will be at the stick, and Dr. S. M. Buska, scientist and photography expert, both of McCook Field, have been ordered by Major General Mason M. Patrick to fly to Mitchell Field, Long Island, and use it as an operating base during the experiments.

Everything is in readiness for the flight to Long Island, which may start today or tomorrow.

An hour before the spectacle is scheduled to begin, the two airmen will leave Mitchell Field and begin operations when they attain an altitude of 15,000 feet.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—High priced industrial and oil stocks led the market into higher price levels in the early trading today. Low priced rails like Katy, Kansas City Southern and St. Paul joined the movement before the end of the first hour and the tone of the market showed a distinct improvement over that of the last few sessions. Lifting of the bearish attacks on leading industrial stocks and the inauguration of covering movements in stocks which bore the brunt of speculative selling on Monday and Tuesday contributed to the strength of the market.

United States Steel was a leader in the forward movement of prices. It was announced today that the annual offering of stock to the employes of the corporation would be at the price of $125 a share, against $700 at this time last year. In 1923 after the stock had been thus sold at 107, it declined 20 points in the open market, but the dividend at that time was a straight 5 per cent.

STUDENTS HEAR DR. LOCKHART

Evangelist's Son Also Speaks in Church of Christ.

Large delegations of high school and business college students attended the revival services in the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the third week of the campaign.

Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson.
Pianist for the Lockhart-Harbinson Evangelistic Party.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, in charge of the meetings, was assisted at last night's services by his 18-year old son, "Billy," who is just out of high school. Prof. J. Frank Harbinson sang "Here Am I, Lord, Send Me." His wife, at the piano, and Mrs. Ingersoll at the organ, assisted with the music.

"Young man, don't think you can spend your spare time around a pool room, inhaling dirty cigarette smoke and exchanging smutty stories and not suffer the evil effects," the evangelist said. "Young women don't think you can sit up till after midnight in a room with lights dimmed spooning with one of those weed-puffing friends that wears trousers and looks like a man and not suffer and remain untarnished.

"Young man and young woman, don't think you can attend one of those wild parties and get drunk on rotten bootleg liquor and not suffer the consequences of sin. The wages of sin is death' and whether you are young or three score years old, the effect on your soul is the same. Sins eats its way ito a man's soul as leprosy, but remember that Christ healed the leper and in like manner He can heal you of your sins."

War Chest Battle Will be Resumed Thursday Morning

Hearings as to the disposition of the $45,000 balance in the War Chest, now before the court of appeals, will be resumed here Thursday morning by Commissioner George L. Brokaw.

Mr. Brokaw heard two interests Tuesday. The case, at the request of one of the attorneys, was ordered continued until Friday but owing to the inability of the court stenographer to be present then, is was decided to resume the case Thursday.

More than a dozen of witnesses are to be heard.

and the leader of the committee. The audience with the governor was granted for yesterday, and accordingly the committee composed of Ledvinka, Joseph Angelo, international organizer of the United Mine Workers, Alex Young, Alex Felzan, Dessel Mozinka and Dave Young, waited upon the governor bearing with them the petition bearing signatures of 21 local mine workers' unions representing approximately 4,500 workers.

Serious Charges.

The audience occupied almost an hour and was opened by a brief sketch of conditions by Ledvinka who told of the situation existing here, described some of the alleged illegal acts of the dry agents and their alleged depredations against the homes of law-abiding citizens.

Ledvinka then laid before the governor a number of affidavits in which the dry agents from several village courts are charged with having committed robberies upon the home of their victims, with destruction of property, with illegal search and other depredations. Other affidavits charging the mayors of the courts from which the agents operate with having issued blank search warrants to be filled in with the victim's names when the search was made, were also presented to the governor.

The high point of the charges came, however, when evidence was laid before the governor supporting claims that the dry agents themselves were engaged in violating the liquor laws.

Governor Donahey listened to the array of evidence and the affidavits and then requested that the affidavits be left with him and asked a number of questions concerning the depredations which they allege had been committed by the dry agents. He was assured by the committee that they would lend every assistance possible to the governor's appointee when the investigation was begun.

Calls for Information.

Felzan stated that the governor showed deep interest in the charges and his questions were searching ones. He expressed belief that the investigation would be begun almost immediately although he admitted that the governor did not say when the investigator would be appointed.

Felzan today urged that all persons against whom the various dry agents of the county have committed depredations, made illegal search of their homes, committed robbery during raids upon their homes, or who have any evidence of illegal acts committed by the dry agents, to report to the committee so that the facts may be laid before the investigator. He explained that while the petition for the investigation was presented by the United Mine Workers all persons having any grievances to offer against the dry agents or who had suffered at their hands from alleged illegal acts, were free to join in the complaint. He also stated that the investigation was not to be limited to Dillonvale alone but that signers from all sections of the county appeared upon the petition and that practically all dry agents working from village courts were included in the charges.

STEAMER, ONCE KING'S YACHT, GOES ON ROCKS

Later Was Owned by Sarah Bernhardt; Also Was Rum Runner.

BOSTON, Jan. 21. — The Steamer Yankton of the Boston, Halifax and St. Johns line went on the rocks off Nixes Mate light early today as she was leaving Boston harbor.

The Yankton, which had sailed yesterday afternoon, anchored over night in the harbor because of inclement weather. She had hardly got under way today when she struck the rocks.

The Yankton was once the private yacht of King Edward, when he was prince of Wales. It later was owned by Sarah Bernhardt. The United States government acquired her before the Spanish-American war and she was converted into a gunboat and saw service at Santiago.

She was the pacemaker of the round-the-world cruise in 1908. During the World war she was a dispatch carrier. Shortly after this government relinquished ownership, the Yankton appeared between Nassau and Florida as a rum runner and was captured. The steamship company now owns her.

porting on the Kansas City World at his eighteenth birthday. Before his nineteenth he had found the life a little tame and had embarked for New York on a cattle train to try his hand at "free lance" writing. His "stuff" didn't sell so Creel decided it was too serious—and started to write "jokes" for the New York papers. The jokes didn't go any too well, so he quit joke-writing and went to shoveling snow. The snow crop was way below par that particular year so of necessity he went back to the jokes again. Strangely enough, before the winter was over the columns of several New York papers were open to him.

But Creel was serious. He wanted the world to be a place where people would laugh of their own free will—and that's why he went back to Kansas City and founded "The Independent." For ten years he fought the political machines and their bosses, and his great victory was the election of Joseph W. Folk as governor. He was the force of inspiration for the mass of progressive legislation that went on the statute books of Missouri, and considering his work done, Creel gave his magazine to friends, and went to Denver where Ben B. Lindsey was waging a lone fight for equal justice.

Dynamic Speaker.

Editorial writer, dynamic speaker and skilled organizer—Creel led a popular revolt that destroyed the evil power of a "bi-partisan machine," forcing the adoption of the initiative and referendum, and driving through such reforms as the mother's compensation law, home rule for cities, workmen's compensation, child labor laws, the eight-hour day, etc. Incidental to the fight, he formed a Citizens' ticket that won a mayoralty campaign, and at the request of leaders of public opinion, took the post of police commissioner under the new administration. His abolition of the infamous "red light district," his fiery attack on the saloon, his advocacy of free speech—all earned new hatreds, and when the mayor that he had elected turned him down, Creel was forced out of office. A new election vindicated Creel and endorsed every reform, and feeling his work done, he decided upon a literary life in New York. He left Denver practically penniless, but with the priceless endorsement of the better element of citizens, the church and the non political clubs and organizations.

Within a year he was a regular contributor to the leading magazines, but found no time to speak and work for equal suffrage, fight for child labor laws and travel the country in the interests of municipal reform.

Lads Badly Burned.

GLOUSTER—The three small sons of Adam Majedkella, Jacksonville, found an old nitro-glycerine can near their home. An explosion occurred when one of the children threw a lighted match into the can. All the lads were badly burned. One may lose a leg.

ices. Many persons, unable to obtain seats, stood. The ritual, in charge of members of the lodge, was carried out. The East Liverpool Male Chorus, of which Mr. Frost was a charter member, gave four numbers under the direction of Miss Lysbeth Hamill.

W. E. Wells, secretary-treasurer of the Homer Laughlin China company, and a member of the Elks' lodge, eulogized the deceased in a short address. He discussed his associations with Mr. Frost from the time he first came to East Liverpool, about 35 years ago, and the sterling qualities which the deceased possessed.

"He leaves a memory that will be an inspiration," concluded Mr. Wells. "He did not live in vain."

W. E. Wells' Address

Mr. Wells said in part:

"If it were not so impossible to express what I feel, and what we all must feel, it would not be out of place for me to say something on this occasion as Percy Frost came to East Liverpool some thirty-four or thirty-five years ago in response to a letter from me. I was the first to meet him and then as young men we worked together for many of the best years of our lives. He won me straight away, and I think I was his first friend among the hundreds and hundreds of friends of this community that came to know him later.

"Among those friends are all of the members of East Liverpool Lodge No. 258 and a large majority of those other citizens who have been active in affairs for the past generation.

"He was so well known, so highly esteemed by all of you, that I can say nothing that will add to your knowledge of him, or increase your admiration for his beautiful life. I can only recall some of those traits that won his place in the hearts of the people and now bring all East Liverpool mourning at his bier. His was a peculiarly susceptible nature. He responded quickly and ardently to any approach of friendship. His right hand was always ready to meet the right hand of good fellowship. He was an artist and possessed the artist's temperament. With his artist's soul beauty appealed to him strongly, beauty in art, beauty in character, beauty and goodness in deeds.

"It was to that part of him that the order of Elks appealed. The ritual, the principles, the practices of the order won him from the very first. Among all the splendid brothers who were charter members, so many of whom have preceded Percy on the long journey, none was more enthusiastic than he, I know, because in those days, and for long years afterwards, he and I were working side by side. It was his warm praise of the order that made me anxious to become a member. Among the many reasons I have for holding Percy Frost in grateful memory is that he was the one who proposed me for membership, it was he who signed my application, it was he who brought me into the Elks only a short time after his own initiation.

His Was Great Heart.

"My own membership abounds in delightful memories, but none more tender than those in which Percy Frost plays a part. I never recall, I can never recall, the Elks of the old days without seeing Percy somewhere in the picture, or without hearing his ever contagious laugh.

"And to the same extent that his nature responded to sunshine, kindness, and beauty, his very soul loathed unkindness, meanness, ugliness, and was repelled by them. His was a great heart in a big body, but he was sensitive as a child and as easily hurt.

"His sympathies were so broad that he took every one at face value. Charity was the rule of his life, the natural impulse of his heart. Just contact with human beings brought out the gentleness and warmth of his character. Any one, high or low, rich or poor, could win his friendship, and rely upon his loyalty. He was not exacting. He did not look for perfection in the man subject to the passions, the temptations, the limitations of human kind. It was his theory that a man may be down but never out. If ever there was a man who truly exemplified the precept of this order, "The faults of our brothers we write upon the sands, their virtues we inscribe upon the tablets of love and memory," it was Brother Frost.

"He was almost indifferent to those selfish aims that make up the sum total of so many lives. He never contended in the race for wealth or power. He never sought personal preference in his social or business affairs. But his ambition was the esteem, the affection of his friends. Above all he was jealous of his reputation of his personal honor.

"He Did Not Live in Vain."

"Criticism is something we must all expect from time to time, and most of us are immune to it. But Brother Frost was of that nature that criticism hurt him cruelly. To him ridicule was sharper than a serpent's tooth. I have known him to worry many times over some slight oversight upon the part of a friend, to which he need not have given a serious thought. Knowing well how sensitive he was in this respect, I can imagine how dread of the consequences of that outrageous affair of last week just broke his heart. He gave his life as a protest against that gross injustice, which is without a parallel in this community.

"I cannot get away from the thought that his friends were at fault. Had they gone to him expressing the sympathy they all felt, had they gone to him expressing the indignation that has since so aroused the city, the outcome might have been different. There may be a lesson in this. Many lives might be made happier and fuller if our words of appreciation, of praise, of confidence, are not withheld until it is too late.

"This tribute that comes from the heart of a city is too late for the silent ears of our old friend. But he leaves a memory that will be an inspiration.

"He did not live in vain."

TITIAN-HAIRED SLAYER OF KIN FACES COURT

Dorothy Ellingson, Matricide, Begins Battle for Freedom.

Girl's Age Probably Means Juvenile Judge Will Act.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21—Dorothy Ellingson's battle for freedom in the coming years of her young womanhood, was to be taken into court today.

The titian-haired 16-year-old girl, who killed her mother in a "red headed rage" because she "wanted to live her own life," was scheduled to appear at 11 o'clock this morning to face police judge Lazarus on charges of matricide.

The girl's father, Joseph Ellingson, a Viking-faced tailor, will be the first witness and on his testimony probably will rest the fate of the girl.

"I want her to hang," the broken father said a week ago, but since then he has forgiven and his statement before the judge that the girl's age is only 16, was expected.

This will automatically cause transfer of the child defendant's case to juvenile court, where Dorothy will be arraigned tomorrow before Judge Murasky.

Beother Brings Flowers

Her brother, Earl, visited Dorothy early in the day and brought her a basket of fruit and a bouquet of violets, which she selected to wear from a dozen other gifts of flowers sent by anonymous friends.

Alexander Moslin, San Francisco attorney, now in charge of the case, announced today that he had arranged for a physician, a specialist in glandular treatments, to examine Dorothy.

For the first time since the girl's arrest, a statement from the district attorney's office showed the hand of the prosecution. It was declared that should the girl select "mental illness" as her defense, a barrage of expert testimony would be available in contradiction to the claim that the girl did not know right from wrong.

Curious to catch a glimpse of the child who slew for the sake of "jazz," hundreds gathered in front of the Hall of Justice before the case was called and extra police officers were ordered out to handle the surging crowds.

CITY-SCHOOL AID PROPOSED

Bill is Drafted — Senate to Confirm Duffy Appointment.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 21.—Emergency financial relief for cities and school districts is to be rushed by the state legislature. Governor Donahey is expected today to return to public leaders with his recommendations the draft of the Williams-Taft bill providing the temporary aid and a vote on the measure may come Thursday afternoon. The measure was reported out by the house taxation committee Tuesday afternoon.

As reported, the bill, which is basically the Taft bill with amendments proposed by Representative Williams, of Lake county, carries an emergency clause making it effective as soon as passed. It embodies principles agreed upon at a conference last week. A maximum deficiency tax levy of three mills is provided, to be authorized upon petition of a majority of qualified electors, based on the number of ballots cast in 1924. Provision against fraud in compilation of the petitions is expected to be inserted before final action is taken on the measure.

The senate is expected today to confirm Governor Donahey's reappointment of T. J. Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of the state industrial commission. The governor's reappointment of State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald was confirmed by the senate late Tuesday.

Gas Tax Bill Hearing.

A hearing will be held tonight in the house chamber by the house motor vehicles committee on the proposed state gas tax. The measure is expected to be heavily supported. Recommendations will be made that the fee for auto licenses be made a flat $3 license charge.

Amended in committee so as to insure against interference with operation of motor busses in interurban traffic, the Collister bill, conferring upon municipalities jurisdiction over operation of motor vehicles for hire wholly within a municipality, was reported out by the senate automotive committee Tuesday night by a vote of 8 to 2. The measure will be a special order on the senate calendar Thursday, it was announced.

Among bills introduced in the house late Tuesday was one by Representative Lipp, Hamilton county, amending the bus law so as to exempt farmers, hauling farm produce, from the provisions of the law. Other bills introduced include:

By Representative Roberts, Mahoning county, making mandatory prison term for a person convicted of driving while intoxicated; by Representative Finefrock, Stark county, providing that the time prisoners are confined before sentence shall be deducted from the time required to be served under sentence.

Air Service Will Use Powerful Camera To "Shoot the Sun"

DAYTON, Jan. 21.—The most powerful camera in the air service and the only one of its kind in the world was attached to a big Dehaviland airplane today in preparation for an attempt to "shoot the Sun" next Sturday, during the eclipse that is to happen but once in a life time.

Lieutenant George Goddard, who will be at the stick, and Dr. S. M. Buska, scientist and photography expert, both of McCook Field, have been ordered by Major General Mason M. Patrick to fly to Mitchell Field, Long Island, and use it as an operating base during the experiments.

Everything is in readiness for the flight to Long Island, which may start today or tomorrow.

An hour before the spectacle is scheduled to begin, the two airmen will leave Mitchell Field and begin operations when they attain an altitude of 15,000 feet.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—High priced industrial and oil stocks led the market into higher price levels in the early trading today. Low priced rails like Katy, Kansas City Southern and St. Paul joined the movement before the end of the first hour and the tone of the market showed a distinct improvement over that of the last few sessions. Lifting of the bearish attacks on leading industrial stocks and the inauguration of covering movements in stocks which bore the brunt of speculative selling on Monday and Tuesday contributed to the strength of the market.

United States Steel was a leader in the forward movement of prices. It was announced today that the annual offering of stock to the employes of the corporation would be at the price of $125 a share, against $100 at this time last year. In 1923 after the stock had been thus sold at 107, it declined 20 points in the open market, but the dividend at that time was a straight 5 per cent.

STUDENTS HEAR DR. LOCKHART

Evangelist's Son Also Speaks in Church of Christ.

Large delegations of high school and business college students attended the revival services in the First Church of Christ, last evening, marking the opening of the third week of the campaign.

Mrs. J. Frank Harbinson.
Pianist for the Lockhart-Harbinson Evangelistic Party.

Evangelist W. J. Lockhart, in charge of the meetings, was assisted at last night's services by his 18-year old son, "Billy," who is just out of high school. Prof. J. Frank Harbinson sang "Here Am I, Lord, Send Me." His wife, at the piano, and Mrs. Ingersoll at the organ, assisted with the music.

"Young man, don't think you can spend your spare time around a pool room, inhaling dirty cigarette smoke and exchanging smutty stories and not suffer the evil effects," the evangelist said. "Young women don't think you can sit up till after midnight in a room with lights dimmed spooning with one of those weed-puffing friends that wears trousers and looks like a man and not suffer and remain untarnished.

"Young man and young woman, don't think you can attend one of those wild parties and get drunk on rotten bootleg liquor and not suffer the consequences of sin. The wages of sin is death' and whether you are young or three score years old, the effect on your soul is the same. Sins eats its way into a man's soul as leprosy, but remember that Christ healed the leper and in like manner He can heal you of your sins."

War Chest Battle Will be Resumed Thursday Morning

Hearings as to the disposition of the $45,000 balance in the War Chest, now before the court of appeals, will be resumed here Thursday morning by Commissioner George L. Brokaw.

Mr. Brokaw heard two interests Tuesday. The case, at the request of one of the attorneys, was ordered continued until Friday but owing to the inability of the court stenographer to be present then, is was decided to resume the case Thursday.

More than a dozen of witnesses are to be heard.

The audience with the governor was granted for yesterday, and accordingly the committee composed of Ledvinka, Joseph Angelo, international organizer of the United Mine Workers, Alex Young, Alex Felzan, Dessel Mozinka and Dave Young, waited upon the governor bearing with them the petition bearing signatures of 21 local mine workers' unions representing approximately 4,500 workers.

Serious Charges.

The audience occupied almost an hour and was opened by a brief sketch of conditions by Ledvinka who told of the situation existing here, described some of the alleged illegal acts of the dry agents and their alleged depredations against the homes of law-abiding citizens.

Ledvinka then laid before the governor a number of affidavits in which the dry agents from several village courts are charged with having committed robberies upon the home of their victims, with destruction of property, with illegal search and other depredations. Other affidavits charging the mayors of the courts from which the agents operate with having issued blank search warrants to be filled in with the victim's names when the search was made, were also presented to the governor.

The high point of the charges came, however, when evidence was laid before the governor supporting claims that the dry agents themselves were engaged in violating the liquor laws.

Governor Donahey listened to the array of evidence and the affidavits and then requested that the affidavits be left with him and asked a number of questions concerning the depredations which they allege had been committed by the dry agents. He was assured by the committee that they would lend every assistance possible to the governor's appointee when the investigation was begun.

Calls for Information.

Felzan stated that the governor showed deep interest in the charges and his questions were searching ones. He expressed belief that the investigation would be begun almost immediately although he admitted that the governor did not say when the investigator would be appointed.

Felzan today urged that all persons against whom the various dry agents of the county have committed depredations, made illegal search of their homes, committed robbery during raids upon their homes, or who have any evidence of illegal acts committed by the dry agents, to report to the committee so that the facts may be laid before the investigator. He explained that while the petition for the investigation was presented by the United Mine Workers all persons having any grievances to offer against the dry agents or who had suffered at their hands from alleged illegal acts, were free to join in the complaint. He also stated that the investigation was not to be limited to Dillonvale alone but that signers from all sections of the county appeared upon the petition and that practically all dry agents working from village courts were included in the charges.

SOLONS REJECT PAY ORDINANCE

Dennis, However, Will Continue as Safety-Service Head.

Despite the fact that city council, by a vote of four to three, refused to give him a salary of $1,500 for a year's work, A. P. Dennis, former mayor, who was recently appointed safety-service director by Mayor James S. Barnes, will retain his job.

Following council meeting he announced he would continue as head of the combined departments at a salary of $500.

Dean's was appointed following the resignation of Samuel Hannum who worked the post on a part-time program. When Dennis was named, it was understood he would devote his exclusive attention to the work.

As a result an ordinance was brought out at a special session of council a week ago, increasing the pay to $1,500, and arrangements had already been made to appropriate this amount in the six months' budget, with final action hinging on the ordinance.

The ordinance a week ago was passed on first reading, with three councilmen approving the measure and three dissenting. President Blackburn cast the deciding vote, which was in the affirmative. One member was absent at that meeting.

At last night's conference, when the measure was called up for its second reading, the vote stood as follows: For—W. C. Connor, George White and Frank Kerr; against—C. C. Ewing, Charles Peters, Clyde Baker, and William Nicholson.

The motion to pass the measure on second reading was made by Kerr and seconded by Connor and brought out remarks from councilmen and the audiece.

Councilman Nicholson, announcing his intention of opposing the measure, asserted that the city could not afford to raise the salary. He pointed out that the total debts standing against the city reached the figure of $596,-891.06. He declared that streets were without lights, and in need of repairs and that council would not be treating the people right. Last year, he pointed out, the city took the stand that it could not pay that amount and, he said, he did not feel that the city was in any better position now. The increase was out of place, he asserted, in view of the present high taxes.

Councilman Baker asserted that if the measure were passed, he felt sure a referendum would be called.

Mayor Barnes asked Councilman Baker if the latter thought it would be possible to abolish the job. Baker declared he thought not. Mayor Barnes then branded the legislation as false economy and "ridiculous."

Attorney W. A. O'Grady, adddressing council, championed the raise. He asserted the office needed a full-time man. He admitted citizens were burdened with taxes, but he blamed legislation of other years, and pointed out if it had been the custom heretofore to hire competent men and pay them appropriate wages, the city now would not be paying for mistakes that had been made.

It seemed to be the spirit in years back, Attorney O'Grady explained, to "let the next generation pay." "But, he asserted, "time has caught them." He declared he as one citizen, was willing to pay if the city is given service by competent hands. A salary of $1,500, he said, was insignificant for a competent man. He explained that he didn't care who was safety-service director, but did care for the appointment and paying of a man who would render due service.

Attorney O'Grady also favored the purchase of an automobile for the police department. He pointed out that collections could be doubled and that such an aid was necessary to cope with the conveniences at the hand of criminals of today.

American Air Talent

Witnesses called before a congressional committee that is investigating the United States air service testify as follows:

Americans have a genius for flying.

American designers have developed types of airplanes, military and commercial, unequaled by those of other countries.

Most of the flying records are held by Americans.

There is private flying in our western states outdoing any similar activity abroad.

These are regarded as incontrovertible facts. It is said further that American bankers and merchants are ready to avail themselves of flying facilities for business purposes.

Why, then, does air transportation lag so in this country, which created the airplane and which has boundless wealth to exploit its usefulness?

The blame is usually put upon the government. But perhaps the government has really done its share of pioneering, at least, whatever may be said of the present weakness of its military air fleet. It has shown the way in construction, in laying our flying routes and in the notable example of mail-carrying, at considerable expense. But for some reason or other, private enterprise has not done its part.

This situation cannot last much longer. One of these times there will probably be a sudden development of private air transportation of passengers and freight rivalling our early railroad and trolley car history and outdoing the present motor bus business. And the leaders going into it on a big scale will make millions.

Poor Lighting

The Eyesight Conservation Council of America has found through its various investigations that, out of 42,000,000 persons gainfully employed in this country, 25,000,000 are handicapped by defective vision. Improper lighting facilities in schools, factories and places of business have frequently been blamed for this condition.

A group of illuminating engineers in one city, whose business it is to know what correct lighting is, and who must know, too, a good deal about the sort of lighting used in their community, place the blame more specifically.

"Poor lighting in factories is responsible for very little of this," they say. "Most factories nowadays are awake to the business value of good lighting there is little cause for complaint, except in a few cases.

"Practically all homes have enough lights, but the people don't know how to use them."

That seems to mean that any given home has enough equipment for adequate lighting, but that the light fixtures and lamps, of whatever kind, are not properly placed or intelligently used. They do not illuminate a room evenly. They do not furnish enough light at the right spot for special work such as reading, writing or sewing. They are not suitably shaded to prevent glare.

Partly this may be due to the builder of the house. Partly it is due to the ignorance or carelessness of the people dwelling in it. Here is a fine job of public education for altruistic illuminating engineers.

Moral Lessons

Psychology is always a curious thing. One of the interesting psychological studies lately has been the state of mind of two men, father and son, who have just moved out of the gubernatorial mansion in Topeka, Kan.

Apologizing for his 28-year-old son for falling into a legal trap and accepting money offered for a pardon granted by his father, ex-Governor Davis is quoted as saying:

"He saw an opportunity to make a little on the side in a manner he did not believe to be wrong. It will be a lesson to the boy. It will teach him the ways of the world. He understands now that such things, while seemingly not wrong, cannot be done."

It's a queer world, of course, where such deeds are disapproved. But we all have to get used to the world's ways, however great the cost.

The Kansas incident reminds one somehow of the man who remarked, when asked if he had anything to say before they strung him up for murder, "I hope this will be a lesson to me."

Haskin Letter

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

BOYS GO TO SEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the United States shipping board, says: "Frequently we have been told that we cannot build up an all-American personnel on our ships for the reason that the American boy will not go to sea. It has been pointed out to us that the reason we lost our supremacy on the sea nearly a century ago was that the development of the interior of the United States offered great opportunities for our virile youth than did the sea. This was true then and it has been true for half a century.

"But now we have, as a nation, reached the point where we are turning in earnest to foreign markets for the disposition of our surplus products. Necessity drives us to the sea and when necessity drives we always move."

Accordingly, Mr. O'Connor is proud of the fact that he initiated a policy under which the American boy may ship on government owned ocean-going vessels. He was also one of a board of seven officials who put this policy into effect.

He feels there is at the present time an excellent opportunity for advancement for any boy who enters upon a career of this sort. It is his opinion that not all of the boys who ship on government vessels will stick, but that a fair percentage will. These will probably fall into two classes, those with a natural love of ships and the sea, and those who will become fascinated by the intricate and interesting question of foreign trade and ocean-borne commerce.

The first class will be composed of boys who will want to become masters and will undertake to work their way up through the various grades. They must have a natural ability to handle men. By actual experience they will learn what it means to keep a ship moving and how to load and unload cargoes.

The second class will be boys who wish to enter the commercial side of shipping on shore. A couple of years' experience at sea, visiting various ports in all parts of the world, will be a tremendous advantage to them when connecting with some shipping firm, and will greatly aid in their advancement. They will have a basic knowledge which could be obtained in no other way.

A VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

Even for the boys who do not wish to remain in this line, the experience and training they receive during a cruise is a splendid thing for them. It will give them a better understanding of how other nations transact their business and a clearer insight into international problems. Of course, anything one sees with one's own eyes makes a greater impression than something read in a book or newspaper, no matter how vividly it may be described or how clearly it may be set forth.

American boys have taken very kindly to the plan of shipping on government vessels, and certainly it is much more agreeable than taking a trip for high school and college boys to do.

The application blank which must be filled out in the applicant's own handwriting and sent to the recruiting service of the United States shipping board is very simple, including 11 questions to be answered as to the applicant's full name, address, telephone number, place and date of birth, color, height and weight, when his father, if not born in this country, became a citizen of the United States, the marital status of the applicant, his sea experience, if any, schools he has attended, his references, and a statement as to when he will be ready to report for duty.

A boy who is under 21 years of age must file with the sea service at port of placement the written consent of his parents or guardian. All applicants must also furnish birth certificate or other evidence of citizenship. This is in order that they may obtain the proper passport.

Last summer two Washington boys shipped on one of these government vessels, and from their experiences an idea may be had of what a boy may expect when he signs up for such a trip.

They reported at the shipping board sea service bureau in Baltimore and were taken aboard their vessel. The watchman directed them to the third mate, who took their valuables, which consisted of $10 each, assigned them places to put their bags and then ordered them into working clothes.

A SUBSTANTIAL DINNER

"He put us to work sweeping out between decks," said one of the lads, "and we were glad when dinner time came. That was 12 o'clock. We had soup, steak with onion gravy, potatoes, peas, beans, carrots, hot biscuits, coffee and tapoico and rice pudding for dessert. Pretty good."

All afternoon they worked at cleaning the mud out of the hold. Water ballast had been used on the westbound trip. When it was run off the mud stayed. Shovels, brooms and scrapers were used to get rid of it. The boys were not sorry when supper time came at 5 o'clock.

"After supper," to quote from the diary of one of them, "we drew two cakes of soap, blankets, mattresses, covers and pillow slips. Everybody helped us out in every way. We were in bed at 9:30 and glad to get there."

The next day the crew signed on and drew a day's pay. These two boys drew 93 cents each and the crew with rare originality asked them what they were going to do with all that money.

During the first two days aboard the boys were initiated into the art of loading stores and other cargo. Carrying a hundred-pound bag of flour from amidships down a ladder to the store room proved particularly tricky. As one explains, "There's knack to it. You get the bag balanced on the back of your neck. I was having trouble getting down the ladder, when one of the boys yelled, 'dump her down, she won't break.' I dumped her and she didn't break, so I dumped all the rest. That helped a lot."

It was not until the ship went through the capes and the real voyage began that the boys had an opportunity really to get acquainted with the rest of the crew. One says: "They were a good crowd, but they couldn't make us out at first. Later we got on fine. There were eight nations represented among the seamen, all either naturalized or holding first papers. They all said that the American merchant marine is the best in the world from a sailor's standpoint. On the foreign ships the men have to carry their own 'kitchens' and bedding. By 'kitchens' they mean plates, knives and forks, etc. The American forecastles they rate at 100 per cent. The foreign forecastles are crowded and the men have to eat in them."

When the boys reached the other side they visited Cardiff, where they saw the robes of the Prince of Wales on exhibition in the National museum of Wales, and went to a burlesque show, consisting of all American acts and music. At Bristol they were specially struck with coal burning motor trucks, each having an engineer and fireman. They visited Dublin and reported plenty of barbed wire and sand bags still on view there, and many buildings still unrepaired. Belfast they declared to be the most modern city they were in.

The trip home consisted principally of the routine of cleaning. Both boys declared the trip a huge success and plan to make another voyage next summer.

Then, too, Pittsburgh's skyscraper college will make it easier for students to keep their heads in the clouds.

Who said there was no value in cross-word puzzles? They have reduced the demand for current fiction.

Opposition to the child labor amendment is based largely on state rights. Sure, every state has a right to safeguard its own children. Also, "they have rights who dare maintain them."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—A piano for an apartment is offered by a piano maker who is beginning to despair of ever finding a happy home in the French capital. In his window a sign reads:

"A superb piano, value 5,000 francs, is offered to the person who can procure an apartment of three rooms in the center of the city."

A free piano—not a sou to pay, but many steps to take. It means walking up and down the streets tactfully questioning concierges, the porters who hold the keys to all houses, and greasing their palms as well, sounding out proprietors, inquiring at agencies and looking for windows without any curtains. Finding an apartment in Paris is almost as difficult as looking for the proverbial needle, and it is likely that the piano makers may have to make a bed of his piano and sleep in his little shop for some time to come.

A painter who has been without lodgings for some time and unable to find a suitable atelier as well, has just had the original idea of constructing a house-boat and floating it on the Seine, near the bridge of the Invalides. Thus, he can fish from his window, take a bath easily and paint marine landscapes without ever going near the seaside.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Rockefeller, France's American uncle, the long-proposed school of Decorative arts will be constructed during the coming year. The generous American is spending more than 5,000,000 francs upon it and, in addition, he is spending $300,000 on the reconstruction of the spire of the Rheims cathedral, $100,000 for the restoration of the palace of Fontainebleau, and $600,000 to repair what time and weather have done to Versailles and the gardens.

The English week is being suggested for school children whose parents find that they work too hard during the school term and have too long a summer holiday. In France Thursday is the Saturday holiday for school children, together with Sunday, and the greater share of these days are spent in getting home lessons. If the English week-end were adopted, the home tasks could be done on Saturday afternoon and leave Sunday free for relaxation, but this would mean a loss of 74 hours a week. Too much to learn in too little time is the complaint of the parents because of the three long months of summer holiday.

The minister of public instruction says that the number of hours lost would be made up in the summer, but fears that, after the good time on Sunday, Monday morning will be a veritable "blue" one. The English week-end, he argues, is very well for the ones who work the English day, that is, eight hours without interruption, or only a very short one at noontime for lunch, never the two long ones granted to every French person. Well-earned repose is legitimate enough, but not laziness.

Sanitary drinking cups are a novelty in Paris, where the public drinking fountain still retains its old tin goblets attached to a chain over a little warning which reads:

"Rinse the goblet before using."

But there is one Frenchman who has heard of sanitary cups. Every morning about 8 o'clock he wends his way to a certain little fountain, folds a clean piece of white paper into receptacle and drinks copiously of the fresh water, which, with a large slice of warm bread, constitute his frugal breakfast. Needless to say there are many onlookers.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 21.—I was in Houston about a year ago. In the interim many changes have taken place. This is not a boom town but it has the pace of one. What impresses me most is the beauty of home life—something in which New York is lacking.

You come unexpectedly upon rows of houses with lovely windows; houses with colonnades and magnificent fluted cornices. This morning I awakened at Mike Hogg's home, a 10 minute drive from midtown, to the twitter of birds, the crowing of roosters and the bark of Ajax, the dog.

A New Yorker would have to drive two or three hours to reach such pastoral simplicity. From the window you could see stretches of rich green grass and the white brown and red of roof tops in rich patches. And a touch of old rose clouds in the west.

There is a gorgeous tint to Texas skies. But what you like most is the whole heartedness of Texas people. No, it doesn't sound right to call them people, for they are just folks. They are, I believe, the most friendly in all the world.

It is difficult to believe they are quick on the draw and that they will fight at the drop of the hat. But history does record it. The Texan, if he is your friend, does not greet you with a limp shake of the hand and some inane remark.

He puts his arm around your shoulder and gives you a warm little hug. Then he invites you out to dinner. Invariably he wants to show you his home and his wife and children. Where the New Yorker brags of his new cellar supply the Texan brags of his rose bushes.

Another thing I noticed in Texas. Youth does not run in a pack. The older men are welcome and a great deference is shown them. You see a lad home from college having dinner at the club with some gray head thrice his age, having the time of their lives.

I was pleased to renew acquaintances with Slim, the elongated waiter at a well known chili stool counter lunch. Slim is a Houston character whose patronymic fits him like a glove. He has the stature of a giraffe's neck and keeps up a running fire of chatter as he dishes out the chili.

Raymond Dickson came up from San Antonio today to join our party. Raymond is a Mexico ranchman—that is a Texan with a Mexico ranch—and looks more the city slicker that the most notable of the Fifth avenue boulegardiers. His is the most pronounced of all the southern drawls I have heard. At first you get the idea he is speaking an alien tongue, but after a time you are able to follow him. You rather imagine Raymond would be more at home at Simpson's on the Strand for lunch with a monocle in his eye than he would be in spurred boots and six shooters looking over his cattle in the cactus country. But he isn't.

This afternoon we motored down to the beach at Galveston to watch the sunset. Pirates once roamed the sands upon which we stood gazing out to sea for a sight of the Spanish galleons sailing up from Panama with cargoes of gold. Galveston is filled with legends of hidden pirate gold. Jean Lafitte is supposed to have buried many treasures of Captain Kidd on Long Island—and no doubt are just as imaginary.

I stopped into a drug store on the outskirts of Houston to purchase some trifle. The proprietor had locked up and was departing, but he opened his doors, turned on the lights and I was rather abashed to make a 15 cent purchase. Yet he made me feel my patronage was a favor. There is an art in that.

TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

A GOOD EXCUSE

Our European friends, statesmen of England, France, etc., say this country is now tied up in the reparations mess, and that we have made ourselves practically responsible for Germany's debts.

Our statesmen say no; we were only trying to get a few hundred million dollars out of the scramble.

In any case, you will probably discover that we have given Europe a chance to say, by and by: "You have not keep the faith and so we shall not pay you what we borrowed from you."

TWO MANIACS FIGHT

John Kuehn and Alebrt Joe fought desperately with heavy mops. Before they were separated Kuehn was killed. Keepers overpowered Joe, the winner. Both were madmen and fought in an asylum. "Oh," you say, "crazy, eh? That explains it."

What does it explain?

Were those two maniacs any more crazy or wild than the civilized nations that recently started fighting and kept at it until millions were killed?

TIED TO THEIR ANCHOR

Just as you make up your mind that prohibition is a failure, because the rich man gets what he wants, when he wants it, etc., statistics come along to make you think again.

More money in savings banks, fewer citizens in jail, some jails closed, fewer go to insane asylums. Bigger wages might explain some of that. But then comes this:

In New York, biggest city, crime among women has been cut down one-half since prohibition came, in spite of the city's growing size.

Bigger wages can't explain that.

How many new crimes has prohibition added to the list, while diminishing the amount of crime among women? Rev. George F. Bennett, of St. Lawrence's church in Weehawken, tells of surprising a group of bootleggers carting off a boatload of whisky at night. First they offered him money to be silent, then a load of whisky or champagne. Policemen were the active bootleggers.

That is the cold business side of bootlegging. The next crime story comes from Sidney Island, British Columbia. Hijackers attack the captain and his son, alone on their whisky laden bark. Father and son fight, are beaten down, tied together and both tied to the ship's anchor. The anchor slowly grinds them to death as it is lowered over the side.

TWO BILLION HOURS

Ten years ago this country smoked fifteen billion cigarets in one year. In 1923 the number was sixty-three billions.

Smoking women have contributed much of the increase. Figuring a little less than two minutes to each cigaret, that means about two billion hours devoted to cigeret smoking by men and women.

Add cigars and pipes, then figure for yourself how many years of time went up in smoke.

Nobody knows what foolishness was avoided by the millions thoughtfully rolling their own, or walking a mile to get just the cigaret they wanted.

The only trouble about tobacco is that when you smoke you tilt your forehead upward and in that position you can't think well. Try it.

French communists at Aix and elsewhere battle with French Catholics, holding a parade. The communists marched singing the "Internationale," a revolutionary song. The Catholics sang anthems in protest against the government's religious policy, which is anti-Catholic.

Mussolini has declared war upon Free Mansons because, among other reasons, he alleges that "they aim at destruction of religion."

Here we escape such troubles. Complete separation of church and state has worked well for both in America.

Gandhi relates how agents from Moscow sought to bribe him. They wanted his help to start a Bolshevist revolution in India. Gandhi, simple soul, says he does not quite know what Bolshevism is, but adds:

"I do know that insofar as it is based on violence and the denial of God, it repels me."

Far apart are Gandhi and Bolshevism. The former would conquer the world and disarm the oppressor with love and non-resistance. The latter prefers to work with dynamite and the sword.

While you love peace and hate violence, you have to admit that violence, thus far, seems to win.

Asquith is to be made Earl of Oxford, a fine title now extinct, but to be revived in his honor. His country place is close to Oxford, and that is appropriate. Mr. Asquith, faithful, unselfish and able servant of the British nation, deserves honor.

Observe one advantage of a monarchial government. You delight a man's vanity, please his family, raise him above his fellow commoners and it does not cost the government a cent.

WHO'S WHO

FRANK HODGES.

With the recent dissolution of the British Labor government, Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty during the Labor regime, found himself out of a job. So he promptly returned to his "trade," went down into a mine pit to swing a pick.

In January, 1924, when Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the parliamentary Labor party of England, became prime minister he offered Hodges, who was then president of the miners' union, one of the most important jobs in the British empire, that of director of the British navy. Whereupon he resigned his union job and became a cabinet member.

During the British coal strike of 1921 Hodges was the acknowledged leader of the labor war.

At the November election, Hodges, who may have foreseen the breakdown of the Labor party, sought a seat in the house of commons, but was defeated.

British labor will doubtless see to it that he does not long remain in the role of collier.

DINNER STORIES

"It was 'open house' and there were many guests," tells Lord Castleton. "On coming down to dinner I heard loud shrieks and oaths, but could not make out what was happening. The other guests and I consulted, and eventually rang for the butler. My father expressed anxiety. 'I hope no one is ill,' he said. 'We heard loud cries—perhaps we ought to send for the doctor.'

"'Tis nothing, your honor,' answered the old butler at once. 'They're putting a clane shirt on the master, and he hates the cowld of it and let a roar or two out of him.'"

Moral Lessons

Psychology is always a curious thing. One of the interesting psychological studies lately has been the state of mind of two men, father and son, who have just moved out of the gubernatorial mansion in Topeka, Kan.

Apologizing for his 28-year-old son for falling into a legal trap and accepting money offered for a pardon granted by his father, ex-Governor Davis is quoted as saying:

"He saw an opportunity to make a little on the side in a manner he did not believe to be wrong. It will be a lesson to the boy. It will teach him the ways of the world. He understands now that such things, while seemingly not wrong, cannot be done."

It's a queer world, of course, where such deeds are disapproved. But we all have to get used to the world's ways, however great the cost.

The Kansas incident reminds one somehow of the man who remarked, when asked if he had anything to say before they strung him up for murder, "I hope this will be a lesson to me."

BOYS GO TO SEA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the United States shipping board, says: "Frequently we have been told that we cannot build up an all-American personnel on our ships for the reason that the American boy will not go to sea. It has been pointed out to us that the reason we lost our supremacy on the sea nearly a century ago was that the development of the interior of the United States offered great opportunities for our virile youth than did the sea. This was true then and it has been true for half a century.

"But now we have, as a nation, reached the point where we are turning in earnest to foreign markets for the disposition of our surplus products. Necessity drives us to the sea and when necessity drives we always move."

Accordingly, Mr. O'Connor is proud of the fact that he initiated a policy under which the American boy may ship on government owned ocean-going vessels. He was also one of a board of seven officials who put this policy into effect.

He feels there is at the present time an excellent opportunity for advancement for any boy who enters upon a career of this sort. It is his opinion that not all of the boys who ship on government vessels will stick, but that a fair percentage will. These will probably fall into two classes, those with a natural love of ships and the sea, and those who will become fascinated by the intricate and interesting question of foreign trade and ocean-borne commerce.

The first class will be composed of boys who will want to become masters and will undertake to work their way up through the various grades. They must have a natural ability to handle men. By actual experience they will learn what it means to keep a ship moving and how to load and unload cargoes.

The second class will be boys who wish to enter the commercial side of shipping on shore. A couple of years' experience at sea, visiting various ports in all parts of the world, will be a tremendous advantage to them when connecting with some shipping firm, and will greatly aid in their advancement. They will have a basic knowledge which could be obtained in no other way.

A VALUABLE EXPERIENCE

Even for the boys who do not wish to remain in this line, the experience and training they receive during a cruise is a splendid thing for them. It will give them a better understanding of how other nations transact their business and a clearer insight into international problems. Of course, anything one sees with one's own eyes makes a greater impression than something read in a book or newspaper, no matter how vividly it may be described or how clearly it may be set forth.

American boys have taken very kindly to the plan of shipping on government vessels, and certainly it is much more agreeable than taking a trip for high school and college boys to do.

The application blank which must be filled out in the applicant's own handwriting and sent to the recruiting service of the United States shipping board is very simple, including 11 questions to be answered as to the applicant's full name, address, telephone number, place and date of birth, color, height and weight, when his father, if not born in this country, became a citizen of the United States, the marital status of the applicant, his sea experience, if any, schools he has attended, his references, and a statement as to when he will be ready to report for duty.

A boy who is under 21 years of age must file with the sea service at port of placement the written consent of his parents or guardian. All applicants must also furnish birth certificate or other evidence of citizenship. This is in order that they may obtain the proper passport.

Last summer two Washington boys shipped on one of these government vessels, and from their experiences an idea may be had of what a boy may expect when he signs up for such a trip.

They reported at the shipping board sea service bureau in Baltimore and were taken aboard their vessel. The watchman directed them to the third mate, who took their valuables, which consisted of $10 each, assigned them places to put their bags and then ordered them into working clothes.

A SUBSTANTIAL DINNER

"He put us to work sweeping out between decks," said one of the lads, "and we were glad when dinner time came. That was 12 o'clock. We had soup, steak with onion gravy, potatoes, peas, beans, carrots, hot biscuits, coffee and tapoico and rice pudding for dessert. Pretty good."

All afternoon they worked at cleaning the mud out of the hold. Water ballast had been used on the westbound trip. When it was run off the mud stayed. Shovels, brooms and scrapers were used to get rid of it. The boys were not sorry when supper time came at 5 o'clock.

"After supper," to quote from the diary of one of them, "we drew two cakes of soap, blankets, mattresses, covers and pillow slips. Everybody helped us out in every way. We were in bed at 9:30 and glad to get there."

The next day the crew signed on and drew a day's pay. These two boys drew 93 cents each and the crew with rare originality asked them what they were going to do with all that money.

During the first two days aboard the boys were initiated into the art of loading stores and other cargo. Carrying a hundred-pound bag of flour from amidships down a ladder to the store room proved particularly tricky. As one explains, "There's knack to it. You get the bag balanced on the back of your neck. I was having trouble getting down the ladder, when one of the boys yelled, 'dump her down, she won't break.' I dumped her and she didn't break, so I dumped all the rest. That helped a lot."

It was not until the ship went through the capes and the real voyage began that the boys had an opportunity really to get acquainted with the rest of the crew. One says: "They were a good crowd, but they couldn't make us out at first. Later we got on fine. There were eight nations represented among the seamen, all either naturalized or holding first papers. They all said that the American merchant marine is the best in the world from a sailor's standpoint. On the foreign ships the men have to carry their own 'kitchens' and bedding. By 'kitchens' they mean plates, knives and forks, etc. The American forecastles they rate at 100 per cent. The foreign forecastles are crowded and the men have to eat in them."

When the boys reached the other side they visited Cardiff, where they saw the robes of the Prince of Wales on exhibition in the National museum of Wales, and went to a burlesque show, consisting of all American acts and music. At Bristol they were specially struck with coal burning motor trucks, each having an engineer and fireman. They visited Dublin and reported plenty of barbed wire and sand bags still on view there, and many buildings still unrepaired. Belfast they declared to be the most modern city they were in.

The trip home consisted principally of the routine of cleaning. Both boys declared the trip a huge success and plan to make another voyage next summer.

Then, too, Pittsburgh's skyscraper college will make it easier for students to keep their heads in the clouds.

Who said there was no value in cross-word puzzles? They have reduced the demand for current fiction.

Opposition to the child labor amendment is based largely on state rights. Sure, every state has a right to safeguard its own children. Also, "they have rights who dare maintain them."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Jan. 21.—A piano for an apartment is offered by a piano maker who is beginning to despair of ever finding a happy home in the French capital. In his window a sign reads:

"A superb piano, value 5,000 francs, is offered to the person who can procure an apartment of three rooms in the center of the city."

A free piano—not a sou to pay, but many steps to take. It means walking up and down the streets tactfully questioning concierges, the porters who hold the keys to all houses, and greasing their palms as well, sounding out proprietors, inquiring at agencies and looking for windows without any curtains. Finding an apartment in Paris is almost as difficult as looking for the proverbial needle, and it is likely that the piano makers may have to make a bed of his piano and sleep in his little shop for some time to come.

A painter who has been without lodgings for some time and unable to find a suitable atelier as well, has just had the original idea of constructing a house-boat and floating it on the Seine, near the bridge of the Invalides. Thus, he can fish from his window, take a bath easily and paint marine landscapes without ever going near the seaside.

Thanks to the generosity of Mr. Rockefeller, France's American uncle, the long-proposed school of Decorative arts will be constructed during the coming year. The generous American is spending more than 5,000,000 francs upon it and, in addition, he is spending $300,000 on the reconstruction of the spire of the Rheims cathedral, $100,000 for the restoration of the palace of Fontainebleau, and $600,000 to repair what time and weather have done to Versailles and the gardens.

The English week is being suggested for school children whose parents find that they work too hard during the school term and have too long a summer holiday. In France Thursday is the Saturday holiday for school children, together with Sunday, and the greater share of these days are spent in getting home lessons. If the English week-end were adopted, the home tasks could be done on Saturday afternoon and leave Sunday free for relaxation, but this would mean a loss of 74 hours a week. Too much to learn in too little time is the complaint of the parents because of the three long months of summer holiday.

The minister of public instruction says that the number of hours lost would be made up in the summer, but fears that, after the good time on Sunday, Monday morning will be a veritable "blue" one. The English week-end, he argues, is very well for the ones who work the English day, that is, eight hours without interruption, or only a very short one at noontime for lunch, never the two long ones granted to every French person. Well-earned repose is legitimate enough, but not laziness.

Sanitary drinking cups are a novelty in Paris, where the public drinking fountain still retains its old tin goblets attached to a chain over a little warning which reads:

"Rinse the goblet before using."

But there is one Frenchman who has heard of sanitary cups. Every morning about 8 o'clock he wends his way to a certain little fountain, folds a clean piece of white paper into receptacle and drinks copiously of the fresh water, which, with a large slice of warm bread, constitute his frugal breakfast. Needless to say there are many onlookers.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. McINTYRE

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 21.—I was in Houston about a year ago. In the interim many changes have taken place. This is not a boom town but it has the pace of one. What impresses me most is the beauty of home life—something in which New York is lacking.

You come unexpectedly upon rows of houses with lovely windows; houses with colonnades and magnificent fluted cornices. This morning I awakened at Mike Hogg's home, a 10 minute drive from midtown, to the twitter of birds, the crowing of roosters and the bark of Ajax, the dog.

A New Yorker would have to drive two or three hours to reach such pastoral simplicity. From the window you could see stretches of rich green grass and the white brown and red of roof tops in rich patches. And a touch of old rose clouds in the west.

There is a gorgeous tint to Texas skies. But what you like most is the wholeheartedness of Texas people. No, it doesn't sound right to call them people, for they are just folks. They are, I believe, the most friendly in all the world.

It is difficult to believe they are quick on the draw and that they will fight at the drop of the hat. But history does record it. The Texan, if he is your friend, does not greet you with a limp shake of the hand and some inane remark.

He puts his arm around your shoulder and gives you a warm little hug. Then he invites you out to dinner. Invariably he wants to show you his home and his wife and children. Where the New Yorker brags of his new cellar supply the Texan brags of his rose bushes.

Another thing I noticed in Texas. Youth does not run in a pack. The older men are welcome and a great deference is shown them. You see a lad home from college having dinner at the club with some gray head thrice his age, having the time of their lives.

I was pleased to renew acquaintances with Slim, the elongated waiter at a well known chili stool counter lunch. Slim is a Houston character whose patronymic fits him like a glove. He has the stature of a giraffe's neck and keeps up a running fire of chatter as he dishes out the chili.

Raymond Dickson came up from San Antonio today to join our party. Raymond is a Mexico ranchman—that is a Texan with a Mexico ranch—and looks more the city slicker that the most notable of the Fifth avenue boulegardiers. His is the most pronounced of all the southern drawls I have heard. At first you get the idea he is speaking an alien tongue, but after a time you are able to follow him. You rather imagine Raymond would be more at home at Simpson's on the Strand for lunch with a monocle in his eye than he would be in spurred boots and six shooters looking over his cattle in the cactus country. But he isn't.

This afternoon we motored down to the beach at Galveston to watch the sunset. Pirates once roamed the sands upon which we stood gazing out to sea for a sight of the Spanish galleons sailing up from Panama with cargoes of gold. Galveston is filled with legends of hidden pirate gold. Jean Lafitte is supposed to have buried many treasures of Captain Kidd on Long Island—and no doubt are just as imaginary.

I stopped into a drug store on the outskirts of Houston to purchase some trifle. The proprietor had locked up and was departing, but he opened his doors, turned on the lights and I was rather abashed to make a 15 cent purchase. Yet he made me feel my patronage was a favor. TODAY

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

A GOOD EXCUSE

Our European friends, statesmen of England, France, etc., say this country is now tied up in the reparations mess, and that we have made ourselves practically responsible for Germany's debts.

Our statesmen say no; we were only trying to get a few hundred million dollars out of the scramble.

In any case, you will probably discover that we have given Europe a chance to say, by and by: "You have not keep the faith and so we shall not pay you what we borrowed from you."

TWO MANIACS FIGHT

John Kuehn and Alebrt Joe fought desperately with heavy mops. Before they were separated Kuehn was killed. Keepers overpowered Joe, the winner. Both were madmen and fought in an asylum. "Oh," you say, "crazy, eh? That explains it."

What does it explain?

Were those two maniacs any more crazy or wild than the civilized nations that recently started fighting and kept at it until millions were killed?

TIED TO THEIR ANCHOR

Just as you make up your mind that prohibition is a failure, because the rich man gets what he wants, when he wants it, etc, statistics come along to make you think again.

More money in savings banks, fewer citizens in jail, some jails closed, fewer go to insane asylums. Bigger wages might explain some of that. But then comes this:

In New York, biggest city, crime among women has been cut down one-half since prohibition came, in spite of the city's growing size.

Bigger wages can't explain that.

How many new crimes has prohibition added to the list, while diminishing the amount of crime among women? Rev. George F. Bennett, of St. Lawrence's church in Weehawken, tells of surprising a group of bootleggers carting off a boatload of whisky at night. First they offered him money to be silent, then a load of whisky or champagne. Policemen were the active bootleggers.

That is the cold business side of bootlegging. The next crime story comes from Sidney island, British Columbia. Hijackers attack the captain and his son, alone on their whisky laden bark. Father and son fight, are beaten down, tied together and both tied to the ship's anchor. The anchor slowly grinds them to death as it is lowered over the side.

TWO BILLION HOURS

Ten years ago this country smoked fifteen billion cigarets in one year. In 1923 the number was sixty-three billions.

Smoking women have contributed much of the increase. Figuring a little less than two minutes to each cigaret, that means about two billion hours devoted to cigeret smoking by men and women.

Add cigars and pipes, then figure for yourself how many years of time went up in smoke.

Nobody knows what foolishness was avoided by the millions thoughtfully rolling their own, or walking a mile to get just the cigaret they wanted.

The only trouble about tobacco is that when you smoke you tilt your forehead upward and in that position you can't think well. Try it.

French communists at Aix and elsewhere battle with French Catholics, holding a parade. The communists marched singing the "Internationale," a revolutionary song. The Catholics sang anthems in protest against the government's religious policy, which is anti-Catholic.

Mussolini has declared war upon Free Masons because, among other reasons, he alleges that "they aim at destruction of religion."

Here we escape such troubles. Complete separation of church and state has worked well for both in America.

Gandhi relates how agents from Moscow sought to bribe him. They wanted his help to start a Bolshevist revolution in India. Gandhi, simple soul, says he does not quite know what Bolshevism is, but adds:

"I do know that insofar as it is based on violence and the denial of God, it repels me."

Far apart are Gandhi and Bolshevism. The former would conquer the world and disarm the oppressor with love and non-resistance. The latter prefers to work with dynamite and the sword.

While you love peace and hate violence, you have to admit that violence, thus far, seems to win.

Asquith is to be made Earl of Oxford, a fine title now extinct, but to be revived in his honor. His country place is close to Oxford, and that is appropriate. Mr. Asquith, faithful, unselfish and able servant of the British nation, deserves honor.

Observe one advantage of a monarchial government. You delight a man's vanity, please his family, raise him above his fellow commoners and it does not cost the government a cent.

WHO'S WHO

FRANK HODGES.

With the recent dissolution of the British Labor government, Frank Hodges, civil lord of the admiralty during the Labor regime, found himself out of a job. So he promptly returned to his "trade," went down into a mine pit to swing a pick.

FRANK HODGES

In January, 1924, when Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the parliamentary Labor party of England, became prime minister he offered Hodges, who was then president of the miners' union, one of the most important jobs in the British empire, that of director of the British navy. Whereupon he resigned his union job and became a cabinet member.

During the British coal strike of 1921 Hodges was the acknowledged leader of the labor war.

At the November election, Hodges, who may have foreseen the breakdown of the Labor party, sought a seat in the house of commons, but was defeated.

British labor will doubtless see to it that he does not long remain in the role of collier.

DINNER STORIES

"It was 'open house' and there were many guests," tells Lord Castleton. "On coming down to dinner I heard loud shrieks and oaths, but could not make out what was happening. The other guests and I consulted, and eventually rang for the butler. My father expressed anxiety. 'I hope no one is ill,' he said. 'We heard loud cries—perhaps we ought to send for the doctor.'

"'Tis nothing, your honor,' answered the old butler at once. 'They're putting a clane shirt on the master, and he hates the cowld of it and let a roar or two out of him.'"

Miss Shrum Hostess.

Members of the U. K. E. club were delightfully entertained recently in the home of Miss Dorothea Shrum of Almont street. Music and dancing were enjoyed during the informal social hours, after which a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. Shrum.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Miss Hilda Manypenny of Dresden avenue.

Hillel Study Club Meeting.

The Hillel Study club met last evening in the library of B'Nai Israel temple, West Fifth street, for their semi-monthly study of opera. "La Boheme" by Puccini was the topic. Miss Nellie Rudolph gave a sketch of the life of Puccini and his works, after which Miss Ethel Wasbutzky told the story of the opera. Several numbers were given from the opera by the club members, after which stars, who have played in the opera, were discussed.

Wedding Is Announced.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eva Cole and George Armstrong Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reynolds of Park avenue, East End. The ceremony was performed Friday in the parsonage of the United Presbyterian church of Lisbon, with Rev. John Cameron, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will make their future home here. The bridegroom is employed in a local pottery.

Mahon-Reed Marriage.

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Thelma Mahon, daughter of Donald D. Mahon of St. George street, and Franklin Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reed of Alpha street. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Presbyterian church of Lisbon, with Rev. Peter W. McCaulay officiating.

Missionary Society Dinner.

The annual Dollar Day dinner was given by the Young Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church, auxiliary No. 2, last evening at 6 o'clock in the parlors of the church. Mrs. W. A. Beane was chairman of the social committee. One hundred and twenty-five guests were seated at one long table, which was attractively decorated with a color scheme of red and white.

During the dinner, Mrs. J. S. Calhoun and her twin sister, Mrs. Robertson of Wellsville, gave a vocal duet. Miss Ruth Bailey also rendered vocal numbers. The response to roll call was dues-paying.

Announcement was made of the entertainment to be given for the benefit of society early in February. This will be given under the direction of Miss Bernedette Arnold and Mrs. R. W. Johnston, features being a kindergarten man, the minuet and other novelties.

Bowers-Higgins Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Rosella Bowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bowers of this city, to James R. Higgins of Washington, Pa., was announced today. The ceremony took place in the United Presbyterian church of Lisbon Friday, with Rev. John Cameron, pastor, officiating.

United Mothers' Club Session.

The United Mothers' club was received last evening in the home of Mrs. Roy Thomas of Vine street. The meeting was opened with devotionals, in charge of Mrs. Robert Perry. The following program arranged by Mrs. Jennie McCarty and Mrs. G. Bradfield, was featured: Cello Solo—Miss Mary Tlizabeth Buxton, accompanied by Miss Audrey DeHaven. Nature, Law and God"—Mrs. Mentor Shenkle. Vocal Solo—Miss Lois Walker, accompanied by Miss Grace Walker. Reading—Mrs. Jennie McCarty.

Following the program, the social hours were spent informally, during which a dainty luncheon was served by the social committee, composed of Mrs. Roy Thomas, Mrs. J. S. English, Mrs. Charles Hendershot and Mrs. W. N. Wilson. Covers were arranged for 40 guests.

The next meeting will be held February 17, in the home of Mrs. Warren Wolfe of Prospect street.

Insurance Company Banquet.

A banquet was given by the employes of the Equitable Life Insurance company of Washington, D. C., in the local office in Sixth street, recently, as the result of a contest. Places were laid for ten members. A color scheme of red and white predominated in the appointments. The dinner was served by Mrs. O. F. Dyke, Miss Mildred Dyke, Miss Edith Mulligan and Miss Alice Betts.

The Steubenville superintendent, Floyd H. Broady, was toastmaster. Responses were made by Charles Kompmier, of the winning side, and L. H. Hoff of the losing team.

Miss Lewis Entertains.

Miss Helen Lewis was hostess last evening to members of the Sorosis club at her home in Virginia avenue, Chester. The meeting opened with roll call, to which the response was "Early Sculptors." "The Origin of Sculpture Art" was given by Miss Helen Lewis. Miss Ruth Baxter told of "Bronzes." Miss Lillian Bradfield was the pianist.

Following the program, informal social hours were enjoyed, during which a luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. G. E. Lewis, and Miss Madora Frederick, who was a special guest.

The next meeting will be held February 3, in the home of Miss Jessie Hall of Pleasant Heights.

Berean Bible Class Session.

The Berean Bible class of the Pleasant Heights Baptist mission will meet Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Charles Whippler of Lincoln highway. Mrs. Mentor Shenkle, the teacher, will discuss the 54th chapter of Isaiah.

P. H. C. Installation.

Stratton Circle No. 40, Protected Home Circle, meeting tonight in Trades and Labor Council hall, Washington street, will install officers, after which informal social hours will be spent. Luncheon will be served by the social committee, of which Mrs. Mary Goppert is chairman.

Augusta Roylston, leading lady in the New York Klaw Theatre comedy success, "Meet the Wife," Ceramic theatre, Thurs., Jan. 22.

Tribe of Ben Hur Initiation.

DISEASE GERMS HARD TO FIND

Statement Made Public by Hancock County Health Agent.

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health officer, has issued the following statement pertaining to germs or bacteria which cause diseases:

Germs or bacteria which cause diseases like diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis, etc., are living plants or animals and which grow and propagate their own kind. Diphtheria bacilli will always produce more diphtheria bacilli and will not produce any other kind of germs or bacilli. Smallpox will always produce smallpox and never diphtheria or tuberculosis. There must always be a parent germ in order to produce a new crop of germs. Germs cannot originate from nothing. Nor can they originate from filth unless the parent germs were placed there just a short while before. Because in filth the germs tend to die out for the want of proper food, moisture, darkness and warmth.

Very often people ask me, "Where did the first germ come from?" And I have always asked them in return, "Where did the first man come from, or where did the first horse come from?"

The reason for telling the above is this: When a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria or smallpox or tuberculosis occurs, it means that the disease was contracted because the caurative organism germ, was picked up from some one who had the germ, usually a person who is also suffering from the disease. Some people can harbor the germs, usually in their throats, without having the disease, yet they can pass the germs on to children who do get sick. Other people can have a mild form of the disease and not know they are sick or suffer just a little and do not get the care of a physician.

Since the germs come from other germs and one case almost always develops because of having been in contact with another case, the health department is constantly looking for the place from which the germ came before getting into this particular person. When it is possible to find that place, then we start looking again for the place it came from before getting there, and so on indefinitely. That is called epidemiological investigation of a case of communicable disease. When a great many cases occur at one time it is usually easy to locate the cause, but when one case occurs at a time it is usually difficult or impossible to locate the source of the infection.

When a communicable disease, above mentioned examples, occurs, the physicians should suspect every similar sickness no matter how slight, in the relatives, friends, neighbors or playmates, of being the same thing until proven otherwise. When these diseases are prevalent in the neighborhood even in small numbers, parents should be careful to guard their children from visiting or playing with children who get sick for a day or two and then recover without seeing a physician. School children are required by law to bring a certificate from a physician when they are home sick for a day or two, or should be examined by the school physician or nurse for evidence of communicable disease; why shouldn't parents do that in private life; that is, expect to have a report from a physician on the children that are sick before permitting their children to play with them. If the children cannot give a physician's report, parents can ask the health department physician to inspect them.

SUSPECT JAILED IN ROBBERY CASE

Brooke county authorities were convinced last night that George "Teas" Lewis, negro, held as a suspect in the investigation of the recent robbery of the Windsor Provision store at Beech Bottom, is one of the two negroes who committed that "job." Jack and Bolek Winski, proprietors of the Beech Bottom store, whom the robbers locked in a huge refrigerator after they had taken $2,000 from them, last night said they believed the prisoner one of the two store robbers.

Brooke county officers are working on clues which they believe will lead to apprehension of the man said to have led Lewis in robbery of the store.

Lewis was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bowman at the home of Elder Brown, negro, early yesterday morning and following an attempt by Lewis to shoot his way out of the house when Bowman placed him under arrest. Bowman was wounded in the left hand in an exchange of shots with Lewis and another of the three negroes who escaped from the house.

FOR ITCHING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, Itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases quickly give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid that may be applied at any time, for it does not show. Trial bottle 35c, large size $1.00, Zemo Soap, 25c. All druggists.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

One of the pictures, now in production, that all the fans are looking for with great interest is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of Lew Wallace's great novel, "Ben Hur." With Fred Niblo wielding the megaphone and May McAvoy, Ramon Navarra, Kathleen Key, Claire McDowell, Sarmel Myers and Francis X. Bushman in the cast it will be a noteworthy production. The fact that it is being filmed in Italy is another thing that adds to its interest.

Claire McDowell is to play the part of Ben Hur's mother in the film. She has mothered many of the screen favorites in her time so it well fitted for this distinguished role. She is one of those well trained and conscientious actresses who graduated from the legitimate stage to photoplay work, and whose careful work shows the experience she has had.

She was born and educated in New York City, nad served her stage apenticeship under the lamented Charles Frohman in such productions as "Way Down East," "The Clansman" and "Herod." For the screen she has worked for Biograph, Universal, Triangle, Mary Pickford, Famous players, First National, etc. Here are some of the photoplays in which you will recall seeing her: "Something to Think About," "Midsummer Madness," "What Exery Woman Knows," "Nice People," "Love Never Dies," "Mother o' Mine," "The Jack-Knife Man" and "Human Wreckage."

This is the first picture we have had of Miss McDowell that shows her naturally dark hair. It is usually made to look gray in pictures.

Clara Bow, far-famed flapper, is heading the casts of two Schulberg productions, "Capital Punishment" and "Free to Love." As soon as they are finished she will have what we are assured is the biggest opportunity of her career in a flm version of Belasco's play, "The Boomerang," Raymond McKee, who was associated with her in "Down to the Sea in Ships," is with her in this picture.

Helen Chadwick had bear meat for her Christmas dinner as an old friend of the family who lives in Chadwick, N. Y., Helen's birth place, sent her one that he shot in the Adriondack. A case of beauty and the beast in a new version, we'll say.

Betty Blythe has started work on "Speed" which an independent producer is making for the Banner people. Pauline Garon is also in the cast.

Relic of Gen. Jackson Taken From Old Home Given to Tennessee

NASHVILLE—One of the latest relics received by the State department of Archives, to go into the new State Museum in the War Memorial building, is an old-fashioned wooden lock from one of the doors of the first house occupied by Andrew Jackson when he came to Tennessee.

The house, known as the Dismuke place at Hadley's Bend, is being razed to make way for the erection of the Du Pont silk fibre plant.

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coated Tablets For Puny Kids

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Anderson, Larkins, Carnahan and Mathews' Medicine store, and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards, but show results in a few days.

DISEASE GERMS HARD TO FIND

Statement Made Public by Hancock County Health Agent.

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health officer, has issued the following statement pertaining to germs or bacteria which cause diseases:

Germs or bacteria which cause diseases like diphtheria, smallpox, tuberculosis, etc., are living plants or animals and which grow and propagate their own kind. Diphtheria bacilli will always produce more diphtheria bacilli and will not produce any other kind of germs or bacilli. Smallpox will always produce smallpox and never diphtheria or tuberculosis. There must always be a parent germ in order to produce a new crop of germs. Germs cannot originate from nothing. Nor can they originate from filth unless the parent germs were placed there just a short while before. Because in filth the germs tend to die out for the want of proper food, moisture, darkness and warmth.

Very often people ask me, "Where did the first germ come from?" And I have always asked them in return, "Where did the first man come from, or where did the first horse come from?"

The reason for telling the above is this: When a case of scarlet fever or diphtheria or smallpox or tuberculosis occurs, it means that the disease was contracted because the caurative organism germ, was picked up from some one who had the germ, usually a person who is also suffering from the disease. Some people can harbor the germs, usually in their throats, without having the disease, yet they can pass the germs on to children who do get sick. Other people can have a mild form of the disease and not know they are sick or suffer just a little and do not get the care of a physician.

Since the germs come from other germs and one case almost always develops because of having been in contact with another case, the health department is constantly looking for the place from which the germ came before getting into this particular person. When it is possible to find that place, then we start looking again for the place it came from before getting there, and so on indefinitely. That is called epidemiological investigation of a case of communicable disease. When a great many cases occur at one time it is usually easy to locate the cause, but when one case occurs at a time it is usually difficult or impossible to locate the source of the infection.

When a communicable disease, above mentioned examples, occurs, the physicians should suspect every similar sickness no matter how slight, in the relatives, friends, neighbors or playmates, of being the same thing until proven otherwise. When these diseases are prevalent in the neighborhood even in small numbers, parents should be careful to guard their children from visiting or playing with children who get sick for a day or two and then recover without seeing a physician. School children are required by law to bring a certificate from a physician when they are home sick for a day or two, or should be examined by the school physician or nurse for evidence of communicable disease; why shouldn't parents do that in private life; that is, expect to have a report from a physician on the children that are sick before permitting their children to play with them. If the children cannot give a physician's report, parents can ask the health department physician to inspect them.

SUSPECT JAILED IN ROBBERY CASE

Brooke county authorities were convinced last night that George "Teas" Lewis, negro, held as a suspect in the investigation of the recent robbery of the Windsor Provision store at Beech Bottom, is one of the two negroes who committed that "job." Jack and Bolek Winski, proprietors of the Beech Bottom store, whom the robbers locked in a huge refrigerator after they had taken $2,000 from them, last night said they believed the prisoner one of the two store robbers.

Brooke county officers are working on clues which they believe will lead to apprehension of the man said to have led Lewis in robbery of the store.

Lewis was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Bowman at the home of Elder Brown, negro, early yesterday morning and following an attempt by Lewis to shoot his way out of the house when Bowman placed him under arrest. Bowman was wounded in the left hand in an exchange of shots with Lewis and another of the three negroes who escaped from the house.

FOR ITCHING TORTURE

Use Antiseptic Liquid Zemo

There is one remedy that seldom fails to stop itching torture and relieve skin irritation, and that makes the skin soft, clear and healthy.

Any druggist can supply you with Zemo, which generally overcomes skin diseases. Eczema, Itch, Pimples, Rashes, Blackheads, in most cases quickly give way to Zemo. Frequently, minor blemishes disappear overnight. Itching usually stops instantly. Zemo is a safe, antiseptic liquid that may be applied at any time, for it does not show. Trial bottle 35c, large size $1.00. Zemo Soap, 25c. All druggists.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

by DAISY DEAN

Claire McDowell.

One of the pictures, now in production, that all the fans are looking for with great interest is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of Lew Wallace's great novel, "Ben Hur." With Fred Niblo wielding the megaphone and May McAvoy, Ramon Navarra, Kathleen Key, Claire McDowell, Sarmel Myers and Francis X. Bushman in the cast it will be a noteworthy production. The fact that it is being filmed in Italy is another thing that adds to its integerst.

Claire McDowell is to play the part of Ben Hur's mother in the film. She has mothered many of the screen favorites in her time so it well fitted for this distinguished role. She is one of those well trained and conscientious actresses who graduated from the legitimate stage to photoplay work, and whose careful work shows the experience she has had.

She was born and educated in New York City, nad served her stage apenticeship under the lamented Charles Frohman in such productions as "Way Down East," "The Clansman" and "Herod." HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Happiness Must Be Earned.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me how to make life more pleasant. I have been married about 30 years, have four grown children, none small. My husband is a good provider, very conceited, cross and crabby, has a grouch on most of the time, and has lost several fine jobs on account of being so crabby. His mother lives with us and has for 15 years. It was my fault she came, but she was sick for a short time and I felt sorry for her. Now she is quite old and not able to keep house. Her ways are so different nationally and it is hard to understand one another. She is always nosing in my things. I am at an age where the doctor says it is bad that I have to have her. She has money to pay her way in an Old Ladies' Home. She doesn't want to go there, but I am sure she would be more contented and I know I would as I am a nervous wreck. I often feel like leavin all and would were it not for disgracing my children. I have lived on faith that he would change, but I am close to being hysterical. I have cried and prayed and now feel like fighting. I am taking nerve medicine continually. —M. M. O. P.

My dear woman, you are giving too much thought to yourself and not putting enough love into life. You say that your husband is cross and crabby, but has it ever occurred to you that he might write the same of you. Perhaps your husband is suffering from nerves too. You will not find happiness by putting your mother-in-law into a home. Just imagine how you would feel at her age; surely you would not want any one to urge you to pay your way into a home. You will find happiness, however, by making the best of her presence in the home and realizing how very much worse she might be. What if she does nose into your affairs? She is at an age now where she has a little of interest in her own life that she turns to your interests. Try to handle your husband with love and a change of heart and attitude. I am positive that if you began thinking happier and healthier thoughts your husband would also use more self-control. Meet his sharpness with kindness. At first it will be hard, but as time goes on you will find him trying to be better natured and the thing you have cried and prayed for will be brought about. Fighting would be the worst possible remedy for your trouble.

Better Talk With Parents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old and go with a boy two years older than I am. He is a very good boy around me. We don't go many places—either stay at home or once in a while we go to the show. I have friends who do a good deal of talking about us and tell me that he goes with another girl. Should I believe him or the one who tells me? I love him and hate to hear any talk of him. What should I do and what should I believe?

Even if the young man goes with another girl, that is no argument against him. You and he are not engaged and therefore both of you are free to go with whomever you please. When the girl tells you he has gone with some one else, tell her, "What if he has?" Of course if you hear much against his reputation you should be careful about going with him. It would not pay to lose a good name merely because you enjoy his company. Talk the matter over with your parents and get their opinion. Because of their more mature years they are better able to judge the young man's character by seeing and knowing him.

Too Young to Marry.

Dear Mrs. Tohmpson: I am engaged to a young man. He is very nice to me. I am only seventeen years old and my folks think me too young to marry, but I love him and believe he loves me. Will you please advise me? DOLLY.

You are too young to be engaged. Since your parents do not want you to be, tell the young man to wait a few years before asking you to give your promise to him. If your love is real it will stand the test of time.

Negroes Favor Philadelphia.

The migrations of negroes from the southern states to the north have been felt in many states, but Philadelphia, Pa., has especially felt the influx. During the last year there have been on an average 5,000 arriving a month, many of whom endeavored to establish homes, though many moved on.

Rebuilding of Bank Of England Launched; More Room Needed

LONDON—The great task of rebuilding the Bank of England is under way. The architect of the new edifice is Herbert Baker, one of whose earliest works was the building of Groote Schuur for Cecil Rhodes, outside Cape Town.

A considerable amount of discussion has taken place as to how much, if any, of the old building should be incorporated in the new. The Bank of England is generally regarded as the greatest achievement of Sir John Soane, and lovers of London's old buildings were naturally anxious to retain as much of his work as possible. The directors of the bank only wanted more room for their staff, which was vastly increased since Sloane's day.

Land Acquired For Russian Orthodox Seminary in Paris

PARIS.—The Soviet government, having suppressed the seminaries and theological colleges in Russia, the Metropolitan Evlogie, the accredited head of the Russian Church in Europe, has decided to establish a theological academy in Paris and for that purpose has contracted to purchase the sequestered German church and schools in the Rue de la Crimee from the French Government.

Tobacco Growers Numerous.

GALLIPOLIS — Gallia county tobacco growers who came here several days ago to sell their 1924 crops were so numerous that all could not be cared for in one day, as usual. Many of them were forced to remain two days. The crop in this district was good.

To Check Ginger Sale.

COLUMBUS — Legislation designed to control the sale of Jamaica ginger is under consideration, it is reported here. The proposed bill is contemplated as a means of stopping the promiscuous sale of ginger which is said to be assuming a serious phase. The Illinois law probably will be used as a model for drafting the proposed Ohio law. It is planned to sale of ginger to bonafide groceries and drug stores, thus preventing its sale in pool rooms, bowling alleys, ice cream parlors, soft drink establishments and other places, it was stated.

Should the tides in the Bay of Fundy be harnessed, sufficient power can be generated at the Lubec Narrows to supply every industry of New England, it is estimated.

DRINK WATER FREELY IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please advise me how to make life more pleasant. I have been married about 30 years, have four grown children, none small. My husband is a good provider, very conceited, cross and crabby, has a grouch on most of the time, and has lost several fine jobs on account of being so crabby. His mother lives with us and has for 15 years. It was my fault she came, but she was sick for a short time and I felt sorry for her. Now she is quite old and not able to keep house. Her ways are so different nationally and it is hard to understand one another. She is always nosing in my things. I am at an age where the doctor says it is bad that I have to have her. She has money to pay her way in an Old Ladies' Home. She doesn't want to go there, but I am sure she would be more contented and I know I would as I am a nervous wreck. I often feel like leavin all and would were it not for disgracing my children. I have lived on faith that he would change, but I am close to being hysterical. I have cried and prayed and now feel like fighting. I am taking nerve medicine continually. —M. M. O. P.

My dear woman, you are giving too much thought to yourself and not putting enough love into life. You say that your husband is cross and crabby, but has it ever occurred to you that he might write the same of you. Perhaps your husband is suffering from nerves too. You will not find happiness by putting your mother-in-law into a home. Just imagine how you would feel at her age; surely you would not want any one to urge you to pay your way into a home. You will find happiness, however, by making the best of her presence in the home and realizing how very much worse she might be. What if she does nose into your affairs? She is at an age now where she has a little of interest in her own life that she turns to your interests. Try to handle your husband with love and a change of heart and attitude. I am positive that if you began thinking happier and healthier thoughts your husband would also use more self-control. Meet his sharpness with kindness. At first it will be hard, but as time goes on you will find him trying to be better natured and the thing you have cried and prayed for will be brought about. Fighting would be the worst possible remedy for your trouble.

Better Talk With Parents.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old and go with a boy two years older than I am. He is a very good boy around me. We don't go many places—either stay at home or once in a while we go to the show. I have friends who do a good deal of talking about us and tell me that he goes with another girl. Should I believe him or the one who tells me? I love him and hate to hear any talk of him. What should I do and what should I believe?

Even if the young man goes with another girl, that is no argument against him. You and he are not engaged and therefore both of you are free to go with whomever you please. When the girl tells you he has gone with some one else, tell her, "What if he has?" Of course if you hear much against his reputation you should be careful about going with him. It would not pay to lose a good name merely because you enjoy his company. Talk the matter over with your parents and get their opinion. Because of their more mature years they are better able to judge the young man's character by seeing and knowing him.

Too Young to Marry.

Dear Mrs. Tohmpson: I am engaged to a young man. He is very nice to me. I am only seventeen years old and my folks think me too young to marry, but I love him and believe he loves me. Will you please advise me? DOLLY.

You are too young to be engaged. Since your parents do not want you to be, tell the young man to wait a few years before asking you to give your promise to him. If your love is real it will stand the test of time.

Negroes Favor Philadelphia.

The migrations of negroes from the southern states to the north have been felt in many states, but Philadelphia, Pa., has especially felt the influx. During the last year there have been on an average 5,000 arriving a month, many of whom endeavored to establish homes, though many moved on.

Rebuilding of Bank Of England Launched; More Room Needed

LONDON—The great task of rebuilding the Bank of England is under way. The architect of the new edifice is Herbert Baker, one of whose earliest works was the building of Groote Schuur for Cecil Rhodes, outside Cape Town.

A considerable amount of discussion has taken place as to how much, if any, of the old building should be incorporated in the new. The Bank of England is generally regarded as the greatest achievement of Sir John Soane, and lovers of London's old buildings were naturally anxious to retain as much of his work as possible. The directors of the bank only wanted more room for their staff, which was vastly increased since Sloane's day.

Land Acquired For Russian Orthodox Seminary in Paris

PARIS.—The Soviet government, having suppressed the seminaries and theological colleges in Russia, the Metropolitan Evlogie, the accredited head of the Russian Church in Europe, has decided to establish a theological academy in Paris and for that purpose has contracted to purchase the sequestered German church and schools in the Rue de la Crimee from the French Government.

Tobacco Growers Numerous.

GALLIPOLIS — Gallia county tobacco growers who came here several days ago to sell their 1924 crops were so numerous that all could not be cared for in one day, as usual. Many of them were forced to remain two days. The crop in this district was good.

To Check Ginger Sale.

COLUMBUS — Legislation designed to control the sale of Jamaica ginger is under consideration, it is reported here. The proposed bill is contemplated as a means of stopping the promiscuous sale of ginger which is said to be assuming a serious phase. The Illinois law probably will be used as a model for drafting the proposed Ohio law. It is planned to sale of ginger to bonafide groceries and drug stores, thus preventing its sale in pool rooms, bowling alleys, ice cream parlors, soft drink establishments and other places, it was stated.

Should the tides in the Bay of Fundy be harnessed, sufficient power can be generated at the Lubec Narrows to supply every industry of New England, it is estimated.

DRINK WATER FREELY IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

COUNTY HEALTH COMMISSIONER FILES REPORT FOR DECEMBER

Birth registrations exceeded the reports of deaths filed with the office of County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church during December, the report for that month discloses and which was issued today.

Only 32 deaths in the territory assigned to the county health commissioner's office were reported.

Three still-born deaths were recorded, and there were four deaths of children of the age up to one year. Two children between the ages of five and 10 years died and one person between the age of 30 and 40 years.

There were six deaths of people between the ages of 50 and 60 years and four died between the age of 60 and 70 years. Six died between the age of 70 and 80 years and a line number of deaths were reported of people between the ages of 80 and 90 years.

Three cases of scarlet fever were reported in December, one in Lisbon village, another in Elkrun township and two in Leetonia. The one case of smallpox was reported in Lisbon. Only one case of measles was reported and that was from Leetonia, while three cases of whooping cough were reported in Fairfield township and one case in Washingtonville. Butler township came to the front with 11 cases of mumps and five cases of mumps were reported in Perry township.

More cases of chickenpox were reported in Lisbon in December than any other community, although the record for this ailment for December shows cases as follows: Butler township 2, Perry township 1, Columbiana 2, Salem township 5.

Tuberculosis is reported as the cause of only one death during December, and this was of an aged person.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

A petition has been filed in common pleas court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Apex Furniture company, of East Palestine. The petition was filed by Attorney L. M. Kyes in behalf of S. B. McClure, who seeks a judgment against Charles F. Rainey, Edward Lane and Donald Fitzsimmons, doing business under the name of the Apex Furniture company. Mr. McClure seeks collection of $3,913.31, balance claimed due on a note for $5,500, bearing date of November 27, 1923, covered by a chattle mortgage on the goods of the Apex Furniture company.

The petition recounts that the assets remaining are not sufficient to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, and that the mortgaged property is in danger of being lost.

VERDICT GIVEN BY MIXED JURY

A jury composed of four women and eight men in common pleas court has returned a verdict for $548.97 in the case of Frank Chalfant, doing business as the Dinwiddie Stave company, against C. A. Spanley and others, the amount being claimed to be due on a car of staves.

The case of Cora D. Layland against William H. Layland, for alimony, which was filed for the plaintiff by Attorney James E. O'Grady, of Wellsville, the court has ordered the defendant to pay the attorney fees of the plaintiff, and then dissolved the restraining order and dismissed the case.

Granted Leave to File.

In the case of the Employers' Mutual Insurance and Service company against H. F. McNutt, which is a claim for $100.80, the court has granted the defendant permission to withdraw the demurrer now on file and has been given leave to file a new demurrer and petition.

Frank M. Laughlin, as defendant in the divorce action filed against him by his wife, Grace M. Laughlin, has been granted leave until February 7

Columbiana

A large crowd, about half of which was from Salem, saw the most exciting game of the season Friday night at the Columbiana gym, when the home boys defeated Salem high by the narrow margin of one point, the final score being 36 to 35. While it was not the best game of the season due to poor shooting on both sides, perhaps the most exciting, due to the natural rivalry between the two teams and the partisanship of the crowds. Columbiana outplayed Salem the greater part of the game. At one point in the fourth quarter, Salem was leading by six points and it looked as though they had the game sewed up, but the local boys spurted and took the lead and succeeded in holding it to the finish. The floor game of the boys was their best of the season and there was no star player, although Burkle led in the scoring with eighteen points, resulting from seven baskets and four foul shots. Rupert guarded Houser closely. Houser was about half of the Salem team, and although he missed many easy shots toward the close of the game, yet scored seventeen points.

The C. H. S. girls were outclassed by 46 to 29, the score at the end of the first half being 28 to 7 for Salem. "Danny" Williaman, Salem's wonder player was three-fourths of the team and made 32 of Salem's points, mostly in the first half. The home girls seemed unable to guard her successfully and she is probably the surest shot that ever appeared on the local floor. Capt. "Sammy" Gleckler made 20 of the 29 points, besides playing a wonderful floor game.

Salem High school will entertain the Class B tournament this year, February 27th and 28th being the dates. Salem, East Liverpool and Wellsville High school teams will compete in the Class A tournament elsewhere, while Columbiana, East Palestine, Lisbon, Hanoverton, Rogers, New Waterford, Fairfield and Salineville will fight it out at Salem. Last year this tournament was held at Columbiana.

Mrs. Evan Roller entertained the Althea club Friday afternoon at her home on North Elm street in honor of Mrs. H. D. McDowell of New London, Conn., who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Schleagel. Mrs. McDowell is a former member of the club.

COUNTY HEALTH COMMISSIONER FILES REPORT FOR DECEMBER

Birth registrations exceeded the reports of deaths filed with the office of County Health Commissioner Dr. T. T. Church during December, the report for that month discloses and which was issued today.

Only 32 deaths in the territory assigned to the county health commissioner's office were reported.

Three still-born deaths were recorded, and there were four deaths of children of the age up to one year. Two children between the ages of five and 10 years died and one person between the age of 30 and 40 years.

There were six deaths of people between the ages of 50 and 60 years and four died between the age of 60 and 70 years. Six died between the age of 70 and 80 years and a line number of deaths were reported of people between the ages of 80 and 90 years.

Three cases of scarlet fever were reported in December, one in Lisbon village, another in Elkrun township and two in Leetonia. The one case of smallpox was reported in Lisbon. Only one case of measles was reported and that was from Leetonia, while three cases of whooping cough were reported in Fairfield township and one case in Washingtonville. Butler township came to the front with 11 cases of mumps and five cases of mumps were reported in Perry township.

More cases of chickenpox were reported in Lisbon in December than any other community, although the record for this ailment for December shows cases as follows: Butler township 2, Perry township 1, Columbiana 2, Salem township 5.

Tuberculosis is reported as the cause of only one death during December, and this was of an aged person.

PETITION FILED FOR RECEIVER

A petition has been filed in common pleas court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Apex Furniture company, of East Palestine. The petition was filed by Attorney L. M. Kyes in behalf of S. B. McClure, who seeks a judgment against Charles F. Rainey, Edward Lane and Donald Fitzsimmons, doing business under the name of the Apex Furniture company. Mr. McClure seeks collection of $3,913.31, balance claimed due on a note for $5,500, bearing date of November 27, 1923, covered by a chattle mortgage on the goods of the Apex Furniture company.

The petition recounts that the assets remaining are not sufficient to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff, and that the mortgaged property is in danger of being lost.

VERDICT GIVEN BY MIXED JURY

A jury composed of four women and eight men in common pleas court has returned a verdict for $548.97 in the case of Frank Chalfant, doing business as the Dinwiddie Stave company, against C. A. Spanley and others, the amount being claimed to be due on a car of staves.

The case of Cora D. Layland against William H. Layland, for allmony, which was filed for the plaintiff by Attorney James E. O'Grady, of Wellsville, the court has ordered the defendant to pay the attorney fees of the plaintiff, and then dissolved the restraining order and dismissed the case.

Granted Leave to File.

In the case of the Employers' Mutual Insurance and Service company against H. F. McNutt, which is a claim for $100.80, the court has granted the defendant permission to withdraw the demurrer now on file and has been given leave to file a new demurrer and petition.

Frank M. Laughlin, as defendant in the divorce action filed against him by his wife, Grace M. Laughlin, has been granted leave until February 7

Columbiana

A large crowd, about half of which was from Salem, saw the most exciting game of the season Friday night at the Columbiana gym, when the home boys defeated Salem high by the narrow margin of one point, the final score being 36 to 35. While it was not the best game of the season due to poor shooting on both sides, perhaps the most exciting, due to the natural rivalry between the two teams and the partisanship of the crowds. Columbiana outplayed Salem the greater part of the game. At one point in the fourth quarter, Salem was leading by six points and it looked as though they had the game sewed up, but the local boys spurted and took the lead and succeeded in holding it to the finish. The floor game of the boys was their best of the season and there was no star player, although Burkie led in the scoring with eighteen points, resulting from seven baskets and four foul shots. Rupert guarded Houser closely. Houser was about half of the Salem team, and although he missed many easy shots toward the close of the game, yet scored seventeen points.

The C. H. S. girls were outclassed by 46 to 29, the score at the end of the first half being 28 to 7 for Salem. "Danny" Williaman, Salem's wonder player was three-fourths of the team and made 32 of Salem's points, mostly in the first half. The home girls seemed unable to guard her successfully and she is probably the surest shot that ever appeared on the local floor. Capt. "Sammy" Gleckler made 20 of the 29 points, besides playing a wonderful floor game.

Salem High school will entertain the Class B tournament this year, February 27th and 28th being the dates. Salem, East Liverpool and Wellsville High school teams will compete in the Class A tournament elsewhere, while Columbiana, East Palestine, Lisbon, Hanoverton, Rogers, New Waterford, Fairfield and Salineville will fight it out at Salem. Last year this tournament was held at Columbiana.

Mrs. Evan Roller entertained the Althea club Friday afternoon at her home on North Elm street in honor of Mrs. H. D. McDowell of New London, Conn., who is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Schleagel. Mrs. McDowell is a former member of the club.

The local post of the American Legion has contracted with the John B. Rogers Producing Co., for the production of a home talent musical comedy, called "Kathleen," to be given at the High school auditorium some time in March, probably the 19th and 20th. From 65 to 75 local young people will be used in this play, which has been very highly recommended.

George Snyder was in Lisbon on business Thursday.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

Procrastinating.

When blessin's like these I own—
Th' patter o' feet thet come down t' meet
My tread; an' th' eager tone
O' someone a callin' frum down th' lane
A song thet is fine—ee angels o' mine
A callin' t' greet me home.
I 'low ther ain't much thet I'm missin' now
Thet Heaven kin hold fer me;
Fer whut end I miss thet is more than this:
Th' shouts o' th' childish glee
O' them thet I love, In th' Over There
Is nothin' fer which I grieve;
Too much uv Its love has come down from above.
Too much uv Its joy t' leave.
In voice thet is soft an' kind.
Ther's plenty, I know, thet awaits.
But—oh!
Ther's too much t' leave behind.

I reckon I ain't in no rush t' wend
Th' length o' th' golden street
When here I kin tread t' th' cot ahead
With glad wings o' love at my fet,
An' there at th' end o' my journeyin' catch
Frum out a' th' ev'nin' gloam

There's Real Medicine Now For Stubborn Hang-On Coughs

When nothing seems to do that lingering, bothersome cough any good just go to Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and get a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion.

Take it as directed and notice how easily it overcomes that persistent cough that has caused you many sleepless nights.

It's a medicine compounded for the purpose of conquering tough, hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly.

There is no dope in Bronchuline Emulsion, nor chloroform, nor sugar—such things are only makeshifts and should be taken with the greatest caution.

For ordinary simple coughs two or three doses of Bronchuline Emulsion is usually enough.

Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and dealers everywhere can supply you.

A Word To New Fans.

The numbers indicate the beginning of a word; the shaded stops indicate the end. In the horizontal column are listed synonyms for the words which fit crosswise from the numbers to the first shaded stop to the right. In the vertical column are listed synonyms to the words which fit downward, from the numbers to the first shaded spot below. Go over the lists rapidly and fill in all the words you feel sure about. They will give you clues to the other words.

VERSE AND WORSE

By Larry Flint

Procrastinating.

When blessin's like these I own—
Th' patter o' feet thet come down t' meet
My tread; an' th' eager tone
O' someone a callin' frum down th' lane
A song thet is fine—ee angels o' mine
A callin' t' greet me home.
I 'low ther ain't much thet I'm missin' now
Thet Heaven kin hold fer me;
Fer whut end I miss thet is more than this:
Th' shouts o' th' childish glee
O' them thet I love. In th' Over There
Is nothin' fer which I grieve;
Too much uv its love has come down from above.
Too much uv its joy t' leave.

In voice thet is soft an' kind.
Ther's plenty, I know, thet awaits.
But—oh!
Ther's too much t' leave behind.

I reckon I ain't in no rush t' wend
Th' length o' th' golden street
When here I kin tread t' th' cot ahead
With glad wings o' love at my fet,
An' there at th' end o' my journeyin' catch
Frum out a' th' ev'nin' gloam

There's Real Medicine Now For Stubborn Hang-On Coughs

When nothing seems to do that lingering, bothersome cough any good just go to Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores, East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and get a bottle of Bronchuline Emulsion.

Take it as directed and notice how easily it overcomes that persistent cough that has caused you many sleepless nights.

It's a medicine compounded for the purpose of conquering tough, hang-on coughs, and that's exactly what it does—quickly and thoroughly.

There is no dope in Bronchuline Emulsion, nor chloroform, nor sugar—such things are only makeshifts and should be taken with the greatest caution.

For ordinary simple coughs two or three doses of Bronchuline Emulsion is usually enough.

Jesse D. Holloway, Carnahan's Drug Stores East Liverpool and Newell, W. Va., and dealers everywhere can supply you.

The pleasure of Florida travel begins the moment you step aboard The Southland. A superb train; all-steel equipment; noted for its faultless service. THE DOUBLE HOUSE

By Elizabeth Dejeans

Her tone revealed a good deal. "Indeed I am. I have been enjoying your divan and my fire."

"May I come?"

"Do."

To Karesia his very presence was restful. "It seems a long time since I saw you last. You're quite settled?"

"Even to the kitchen mop. Are you comfortable over in your house?"

"Yes. Everything about the place reminds me of you. You and cheer are synonymous."

Karesia thought that he looked as if he and cheer had been long parted. He looked grim and worn. "How is Clarice?" she asked gently.

Dascome looked away. "I scarcely—know," he answered slowly. "She can't go on—as she is—for ever. Taki takes her meals to her, he knows her disposition well, and he tells me she is not ill, only grieving—like a dog for its dead master. I haven't seen her for a week. I tried to talk to her, but it was no use."

Karesia was shocked. Only the extremest anxiety would wring such a confession from him. She judged him to be the kind that would endure silently an injury to himself, endure Clarice's unfilial conduct and not complain, but to see her suffer was beyond his endurance; for he loved his daughter. To Karesia it was an utterly painful situation: Rossiter was her husband, there was nothing she could say to comfort Clarice; she would only hurt her the more. She had no doubt that Rossiter, like herself, had considered getting a divorce and marrying Clarice, then had changed his mind. She did not know what to say to Dascome.

The look that rose in his eyes reminded her of Clarice. "I know I should not come to you with any such request, but I am desperate. It has occurred to me that you might persuade Mr. Rossiter to send Clarice some little token of regard—flowers with a word of interest. You will know what is best." He had flushed until he was scarlet.

Karesia had some conception of what the request cost him. He detested Rossiter as completely as Rossiter detested him. "I will," she said quickly. "Rand will do it."

"You see," Dascome explained, "only the fact that she was determined to come here and that she was not of age yet and must have a guardian forced her to accept my guardianship. She will be eighteen very soon, and I am desperately anxious that she should pull out of this fit of despair before she comes into her fortune. She will have ten millions then, and, in her present mood, there is no telling what the child will do."

Karesia's eyes widened. "Ten millions!"

"Yes. From her grandfather's estate. Clarice has extraordinary beauty, she has a fortune as well, and I know that she is capable of utter devotion to any one she loves. She can be influenced by any one she loves—it is the only way in which she can be influenced. As it is with her now—well, I am afraid she may do something desperate."

There had sprung into Karesia's mind a tremendous possibility. John Dascome was a skilful man; he had presented the possibility to her and he watched her change color. He drew an inaudible breath and the lines about his mouth relaxed. "I think a kindly word from Mr. Rossiter, some little attention which would cost him nothing, might lift her out of despair."

The thought that had sprung into Karesia's mind was: "Oh, if only Rand would turn to Clarice—free himself and me! She loves him and her fortune would help him in his enterprise." During that two weeks Dascome had not thrust himself upon Karesia, but he had observed her coming and going with Rossiter; from the set of a woman's shoulders, her walk and general bearing, a close observer can judge pretty accurately whether she is inclined to the man at her side. John Dascome had drawn his own conclusions.

"I shall see what can be done," Karesia said, a little thickly.

"Thank you—very much. It is another great kindness you have done me." Then he dropped the subject. "How is Mary Bliss?" he asked.

Karesia collected herself. "I am certain she is improving. She is losing the cringing, whipped look she used to have. She seems so contended in her pretty room with her sewing and her canary. I want to put her under a doctor's care, but I can't see how to manage it without frightening her to death."

"Why not wait a little?" Dascome advised. "I knew you would be interested, so I asked Colt to find out all he could about her. He telegraphed to St. Catherine's Orphans' Home in Montreal. He made some notes which I have here." Dascome took from his pocket the paper which he had carried about with him for two weeks. "According to the asylum records, Mary Bliss was born deficient. Undoubtedly she has been ill-treated and over-worked, and I think she is hysterical. A physician would prescribe exactly what you are doing for her, rest and good food and an avoidance of excitement. If a physician were not very skilful, he might frighten her into an attack that would be fatal."

"The nuns give good training, Mrs. Kaime. Many of the nuns of St. Catherine's are gentlefolk. It is an old and honorable institution."

"Poor Mary Bliss!" Karesia said softly. "Her fortune marred before she was born. A theosophist would explain it, I suppose. The orthodox would say that it was the will of God." She smiled up at Dascome, her eyes robbing her words of abruptness. "When are you going to tell me your history?"

A flash of expression crossed his face; Karesia did not know whether it was surprise or annoyance or pain, and instantly she was regretful. Her question had been involuntary, simply a craving for greater intimacy. When he smiled it was a relief. "I told you to investigate me—didn't you?"

Karesia laughed a little. "I'm afraid I'm not a model landlady. I have never asked any one except yourself a single question about you."

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Beans—Soak the beans overnight in cold water. In the morning pour off the water in which they were soaked and put on fresh and cook until the skins will roll up when you put a few in a pound of salt pork in the middle of the beans and bake slowly for about two hours.

Ventilation is just as important—more so in fact—in the winter than in the summer. No house is healthy that does not admit fresh air freely. This rule applies just as much to the kitchen as to any other room in the house. When washing or cooking are going on in a house in cold weather the windows are quite likely to steam up. If they are opened slightly at the top the steam will drift out and will not cloud windows. This is not always possible, though, and if the steam does cloud the glass it may be wiped off with paper. Some housewives use ordinary newspaper, others say that they save all the tissue paper that comes into the house for this purpose. Tissue paper may also be used to wipe the dust off the inside of the windows.

Three pounds uncooked veal chopped fine with one pound pork, six butter crackers rolled fine, two beaten eggs, salt, pepper and a little sage. Mix well together, put in a greased pan and baste occasionally while cooking. Bake two hours.

Chocolate Sauce — One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, quarter teaspoon salt, two tablespoons cocoa or two squares chocolate, one cup boiling water. Mix first ingredients together and gradually add the water, boil up, add one teaspoon butter and serve over the cake.

SUGGESTIONS.

When ironing pongee blouses or drapes, if you do not dampen them the material remains soft and lustrous and the results are much more satisfactory.

Corks placed in bottles containing gum, glue, shoe polish, and other sticky substances are often difficult to remove. They will not stick if a little glycerine is rubbed over them.

To remove pecan meats from shells, pour hot water over the pecans, letting them soak about ten minutes. Drain off the water, let them cool and then crack the shells. The pecan meats may then be removed in halves.

If riced potatoes are desired and no potato ricer is to be had, put the potatoes through the food chopper. This has been found to be very handy.

Remove the brush from the carpet sweeper and wash it in a quart of water to which a large tablespoon of ammonia has been added. Wipe off all the moisture you can with a cloth, replace the brush in sweeper and you will be surprised at the results.

By covering a well-greased pan with cheesecloth when baking a large fish, it will be found very easy to lift out of the pan without losing its shape.

Is Doubting Thomas No Longer

"All medicines and doctors for stomach trouble proved worthless in my case. Everybody recommended something else and nothing helped, so I became a doubting Thomas as to any cure. While in St. Louis a party praised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I bought a bottle and I am now a doubting Thomas no longer." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Steinach Too Poor To Continue Work; May Come to U. S.

VIENNA—Dr. Eugene Steinach, world-famous inventor of the "rejuvenation" theory, intends to leave Vienna shortly and seek pastures new, as he cannot raise the necessary money for buying his instruments and animals for new experiments.

It is reported that Steinach has received several advantageous offers from the United States and Czecho-Slovakia, where more interest is being displayed in his system than in his own country.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead o serious lung trouble. You can stop them ow with Creomulsion, an emulsified creoote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion s a new medical discovery with twofold acion; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Answers to Questions
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau can not give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Was Robert Lincoln ever our representative to England?—L. E. R.

A. Robert Todd Lincoln served as minister to the Court of St. James from 1889 to 1893. Mr. Lincoln is the son of Abraham Lincoln, and lives in Washington, making his home in the historic Georgetown section.

Q. What are the largest and smallest counties in the United States?—G. A.

A. San Bernardino county, California, is the largest with an area of 20,175 square miles, and Bristol county, Rhode Island, with an area of 25 square miles is the smallest.

Q. Will all State legislatures be in session this winter—C. S.

A. During 1925 the legislatures of 42 out of the 48 states will be in session regularly, and it is possible that extra or special sessions will be held in others.

Q. How do Christmas waits dress in England?—H. M. C.

A. Now-a-days these Christmas serenaders do not appear in costume. In olden times they wore blue gowns with red sleeves and caps and a silver collar or chain about the neck.

Q. Will rubber-tired vehicles wear down the surface of a concreate road?—B. R.

A. Tests conducted by the Bureau of Public Roads have led government experts to the conclusion that rubber-tired traffic alone does not appreciably abrade the surface of a concrete pavement.

Q. Are minerals single elements or a combination of elements?—C. O.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the various metals are single elements, and combine with other elements, such as oxygen, to form ores, rock, etc. There are 92 such elements, of which 87 have been discovered. The atoms of these elements are composed of two kinds of particles in different numbers and arrangements; positive nuclei and negative electrons. It has been proved possible to break up some of these atoms into simpler atoms, and the belief is tentatively held by some that they were formed originally under high pressure and temperature.

Q. Who were Admiral Dot and Major Atom?—M. A. D.

A. Admiral Dot was a dwarf smaller than Tom Thumb, who was exhibited by P. T. Barnum. Major Atom was the former's nephew.

Q. Of what magazine was Sarah J. Hale, the editor?—D. H. S.

A. In 1828 S. J. Hale became editor of the "Ladies' Magazine." In 1837 this periodical united with "Godeys Ladies' Book" of which Mrs. Hale was literary editor for more than forty years. The familiar poem which begins, "It snows," cries the schoolboy—is by her.

Q. Is the tense of the subordinate clause the same as that of the principal clauses?—T. P. C.

A. The tense of the subrodinate clause is not necessarily the same as that of the principal, but the tense is determined by that of the principal.

Q. Shortly after putting a new fire into a locomotive a terrific rumbling results. What causes this?—L. V. S.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that the rumbling is due to the volatile matter in coal which is drawn off as gas. This gas burns rapidly or explodes.

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive all congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

Earl Massacre at Verdun.

Verdun, which became blood-soaked during the world war, had been the scene of previous heavy bloodshed, one of the instances having been in the general massacre of Jews by peasants in a religious misconception in the fourteenth century. This was in about 1317. There was not a Jew in England from 1610 to 1624, and for some time after 1394 there was none in France.

A chapel built on the bridge near Rotherham, England, for pilgrims in 1483, and which later became a tobacco store, has been restored, rechristened and reopened as a religious edifice.

Bread-Always your First Thought

WHENEVER you must prepare a hasty luncheon or a late evening supper, what do you think of first? Sandwiches, isn't it? And a sandwich is at least three-fourths bread. Too, if its BETSY ROSS Bread it is the most nourishing food you can serve.

BETSY ROSS is rich in the essential food elements. Why, a pound loaf contains 59% of the proteins, 38% of the carbohydrates, and 77% of the mineral salts, such as iron, calcium and phosphorus, needed by the body each day. No other single food supplies such large proportions of these elements.

But, because "There's a difference in bread" it will be to your advantage to select the high food-value loaf. Don't just say "bread"—say BETSY BOSS.

Club Sandwich

Trim crust from three slices of BETSY ROSS and toast. Butter one slice and cover with roast chicken cut thin. Butter both sides of next slice and lay over chicken. Cover with lettuce and lay strips of freshly fried bacon over lettuce. Pour on a little mayonnaise dressing and cover with third slice of toasted bread. Cut diagonally and garnish with sliced tomato, pickle and olive.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Beans—Soak the beans overnight in cold water. In the morning pour off the water in which they were soaked and put on fresh and cook until the skins will roll up when you put a few in a pound of salt pork in the middle of the beans and bake slowly for about two hours.

Ventilation is just as important—more so in fact—in the winter than in the summer. No house is healthy that does not admit fresh air freely. This rule applies just as much to the kitchen as to any other room in the house. When washing or cooking are going on in a house in cold weather the windows are quite likely to steam up. If they are opened slightly at the top the steam will drift out and will not cloud windows. This is not always possible, though, and if the steam does cloud the glass it may be wiped off with paper. Some housewives use ordinary newspaper, others say that they save all the tissue paper that comes into the house for this purpose. Tissue paper may also be used to wipe the dust off the inside of the windows.

Three pounds uncooked veal chopped fine with one pound pork, six butter crackers rolled fine, two beaten eggs, salt, pepper and a little sage. Mix well together, put in a greased pan and baste occasionally while cooking. Bake two hours.

Chocolate Sauce — One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour or cornstarch, quarter teaspoon salt, two tablespoons cocoa or two squares chocolate, one cup boiling water. Mix first ingredients together and gradually add the water, boil up, add one teaspoon butter and serve over the cake.

SUGGESTIONS.

When ironing pongee blouses or drapes, if you do not dampen them the material remains soft and lustrous and the results are much more satisfactory.

Corks placed in bottles containing gum, glue, shoe polish, and other sticky substances are often difficult to remove. They will not stick if a little glycerine is rubbed over them.

To remove pecan meats from shells, pour hot water over the pecans, letting them soak about ten minutes. Drain off the water, let them cool and then crack the shells. The pecan meats may then be removed in halves.

If riced potatoes are desired and no potato ricer is to be had, put the potatoes through the food chopper. This has been found to be very handy.

Remove the brush from the carpet sweeper and wash it in a quart of water to which a large tablespoon of ammonia has been added. Wipe off all the moisture you can with a cloth, replace the brush in sweeper and you will be surprised at the results.

By covering a well-greased pan with cheesecloth when baking a large fish, it will be found very easy to lift out of the pan without losing its shape.

Is Doubting Thomas No Longer

"All medicines and doctors for stomach trouble proved worthless in my case. Everybody recommended something else and nothing helped, so I became a doubting Thomas as to any cure. While in St. Louis a party praised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I bought a bottle and I am now a doubting Thomas no longer." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Steinach Too Poor To Continue Work; May Come to U. S.

VIENNA—Dr. Eugene Steinach, world-famous inventor of the "rejuvenation" theory, intends to leave Vienna shortly and seek pastures new, as he cannot raise the necessary money for buying his instruments and animals for new experiments.

It is reported that Steinach has received several advantageous offers from the United States and Czecho-Slovakia, where more interest is being displayed in his system than in his own country.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead o serious lung trouble. You can stop them ow with Creomulsion, an emulsified creote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion e a new medical discovery with twofold acion; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Q. Was Robert Lincoln ever our representative to England?—L. E. R.

A. Robert Todd Lincoln served as minister to the Court of St. James from 1889 to 1893. Mr. Lincoln is the son of Abraham Lincoln, and lives in Washington, making his home in the historic Georgetown section.

Q. What are the largest and smallest counties in the United States?—G. A.

A. San Bernardino county, California, is the largest with an area of 20,175 square miles, and Bristol county, Rhode Island, with an area of 25 square miles is the smallest.

Q. Will all State legislatures be in session this winter—C. S.

A. During 1925 the legislatures of 42 out of the 48 states will be in session regularly, and it is possible that extra or special sessions will be held in others.

Q. How do Christmas waits dress in England?—H. M. C.

A. Now-a-days these Christmas serenaders do not appear in costume. In olden times they wore blue gowns with red sleeves and caps and a silver collar or chain about the neck.

Q. Will rubber-tired vehicles wear down the surface of a concreate road?—B. R.

A. Tests conducted by the Bureau of Public Roads have led government experts to the conclusion that rubber-tired traffic alone does not appreciably abrade the surface of a concrete pavement.

Q. Are minerals single elements or a combination of elements?—C. O.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the various metals are single elements, and combine with other elements, such as oxygen, to form ores, rock, etc. There are 92 such elements, of which 87 have been discovered. The atoms of these elements are composed of two kinds of particles in different numbers and arrangements; positive nuclei and negative electrons. It has been proved possible to break up some of these atoms into simpler atoms, and the belief is tentatively held by some that they were formed originally under high pressure and temperature.

Q. Who were Admiral Dot and Major Atom?—M. A. D.

A. Admiral Dot was a dwarf smaller than Tom Thumb, who was exhibited by P. T. Barnum. Major Atom was the former's nephew.

Q. Of what magazine was Sarah J. Hale, the editor?—D. H. S.

A. In 1828 S. J. Hale became editor of the "Ladies' Magazine." In 1837 this periodical united with "Godeys Ladies' Book" of which Mrs. Hale was literary editor for more than forty years. The familiar poem which begins, "It snows," cries the schoolboy—is by her.

Q. Is the tense of the subordinate clause the same as that of the principal clauses?—T. P. C.

A. The tense of the subrodinate clause is not necessarily the same as that of the principal, but the tense is determined by that of the principal.

Q. Shortly after putting a new fire into a locomotive a terrific rumbling results. What causes this?—L. V. S.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that the rumbling is due to the volatile matter in coal which is drawn off as gas. This gas burns rapidly or explodes.

RED PEPPER HEAT BREAKS BAD CHEST COLDS OVER NIGHT

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive all congestion and soreness right out.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

Probe of Delaney Bout Asked By Flowers' Manager

Runyon Says

You Can Out-Game Old Death.
It's a Matter of Mental Courage.
Mike Egan "Beat It" at Saranac.
Swinnerton Went to the Desert.
Only the Faint-Hearted Fail.

By DAMON RUNYON.
(Copyright, 1925, by International Feature Service.)

IF you should go to Saranac Lake, haven of hope for those afflicted with tuberculosis, you will ride from the railroad station to your hotel in one of Mike Egan's vehicles.

If you are an old-timer, the name Mike Egan may have a familiar ring. Years ago he was the handball champion of America, a great athlete. Handball is a game requiring good physicial condition, agility, a keen eye.

It is the same that brings every muscle into play. Great handball players are as rare as great players in any other game. Mike Egan was a marvel.

You wouldn't have given a nickel for Mike Egan's life when they took him off the train at Saranac. He weighed ninety-five pounds. He had twenty-four hemorrhages in a few hours.

But he "beat it," as they say of victory over "TB."

He kept his mental courage. He refused to concede the possibility of defeat, which meant the grave.

Doctors will tell you that in the fight to "beat" tuberculosis, Mental courage is as important as the medical treatment. It is fifty per cent of the battle.

Most everyone, in my opinion, who goes to Saranac with "TB."... can "beat it," if they retain their Mental courage and adhere strictly to the rules of treatment.

But self-discipline, which is part of Mental courage, also is important. There is no royal road to "beating it" at Saranac, or anywhere else.

And doctors will tell you that a little self-discipline, a little mental courage in the observance of the ordinary rules of health, will generally "beat" tuberculos's before it has a chance to start.

It is a wonderful spot for rest and recreation, even if you aren't seeking to "beat" tuberculosis. It is the principal seat of Winter sports in America.

Christy Mathewson, once famous pitcher of the New York Giants, now president of the Boston Braves, maintains a permanent home at Saranac Lake. Mathewson went there with a desperate case of "TB."

He wasn't expected to live more than a few weeks. But he apparently has "beat it."

Like Egan, Mathewson outgamed death.

He fought it as he had often fought on the baseball field, cooly, carefully.

He knew he was in the ninth inning of life when he went to Saranac, with the score 3 to 1 against him.

But he had "pulled out" many cases more desperate than that on the baseball field by keeping his mental courage, by never losing his nerve, and he "pulled out" this one.

"I'll go to Arizona, all right," he said, "but not to die. I'll go there TO LIVE!"

You see Swinnerton today tanned, rugged looking, and you wouldn't believe he was one sentenced to death.

He "beat it" in Arizona by living out in the desert, by never permitting himself to become depressed, discouraged. And he was living under conditions and in isolated localities calculated to produce depression.

Other men of his profession went to Arizona in Swinnerton's time and died, mainly because they were MENTALLY "licked" from the start.

Swinnerton refused to give up. He laughed at the idea of losing his fight, of dying. He OUT-GAMED death by his MENTAL courage.

That is why he is living now and making a lot of money.

Of course, it isn't absolutely necessary to go to Saranac Lake, or Arizona, to "beat" tuberculosis.

They merely happen to be places where climate may be added to medical treatment.

Some doctors say with MENTAL courage, you can "beat" the dread "TB" anywhere, that climate is wholly secondary.

The writer once lived in Colorado, and in those days many celebrities of sport came drifting that way seeking climatic surcease.

You could find them in the sporting resorts, talking of old friends, and old times "back East." It was interesting to observe the different mental attitudes.

Some had abandoned hope from the moment the doctors told htem they "had it." They stood around, listless, depressed, with no further aim or ambition. They felt they were exiles, hopeless, doomed.

Their interest in life had departed. They were simply waiting for the end. Their MENTAL courage was gone, though they may have been lions in PHYSICAL courage.

Then there were others who, so far from thinking of dying, were just commencing to LIVE.

They had changed their former system of life, had abandoned late hours, dissipation, and were briskly seeking something to turn their hands to while trying to regain their health.

You will find many of these still living in Colorado, healthy, happy, prosperous. Some of the others, the spiritless ones, may also still be in Colorado, but they are NOT living.

Nothing At All.

Benny Leonard says he is quitting the ring because of his mother's requests. This makes it plain that his stage contracts, the vision of Sid Terris and his poor showing in his last bout had nothing to do with the decision.

No Relation.

Buffalo International League club has purchased from the Portsmouth club a player named Applegate. No relation to the well-known applecart.

HARMON-JONES SET FOR SCRAP

Eastern Sensation Comes Across With Forfeit Money.

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 21. — Willie Harmon of New York, who will battle with Jimmy Jones at the Rayen-Wood auditorium here on Friday night, was dealt a $200 wallop by the Youngstown boxing commission when he was forced to come across with the rest of his forfeit money.

Harmon had posted $.00 with the commission but the contracts called for $400. Kelley, Harmon's manager, finally produced the balance.

As a result arrangements for the scrap are tapering off to the point of completion. Harmon will arrive in Youngstown probably today and will finish up his training here.

Jones has been going about his training with more pep and vim than usual and sends word that he will give the eastern sensation more than he bargains for.

On paper it appears that Jones may be in for a lacing. Records of the past few months show that Harmon has beaten decisively Eddie Bernbrook, Georgie Ward, K. O. Phil Kaplan, Harry Martone and Paul Doyle, all welters considered of first class rating in the east. Recently in Pittsburgh Harmon handed a flock of fists to Eddie Shevlin of Boston. Matt Hinkel of Cleveland will be referee.

The rest of the card shapes up well, with Eddie Bowen taking on Homer LeBlanche of Detroit, in an eight rounder; Ray Schauers meeting Young Riley of Dayton in eight rounds, and Pinkie Kauffman with Bobby Milo of Meadville in the six-round opener. The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m.

Stoops to See Old Friends On Trip In Hancock County

Former Weirton and New Cumberland Mentor Bringing in Normal Five for Series of Contests.

Coach Stoops will be on familiar territory when he leads his squad to Chester, New Cumberland and Weirton this week. While he was principal and coach at Weir High in 1919 the Weir High girls' basketball team won sixteen straight games under his tutelage and many still argue that the team was the greatest ever seen at Weirton. That same year the boys had a very successful season, winning the county championship and about 18 out of 25 games played. In 1920 Stoops went to New Cumberland as superintendent of schools and coach of athletics. While at New Cumberland he won championships in baseball and football. Basketball was not played as there was no gym in New Cumberland then. Pje Harrington played center on Coach Stoops' 1919 basketball team at Weirton and he will oppose his former mentor Saturday night.

The West Liberty Normal team is not optimistic concerning Saturday night's game. The small floor at Weir High will be somewhat of a handicap and Coach Stoops realizes that Jimmy Anderson, former Carnegie Tech star, has a real team, which recently held Bethany college to a one-point victory. The Normalites will be satisfied if they can hold Anderson's quint to a close count. Record of team to date:

West Liberty 19, Glenville State Normal 18.
West Liberty 32, Alumni 29.
West Liberty 15, Parkersburg Caseys 31.
West Liberty 20, Salem College 24.
West Liberty 27, Broaddus College 26.

The last three games were played on a trip down state.

ACME PASSERS DEFEAT NEWELL

The Acme basketball team defeated the Newell high school passers, 40 to 25, in a well played contest last night on the St. Stephen's floor.

Acme.		Newell High.
Mackey	F.	C. Nease
Manypenny	F.	G. Deems
Kinney	C.	L. Nease
Carey	G.	Wanson
Dyer	G.	Rariden

Substitutions—Watkins for Manypenny, McCormick for Wanson, Pollock for Watkins.

Field goals—Mackey 9, Manypenny 3, Pollock 3, Kinney 2, Carey 2, C. Nease 4, Deems 1, L. Nease 4, Rariden 1.

Last Night's Fights

NEW YORK—Ed. Garvey, South Bend, Ind., and Dan Bright, England, fought a draw, six rounds; Ed. Keely, Bridgeport, Conn., knocked out Dan O'Connell, Bayonne, N. J., third round.

POWELL BECOMES SALES DIRECTOR

William "Bill" Powell, former National league pitcher, who for two years has been in the real estate business in Flint, Mich., has located in Pittsburgh, where he will be in charge of a corps of salesmen who will dispose of property near the Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

Later another office of his company, it is understood, will be established in Philadelphia which also will be under his direction.

RUBIEN'S TEAM IS ANNOUNCED

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—There will be weeping and wailing and grinding of the incisors by certain young men of the spiked shoe profession when they give Frederick W. Rubien's all-American track and field team, announced today, the optical left to right.

Mr. Rubien, as secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., can be said to have his index finger on the pulse of the situation at all times, yet some of his selections are not quite open to comprehension.

By nightfall, for example, it is possible that De Hart Hubbard, University of Michigan Negro and justifiably proud of his broad jumping ability, may be one of the four out of five who masticate with the bare gums. Hubbard beat 24 feet more times than any jumper in the world last year and as far as my knowledge goes, finished the season undefeated. He won the western conference title, the Olympic tryouts at Boston, the Olympic title itself at Paris and finally the national championship.

Was he named as the best broad jumper in this country? He was not.

The place went to Bob Legendre of Newark A. C., who broke the world's record by clearing a fraction more than 25 feet six inches and then called it a campaign. Legendre was beaten by Hubbard, Ned Gourdin, W. Dowdin gand Al Rose at the national meet; in fact, failed to place at all.

Hubbard may be placated by the fact he was named as the best in the hop, step and jump, but I doubt it. The event lacks consequence.

Another selection that may bruise the finer sensibilities of our hardy athletes is that of Horatio Fitch, Chicago A. A., in the quarter mile. Horatio came along like the wind at the Olympic games, and in addition to breaking the record in his heat, chased Eric Liddell right into another new mark in the 400 metre finals. Then he stopped in his tracks. He made a poor showing at the United Kingdom versus America games in London and followed it up by finishing to the rear of Jimmy Burgess, G. T. Stevenson and Cliff Stowers at the national championships.

LUTHERANS WIN FROM M.E. SQUAD

Victors Obtain Verdict in Last Quarter Rally.

In one of the outstanding Sunday school league contests of the present season, the Lutherans defeated the Methodist Episcopal quint, 21 to 15, last night on the high school floor. The contest developed a classy brand of basketball.

Both the Lutheran and the M. E. Intermediates played a bang-up game of basketball from start to finish. The Methodists started the scoring when Pyles counted from the foul line. D. Woessner tied it up for the Lutherans.

Bromby registered a field goal and the M. E. passers took the lead. This they held until the first half closed with the score standing 10 to 6.

In the third period the Lutherans managed again to tie the score thru the sharpshooting of Furrer, Davis and Woessner. The end of the third quarter found the score 12 to 12. Field goals by Woessner and Anthony sent the Lutherans ahead.

Karns' foul and Bromby's field goal advanced the M. E. lads, but Davis retaliated with a two-pointer for the Lutherans who at this juncture possessed a five-point margin. A final free toss by Schneidmiller made it six.

Davis and G. Woessner were the main factors in the Lutheran victory while the lossers as a whole put up a good game, with Bromby and Furrer outstanding.

Lutherans.		First M. E.
D. Woessner	F.	Furrer
Anthony	F.	Bromby
Schneidmiller	C.	Brozka
Davis	G.	Pyles
G. Woessner	G.	Karns

Foul goals—Davis 3, G. Woessner 2, D. Woessner, Schneidmiller, Bromby 2, Karns 2, Pyles.

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor; scorer, Kimes.

Lutheran Juniors.		M. P. Juniors.
M. Barlow	F.	Angus
Greenwood	F.	Bettridge
A. Woessner	C.	Bailey
Badgley	G.	Burke
J. Barlow	G.	Ankrim

Foul goals — Ankrim 3, Burke 2, Greenwood, Badgley, M. Barlow, Woessner.

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor; scorer, Cooper.

Complaint Will Be Filed Before State Boxing Commission

Gloves Used by Victor Not up to Requirements, is Intimation; Other "Squawk" Day Demands to be Voiced.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—This is squawk day at the meeting of the New York state Athletic commission. According to a program outlined in advance, Walk Miller, manager of Tiger Flowers, is expected to go before the commission to request an investigation of Flowers' recent knockout at the hands of Jack Delaney. Miller has been quoted as saying that he suspected that Delaney's gloves did not fulfill the requirements of the boxing code.

Paddy Mullins, manager of Harry Wills, also has announced his intention of registering a protest. He declares that he will request the commission that, in the event Jack Dempsey is persuaded to reconsider his announced retirement, the champion is forced to meet Wills before taking on Tom Gibbons.

Plans for a lightweight elimination tournament to determine a successor to Benny Leonard will be discussed at the meeting.

Probe of Delaney Bout Asked By Flowers' Manager

Runyon Says

You Can Out-Game Old Death.
It's a Matter of Mental Courage.
Mike Egan "Beat It" at Saranac.
Swinnerton Went to the Desert.
Only the Faint-Hearted Fall.

By DAMON RUNYON.
(Copyright, 1925, by International Feature Service.)

IF you should go to Saranac Lake, haven of hope for those afflicted with tuberculosis, you will ride from the railroad station to your hotel in one of Mike Egan's vehicles.

If you are an old-timer, the name Mike Egan may have a familiar ring. Years ago he was the handball champion of America, a great athlete. Handball is a game requiring good physical condition, agility, a keen eye.

It is the same that brings every muscle into play. Great handball players are as rare as great players in any other game. Mike Egan was a marvel.

Like many athletes, he contracted tuberculosis.

You ask why athletes seem more susceptible to this dread malady than ordinary mortals.

It is perhaps because they are athletes. They are confident of their strength, careless of exposure.

You wouldn't have given a nickel for Mike Egan's life when they took him off the train at Saranac. He weighed ninety-five pounds. He had twenty-four hemorrhages in a few hours.

But he "beat it," as they say of victory over "TB."

He kept his mental courage. He refused to concede the possibility of defeat, which meant the grave.

Doctors will tell you that in the fight to "beat" tuberculosis, Mental courage is as important as the medical treatment. It is fifty per cent of the battle.

Most everyone, in my opinion, who goes to Saranac with "TB," can "beat it," if they retain their Mental courage and adhere strictly to the rules of treatment.

The cool, clean air of Saranac helps, no doubt of that. It is a wonderfully soothing tonic to the disease-bruised lungs.

But self-discipline, which is part of Mental courage, also is important. There is no royal road to "beating it" at Saranac, or anywhere else.

And doctors will tell you that a little self-discipline, a little mental courage in the observance of the ordinary rules of health, will generally "beat" tuberculos's before it has a chance to start.

It is a wonderful spot for rest and recreation, even if you aren't seeking to "beat" tuberculosis. It is the principal seat of Winter sports in America.

Christy Mathewson, once famous pitcher of the New York Giants, now president of the Boston Braves, maintains a permanent home at Saranac Lake. Mathewson went there with a desperate case of "TB."

He wasn't expected to live more than a few weeks. But he apparently has "beat it."

Like Egan, Mathewson outgamed death.

He fought it as he had often fought on the baseball field, cooly, carefully.

He knew he was in the ninth inning of life when he went to Saranac, with the score 3 to 1 against him.

But he had "pulled out" many cases more desperate than that on the baseball field by keeping his mental courage, by never losing his nerve, and he "pulled out" this one.

They tapped his chest, wagged their heads solemnly, and told Swinnerton to go to Arizona TO DIE! Swinnerton laughed.

"I'll go to Arizona, all right," he said, "but not to die. I'll go there TO LIVE!"

You see Swinnerton today tanned, rugged looking, and you wouldn't believe he was one sentenced to death.

He "beat it" in Arizona by living out in the desert, by never permitt'ng himself to become depressed, discouraged. And he was living under conditions and in isolated localit'es calculated to produce depression.

Other men of his profession went to Arizona in Swinnerton's time and died, mainly because they were MENTALLY "licked" from the start.

Swinnerton refused to give up. He laughed at the idea of losing his fight, of dying. He OUT-GAMED death by his MENTAL courage.

That is why he is living now and making a lot of money.

Of course, it isn't absolutely necessary to go to Saranac Lake, or Arizona, to "beat" tuberculosis.

They merely happen to be places where climate may be added to medical treatment.

Some doctors say with MENTAL courage, you can "beat" the dread "TB" anywhere, that climate is wholly secondary.

The writer once lived in Colorado, and in those days many celebrities of sport came drifting that way seeking climatic surcease.

You could find them in the sporting resorts, talking of old friends, and old times "back East." It was interesting to observe the different mental attitudes.

Some had abandoned hope from the moment the doctors told htem they "had it." They stood around, listless, depressed, with no further aim or ambition. They felt they were exiles, hopeless, doomed.

Their interest in life had departed. They were simply waiting for the end. Their MENTAL courage was gone, though they may have been lions in PHYSICAL courage.

Then there were others who, so far from thinking of dying, were just commencing to LIVE.

They had changed their former system of life, had abandoned late hours, dissipation, and were briskly seeking something to turn their hands to while trying to regain their health.

You will find many of these still living in Colorado, healthy, happy, prosperous. Some of the others, the spiritless ones, may also still be in Colorado, but they are NOT living.

HARMON-JONES SET FOR SCRAP

Eastern Sensation Comes Across With Forfeit Money.

YOUNGSTOWN, Jan. 21.—Willie Harmon of New York, who will battle with Jimmy Jones at the Raven-Wood auditorium here on Friday night, was dealt a $200 wallop by the Youngstown boxing commission when he was forced to come across with the rest of his forfeit money.

Harmon had posted $.00 with the commission but the contracts called for $400. Kelley, Harmon's manager, finally produced the balance.

As a result arrangements for the scrap are tapering off to the point of completion. Harmon will arrive in Youngstown probably today and will finish up his training here.

Jones has been going about his training with more pep and vim than usual and sends word that he will give the eastern sensation more than he bargains for.

On paper it appears that Jones may be in for a lacing. Records of the past few months show that Harmon has beaten decisively Eddie Bornbrook, Georgie Ward, K. O. Phil Kaplan, Harry Martone and Paul Doyle, all welters considered of first class rating in the east. Recently in Pittsburgh Harmon handed a flock of fists to Eddie Shevlin of Boston. Matt Hinkel of Cleveland will be referee.

The rest of the card shapes up well, with Eddie Bowen taking on Homer LeBlanche of Detroit, in an eight rounder; Ray Schauers meeting Young Riley of Dayton in eight rounds, and Pinkie Kauffman with Bobby Milo of Meadville in the six-round opener. The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m.

Nothing At All.

Benny Leonard says he is quitting the ring because of his mother's requests. This makes it plain that his stage contracts, the vision of Sid Terris and his poor showing in his last bout had nothing to do with the decision.

Stoops to See Old Friends On Trip In Hancock County

Former Weirton and New Cumberland Mentor Bringing in Normal Five for Series of Contests.

Coach Stoops will be on familiar territory when he leads his squad to Chester, New Cumberland and Weirton this week. While he was principal and coach at Weir High in 1919 the Weir High girls' basketball team won sixteen straight games under his tutelage and many still argue that the team was the greatest ever seen at Weirton. That same year the boys had a very successful season, winning the county championship and about 18 out of 25 games played. In 1920 Stoops went to New Cumberland as superintendent of schools and coach of athletics. While at New Cumberland he won championships in baseball and football. Basketball was not played as there was no gym in New Cumberland then. Pje Harrington played center on Coach Stoops' 1919 basketball team at Weirton and he will oppose his former mentor Saturday night.

The West Liberty Normal team is not optimistic concerning Saturday night's game. The small floor at Weir High will be somewhat of a handicap and Coach Stoops realizes that Jimmy Anderson, former Carnegie Tech star, has a real team, which recently held Bethany college to a one-point victory. The Normalites will be satisfied if they can hold Anderson's quint to a close count. Record of team to date:

West Liberty 19, Glenville State Normal 18.

West Liberty 32, Alumni 20.

West Liberty 20, Salem College 24.

West Liberty 27, Broaddus College 26.

The last three games were played on a trip down state.

ACME PASSERS DEFEAT NEWELL

The Acme basketball team defeated the Newell high school passers, 40 to 25, in a well played contest last night on the St. Stephen's floor.

Acme.		Newell High.
Mackey	F.	C. Nease
Manypenny	F.	G. Deems
Kinney	C.	L. Nease
Carey	G.	Wanson
Dyer	G.	Rariden

Substitutions—Watkins for Manypenny, McCormick for Wanson, Pollock for Watkins.

Field goals—Mackey 9, Manypenny 3, Pollock 3, Kinney 2, Carey 2, C. Nease 4, Deems 1, L. Nease 4, Rariden 1.

RUBIEN'S TEAM IS ANNOUNCED

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—There will be weeping and wailing and grinding of the incisors by certain young men of the spiked shoe profession when they give Frederick W. Rubien's all-American track and field team, announced today, the optical left to right.

Mr. Rubien, as secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., can be said to have his index finger on the pulse of the situation at all times, yet some of his selections are not quite open to comprehension.

By nightfall, for example, it is possible that De Hart Hubbard, University of Michigan Negro and justifiably proud of his broad jumping ability, may be one of the four out of five who masticate with the bare gums. Hubbard beat 24 feet more times than any jumper in the world last year and as far as my knowledge goes, finished the season undefeated. He won the western conference title, the Olympic tryouts at Boston, the Olympic title itself at Paris and finally the national championship.

Was he named as the best broad jumper in this country? He was not.

The place went to Bob Legendre of Newark A. C., who broke the world's record by clearing a fraction more than 25 feet six inches and then called it a campaign. Legendre was beaten by Hubbard, Ned Gourdin, W. Dowdin gand Al Rose at the national meet; in fact, failed to place at all.

Hubbard may be placated by the fact he was named as the best in the hop, step and jump, but I doubt it. The event lacks consequence.

Another selection that may bruise the finer sensibilities of our hardy athletes is that of Horatio Fitch, Chicago A. A., in the quarter mile. Horatio came along like the wind at the Olympic games, and in addition to breaking the record in his heat, chased Eric Liddell right into another new mark in the 400 metre finals. Then he stopped in his tracks. He made a poor showing at the United Kingdom versus America games in London and followed it up by finishing to the rear of Jimmy Burgess, G. T. Stevenson and Cliff Stowers at the national championships.

LUTHERANS WIN FROM M.E. SQUAD

Victors Obtain Verdict in Last Quarter Rally.

In one of the outstanding Sunday school league contests of the present season, the Lutherans defeated the Methodist Episcopal quint, 21 to 15, last night on the high school floor. The contest developed a classy brand of basketball.

Both the Lutheran and the M. E. Intermediates played a bang-up game of basketball from start to finish. The Methodists started the scoring when Pyles counted from the foul line. D. Woessner tied it up for the Lutherans.

Bromby registered a field goal and the M. E. passers took the lead. This they held until the first half closed with the score standing 10 to 6.

In the third period the Lutherans managed again to tie the score thru the sharpshooting of Furrer, Davis and Woessner. The end of the third quarter found the score 12 to 12. Field goals by Woessner and Anthony sent the Lutherans ahead.

Karns' foul and Bromby's field goal advanced the M. E. lads, but Davis retaliated with a two-pointer for the Lutherans who at this juncture possessed a five-point margin. A final free toss by Schneidmiller made it six.

Davis and G. Woessner were the main factors in the Lutheran victory while the lossers as a whole put up a good game, with Bromby and Furrer outstanding.

Lutherans.		First M. E.
D. Woessner	F.	Furrer
Anthony	F.	Bromby
Schneidmiller	C.	Brozka
Davis	G.	Pyles
G. Woessner	G.	Karns

Foul goals—Davis 3, G. Woessner 2, D. Woessner, Schneidmiller, Bromby 2, Karns 2, Pyles.

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor; scorer, Kimes.

Lutheran Juniors.		M. P. Juniors.
M. Barlow	F.	Angus
Greenwood	F.	Bettridge
A. Woessner	C.	Bailey
Badgley	G.	Burke
J. Barlow	G.	Ankrim

Foul goals — Ankrim 3, Burke 2, Greenwood, Badgley, M. Barlow, Woessner.

Referee, McConville; timer, Bloor, scorer, Cooper.

PICTURESQUE PIONEER STAGE DRIVER OF OREGON CARRIES WHIP TO GRAVE

PORTLAND, Ore.—"Carry me to my grave in a horsedrawn carriage and put a whip in my hand."

It was the dying request of Cyrus Willard Barger, one of the picturesque pioneer stage drivers of the Northwest country. And his friends heeded it by taking him to his final resting place at Silvertop, Ore., in a hearse drawn by two of the finest black horses that could be found. His favorite silver-mounted whip was placed in his right hand, in his coffin.

For nearly fifty years Barger drove stages in Oregon, Idaho, British Columbia, Arizona and the Yosemite Valley. For 40 years he was a trusted employe of Wells-Fargo & Co., leaving the firm when the march of progress removed horses for motorized equipment. He had charge of the company stables in California and was known as one of the best of reinmen wherever a stage coach rumbled over the rugged Northwest areas.

Barger first snapped a whip over a six-in-hand at the age of 20. His father, John Barger, was a '49er who settled land that is now part of Silverton, the old home of the late Homer Davenport, notable cartoonist. His mother was Rebecca J. Barger, for years queen of the Pioneer Mothers, and who died six years ago in Portland at the age of 95.

Barger traveled the Northwest when Indians and road agents lay in wait to ambush stages carrying mail and bullion. His last drive was out of Idaho when robbers held up his bullion-laden vehicle as a rumbled along the route from the Idaho mines to Pendleton.

Barger was literally "driven indoors" when the motor car supplanted the stage coach. For several years the veteran reinsman was night watchman of the Oregon Journal, of Portland, his death being almost coincidental with that of his friend, C. S. Jackson into Pendleton in 1879 and Jackson later became agent for the stage company for which Barger drove. Barger—his whip in hand and violin under his arm—was known throughout the Northwest in the early days. He drove stage during the day and played for dances at the various stations at night.

The Pendleton Round-Up was an attraction which brought Barger to Eastern Oregon every September. There he annually met his old friend of the stage coach days, in recounting the "good old days"—brought back by the arena deeds at the round-up.

Barger was born at Silverton and was married twice. Two daughters survive him—Miss Edna Barger, of San Francisco, and Miss Nellie Barger, of Spokane.

TWO TOUGH ONES FOR BOLES' FIVE

WOOSTER, Jan. 21.—Akron at Akron Thursday and Denison at Wooster Saturday evening is the basketball card which the Wooster college court squad faces this week. Both games will be tough battles. Coacn L. C. Boles began the week with a long scrimmage Monday evening in preparation for them. Wooster's starting lineups for either game will remain in doubt until the last minute.

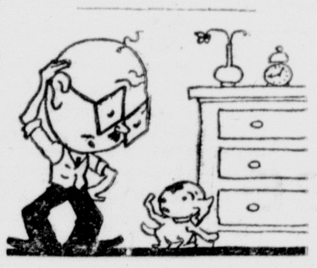

"Red" Love, star of the Frosh five last season, hasn't been hitting his stride yet. In the opening game with Baldwin-Wallace he counted five field goals. Since then he hasn't been able to get a marker from the floor. His floor work has been excellent.

"Dutch" Pfeiffer got back into the game against Case last Saturday night and helped Wooster to a 30 to 17 victory by getting seven field goals. Pfeiffer was Wooster's leading scorer last year and has been out of the game this season because of injuries.

Coach Boles is working his squad of twelve to the limit this week against the strong Frosh five. Various combinations are being tried to give Wooster a strong offensive team. The probable lineup is a big question but will be picked from Captain Hurst, Manly and McGlashan for guards; Starn, Gee and Anderson for center and Love, Pfeiffer and Dodez for the forwards.

THE REVIEW-TRIBUNE

CRITIC LAUDS 'MEET THE WIFE'

Farce Comedy Adds to Its Laurels at Wilmington.

"Meet the Wife," farce comedy, which is the attraction at the Ceramic Theatre, Thursday evening, is a "treat," according to the dramatic critic of the Wilmington, (O.,) Daily News. Says the News:

"Did you Meet the Wife" at the Murphy Theater Tuesday night? If not, you missed a treat. This farce comedy is sparkling with humor, wit, and startling as well as amusing situations, and the generous applause indicated the "wife" was well received.

The story is one growing out of the San Francisco earthquake. The wife's first husband, taking advantage of the fire which followed the quake, disappears, leaving his wife and infant daughter. The supposition is that he was killed in the catastrophe, but not so. He was taken aboard a pirate ship, he declared, held captive a year, then landed in England, where he takes the name Philip Lord, enters the literary field, becomes a noted writer, and as such "the wife" goes wild over him, not knowing his identity. Lord makes a tour of America, lecturing before woman's clubs, and accepts an invitation from Mrs. Harvey Lennox, the "wife," to be guest at her home while in New York.

Three months after the supposed death of the first husband, the "wife" marries Harvey Lennox and they go to New York to reside. It is the Lennox home that the husbands "Meet the Wife," and the situations and developments which follow are mirth-provoking, ludicrous, and enlightening.

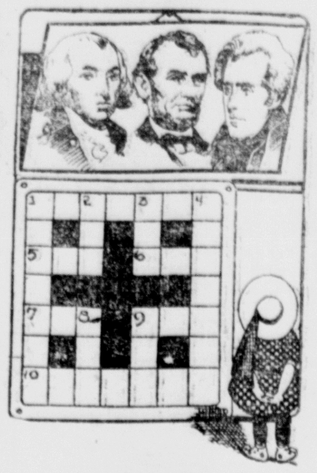

"A love story with the daughter of Mrs Lennox as the center in interwoven, and the inconsistencies of people who endeavor to live outside their natural spheres and selves form one of the backgrounds for the incongruous situations. All ends well, for the girl marries her true love, the first husband obligingly obliterates himself, and the second husband plans to go to San Francisco in the hope that another earthquake might give him freedom from the "wife."

"Augusta Bolyson as the "wife," Donald Campbell as Harvey Lennox, Messenger Bellis as Philip Lord, and Clay Cody as the effeminate young artist who is after the daughter—and incidentally her fortune—are the high lights in the cast."

If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across).

Word 7. A household pest.

Word 9. The sentinel was pacing to and —.

Word 10. The nickname of an American baseball team.

(Running Down).

Word 1. "Give me — or give me death."

Word 2. Used by fishermen.

Word 3. A grain much enjoyed by horses.

Word 4. A synonym for the word in capitals in this sentence. "The boy was FEARFUL as he waited to have his tooth pulled."

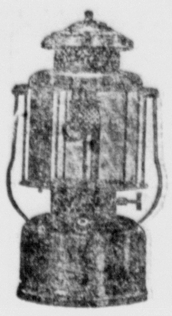

Word 8. Two thousand pounds.

"Training Table" Keeps Pretty Chorines in Trim

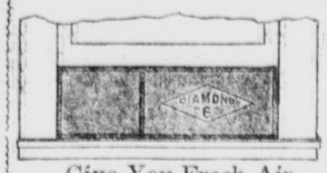

Chorus girls in one New York show are now subject to football squad discipline. They eat at a training table, and have daily exercises under the supervision of Jack Ryder, Boston college gridiron coach. The plan has been such a success in keeping the girls free from excess weight and in good physical condition, that other producers are going to take it up. Miss Katherine Ray (above) is one of the chorines who are enthusiastic about the benefits of the innovation.

Managerial Duties Will Shorten Playing Days of Collins

It is generally believed that the managerial duties, finally thrust upon the hands of Eddie Collins, will shorten materially the playing days of the great second baseman Collins has but few rivals at second base in the game s history. Photos above form an interesting study of Collins in action afield.

PICTURESQUE PIONEER STAGE DRIVER OF OREGON CARRIES WHIP TO GRAVE

PORTLAND, Ore.—"Carry me to my grave in a horsedrawn carriage and put a whip in my hand."

It was the dying request of Cyrus Willard Barger, one of the picturesque pioneer stage drivers of the Northwest country. And his friends heeded it by taking him to his final resting place at Silvertop, Ore., in a hearse drawn by two of the finest black horses that could be found. His favorite silver-mounted whip was placed in his right hand, in his coffin.

For nearly fifty years Barger drove stages in Oregon, Idaho, British Columbia, Arizona and the Yosemite Valley. For 40 years he was a trusted employe of Wells-Fargo & Co., leaving the firm when the march of progress removed horses for motorized equipment. He had charge of the company stables in California and was known as one of the best of reinmen wherever a stage coach rumbled over the rugged Northwest areas.

Barger first snapped a whip over a six-in-hand at the age of 20. His father, John Barger, was a '49er who settled land that is now part of Silverton, the old home of the late Homer Davenport, notable cartoonist. His mother was Rebecca J. Barger, for years queen of the Pioneer Mothers, and who died six years ago in Portland at the age of 95.

Barger traveled the Northwest when Indians and road agents lay in wait to ambush stages carrying mail and bullion. His last drive was out of Idaho when robbers held up his bullion-laden vehicle as a rumbled along the route from the Idaho mines to Pendleton.

Barger was literally "driven indoors" when the motor car supplanted the stage coach. For several years the veteran reinsman was night watchman of the Oregon Journal, of Portland, his death being almost coincidental with that of his friend, C. S. Jackson into Pendleton in 1879 and Jackson later became agent for the stage company for which Barger drove. Barger—his whip in hand and violin under his arm—was known throughout the Northwest in the early days. He drove stage during the day and played for dances at the various stations at night.

The Pendleton Round-Up was an attraction which brought Barger to Eastern Oregon every September. There he annually met his old friend of the stage coach days, in recounting the "good old days"—brought back by the arena deeds at the round-up.

Barger was born at Silverton and was married twice. Two daughters survive him—Miss Edna Barger, of San Francisco, and Miss Nellie Barger, of Spokane.

TWO TOUGH ONES FOR BOLES' FIVE

WOOSTER, Jan. 21.—Akron at Akron Thursday and Denison at Wooster Saturday evening is the basketball card which the Wooster college court squad faces this week. Both games will be tough battles. Coach L. C. Boles began the week with a long scrimmage Monday evening in preparation for them. Wooster's starting lineups for either game will remain in doubt until the last minute.

"Red" Love, star of the Frosh five last season, hasn't been hitting his stride yet. In the opening game with Baldwin-Wallace he counted five field goals. Since then he hasn't been able to get a marker from the floor. His floor work has been excellent.

"Dutch" Pfeiffer got back into the game against Case last Saturday night and helped Wooster to a 30 to 17 victory by getting seven field goals. Pfeiffer was Wooster's leading scorer last year and has been out of the game this season because of injuries.

Coach Boles is working his squad of twelve to the limit this week against the strong Frosh five. Various combinations are being tried to give Wooster a strong offensive team. The probable lineup is a big question but will be picked from Captain Hurst, Manly and McGlashan for guards; Starn, Gee and Anderson for center and Love, Pfeiffer and Dodez for the forwards.

German Kulture Extending.

BERLIN—German "Kulture" is extending its field and has discovered a new subject fit for school teaching. Berlin has started a "school for mixers," which bears the pompus name of "mixing school of the international bar masters."

THE REVIEW-TRIBUNE

CRITIC LAUDS 'MEET THE WIFE'

Farce Comedy Adds to Its Laurels at Wilmington.

"Meet the Wife," farce comedy, which is the attraction at the Ceramic Theatre, Thursday evening, is a "treat," according to the dramatic critic of the Wilmington, (O.,) Daily News. Says the News:

"Did you Meet the Wife" at the Murphy Theater Tuesday night? if not, you missed a treat. This farce comedy is sparkling with humor, wit, and startling as well as amusing situations, and the generous applause indicated the "wife" was well received.

The story is one growing out of the San Francisco earthquake. The wife's first husband, taking advantage of the fire which followed the quake, disappears, leaving his wife and infant daughter. The supposition is that he was killed in the catastrophe, but not so. He was taken aboard a pirate ship, he declared, held captive a year, then landed in England, where he takes the name Philip Lord, enters the literary field, becomes a noted writer, and as such "the wife" goes wild over him, not knowing his identity. Lord makes a tour of America, lecturing before woman's clubs, and accepts an invitation from Mrs. Harvey Lennox, the "wife," to be guest at her home while in New York.

Three months after the supposed death of the first husband, the "wife" marries Harvey Lennox and they go to New York to reside. It is the Lennox home that the husbands "Meet the Wife," and the situations and developments which follow are mirth-provoking, ludicrous, and enlightening.

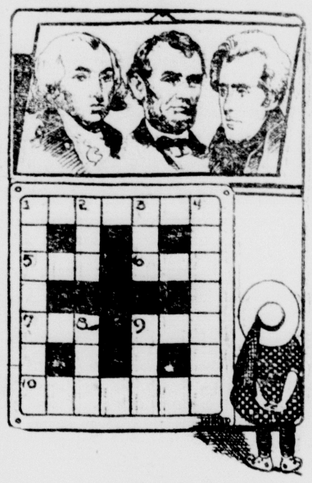

"A love story with the daughter of Mrs Lennox as the center in interwoven, and the inconsistencies of people who endeavor to live outside their natural spheres and selves form one of the backgrounds for the incongruous situations. All ends well, for the girl marries her true love, the first husband obligingly obliterates himself, and the second husband plans to go to San Francisco in the hope that another earthquake might give him freedom from the "wife."

"Augusta Bolyson as the "wife." Donald Campbell as Harvey Lennox. Messenger Bellis as Philip Lord, and Clay Cody as the effeminate young artist who is after the daughter—and incidentially her fortune—are the high lights in the cast."

CHRISTIANIA.—The Norwegian Prime Minister has written to the Norwegian Shipowners' association urging the necessity of taking precautions to prevent chartered Norwegian ships from being used in the liquor smuggling trade in America.

CHILDRENS CROSS WORD PUZZLE

How to Solve Puzzle.

The words start in the numbered squares and run either across or down. Only one letter is placed in each white square. If the proper words are found each combination of letters in the white squares will form words. The key to the puzzle—the first word—is given in the drawing. Below are keys to the other words.

(Running Across).

Word 7. A household pest.

Word 9. The sentinel was pacing to and —.

Word 10. The nickname of an American baseball team.

(Running Down).

Word 1. "Give me — or give me death."

Word 2. Used by fishermen.

Word 3. A grain much enjoyed by horses.

Word 4. A synonym for the word in capitals in this sentence. "The boy was FEARFUL as he waited to have his tooth pulled."

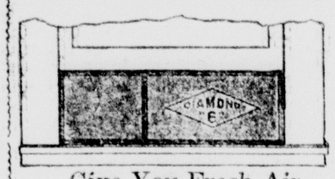

Word 8. Two thousand pounds.

"Training Table" Keeps Pretty Chorines in Trim

Chorus girls in one New York show are now subject to football squad discipline. They eat at a training table, and have daily exercises under the supervision of Jack Ryder, Boston college gridiron coach. The plan has been such a success in keeping the girls free from excess weight and in good physical condition, that other producers are going to take it up. Miss Katherine Ray (above) is one of the chorines who are enthusiastic about the benefits of the innovation.

REV. HARRY KAYE GIVES SERMON

Rev. Harry G. Kaye of New Castle, Pa., spoke to a large audience last evening at the Pennsylvania Avenue Church of Christ. His subject was "Excuses and Excused." He spoke in part as follows:

"The banquet these people were invited to was a great feast. Whoever will may come. Every one is invited to the banquet hall. It is a universal banquet. The banquet Jesus Christ prepared suited everybody. Christ prepared a banquet that meets the demands of everybody. I say the invitation is given every one. We are going to consider some excuses that people make for not coming into the gospel kingdom. The devil is in the excuse business. When the devil tells you that you have an invitation tomorrow night he is making excuses. The first excuse some people make is I am afraid they will talk about me. The Lord is not using secret service men in his service. You are no better than my Lord Jesus Christ and he was talked about. There is no salvation beyond the grave. You have got to be saved on this side of the grave or not at all."

REVIVAL MEETS STILL CONTINUE

Rev. R. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., delivered a strong sermon last evening at the Oakland Free Methodist church where he is conducting evangelistic services. At the close of the sermon six persons came forward. He was assisted in the services by Rev. J. O. Archer, Rev. A. L. Duncan and Rev. Floyd Daw. The meetings are being largely attended.

Noonday Meeting.

Evangelist H. G. Wilkin of Freeport, Ill., will speak at the noonday shop meeting tomorrow in the Smith-Phillips plant. Rev. J. O. Archer, pastor of the Oakland Free Methodist church, will be the leader.

Birthday Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Cunningham entertained a number of friends last evening at their home in Ohio avenue in honor of their son, James, fourteenth birthday anniversary. Music and games were the pastimes of the evening. Mrs. Cunningham served refreshments.

A vulcanizer to be used in laying non-leaking roofs has been invented.

JACKSON CENTER, PA., COAL MINER LAUDS KA-DI-OK

WILLIAM HOGEN

Mr. William Hogen, whose address is R. R. No. 20, Jackson Center, Pa., is another who has joined the hosts in praise of Ka-di-ok, the wonderful medicine, the almost miraculous reports from all sections of the country making it the most-talked of and highly praised medicine existing.

Mr. Hogan is a miner in the employ of Mercer Iron and Coal Co., and is a member of I. O. O. F. Lodge 501, Stoneboro, Pa. He suffered almost continuously from gas on the stomach, with resultant pains in the region of the heart. Reading of what Ka-di-ok had done for others who suffered similarly to himself, he began a treatment of this medicine, with the result that a few weeks afterward he told the Ka-di-ok representative that he was feeling much better, the gas pains had about left him, and he considered himself in fine shape. He now sleeps "like a boy," and declares Ka-di-ok to be just what is claimed for it "Fine!"

Ka-di-ok will do many other wonderful things than is above described. It is recommended for the several ailments of the stomach which make life miserable for thousands, such as indigestion, loss of appetite, constipation, etc. It is a foe to rheumatism, kidney and liver ailments, headaches, bad blood, etc.

Life is only too short at the utmost, so it behooves all to prolong it as far as possible. Ka-di-ok may be the medium to do this.

Fat Now Brushed Away.

A South American doctor has introduced into the capitals of Europe a new reducing method that is attracting attention of the overfat. He prescribed dry scrubbing for the fleshy parts of the body with a brush slightly softer in bristles than an ordinary kitchen brush. Rubs four or five times a day, he says, will carry away a pound of flesh a week.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Fat Now Brushed Away.

A South American doctor has introduced into the capitals of Europe a new reducing method that is attracting attention of the overfat. He prescribed dry scrubbing for the fleshy parts of the body with a brush slightly softer in bristles than an ordinary kitchen brush. Rubs four or five times a day, he says, will carry away a pound of flesh a week.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $3. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.
